ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

FINAL **

Vol. 101. No. 182. (71st Year). ST. LOUIS, TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1949 —30 PAGES PRICE 5 CENTS

CITY TO APPEAL TO COLE COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT ON TRANSIT PASS

Will File Within Few Days Petition for Review of Fare Proceedings Before Missouri Commission.

The city of St. Louis will appeal to Cole County Circuit Court at Jefferson City in the effort to have Public Service Co.'s weekly bus and streetcar pass restored, City Counselor George L. Stemmler announced today.

A petition for review of the fare proceedings before the Missouri Public Service Commission will be filed in the court either this week or early next week, as soon as it can be prepared. The commission overruled the city's motion for a rehearing, at Jefferson City yesterday.

Stemmler discussed the decision to appeal with Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann today, before and after a conference Stemmler held with his associate in utility matters, Forrest G. Ferris Jr.; Director of Public Utilities Harry C. Brockhoff and President Milton M. Kinsey of the city's Board of Public Service.

It was noted at City Hall that those participating in these discussions did not consult Director of Public Safety Charles J. Riley. An independent effort to intervene in the case, in support of the pass, was made by Riley Saturday. The commission yesterday rejected his intervention and denied his motion for a rehearing. Riley had questioned the stand of Brockhoff, a colleague on the Board of Public Service, in the fare case.

No Change in Schedules.

Many bus and streetcar riders have complained about dropping the pass and there were some scattered indications of a possible loss of riders as the result of making the principal fare 10 cents cash. The new fare schedule became effective yesterday. A company spokesman said today that it would take a week or 10 days to make any reliable determination of the effect on its business.

In the meantime, the company said, there has been no change in the operating schedules or the number of busses and cars in service. The company also asserted that normal running-time schedules were being observed, although there have been some reports by drivers and motormen that they were slowed somewhat in making change.

Testimony About Complaints.

A company official, John W. Dameron, executive assistant, testified in court yesterday that in the last week, the company had received more telephone calls and letters complaining about the pass elimination than it had received over other fare changes in a similar period of time. In the week ending last Sunday there were 139 complaints by telephone and 50 by mail, he said.

Dameron testified in support of an application for change of venue in a $100,000 personal injury suit against the company. Nine bus and car operators also testified, saying they had heard an unusual amount of criticism among passengers over the pass elimination. The company contended that it could not get a fair trial in the case by St. Louis or St. Louis county jurors as a result of this condition, but witnesses for the plaintiff asserted there was no such prejudice. Circuit Judge William K. Koerner denied the change of venue today and started trial of the case. He said it had been shown that the pass elimination caused protests, criticism and some resentment, but not enough in his opinion to make a fair trial impossible.

Teterboro, N.J., 11:06 a.m.

TETERBORO, N.J., March 8 (AP)—Bill Odom soared in from Honolulu at 12:06 a.m. (11:06 St. Louis time) today setting a 5000-mile world's non-stop record for light planes.

The 29-year-old former World War II ferry pilot, already holder of the world-circling speed record, touched down his tiny monoplane at this North Jersey airport 36 hours and one minute after leaving Honolulu.

It was Odom's second attempt to bring his small plane non-stop from Honolulu to Teterboro, which is about four miles west of New York City across the Hudson river.

Makes a Perfect Landing.

Odom streaked over the field, circled it, and then came in for a perfect landing. His plane was followed by an ambulance and two fire trucks, and hundreds of persons immediately swarmed around the craft.

Odom hopped out and crouched on the right wing for pictures and well-wishing handclasps. He was hatless, but quickly put on the gray homburg which he wore when he left Honolulu.

"I feel just like a business man, coming home on an easy trip," he said. "The only trouble I had was over the Rocky Mountains, where I had some bad weather.

"Once I let my tank go dry while I was making a recording here in the plane, and I found my engine went dead. The plane dropped down through the clouds and I had a helluva time finding an opening again."

He encountered icing conditions at times, Odom said, which forced him to descend from 11,000 feet to 5000 to melt the ice on the plane's wings.

Pilot Is Clean Shaven.

A broad grin on his face, Odom finally pushed his way through the crowd and into the lounge of the Atlantic Aviation Co. His face was clean shaven and he did not appear too weary.

Odom explained that he was able to let go of the controls to shave with an electric razor and to change his shirt. The plane has no automatic pilot, but flies on an even keel by itself, he said.

Odom said he had 14 gallons of gasoline left. He left Honolulu with 288 gallons. "It was easy—all I want to do is sit down," he said.

Odom first came into prominence in April 1947 when he and Milton Reynolds flew around the world.

Odom's last effort to fly a light plane non-stop between Hawaii and New York ended at Oakland airport in California because icing conditions and headwinds turned him back over the high Sierras in January. But his flight was the first light plane trip between Hawaii and the mainland and set a distance record for planes of the Bonanza category of 2406 miles.

The former record was 2061 miles set by two Russians between Moscow and Krasnoyarsk in September 1937. Odom's elapsed time was 22 hours, 6 minutes for the Hawaii-Oakland flight.

Odom flew over San Francisco at 3:50 p.m. (St. Louis time) yesterday.

After skirting a snowstorm over Wyoming and rain squalls over Nebraska and Iowa, he headed into good flying weather.

By the time Odom reached Nebraska he had already flown farther in a lighter plane than Col. Charles Lindbergh flew in his 3600-mile non-stop flight from New York to Paris in 1927. Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" was a 225-horsepower plane with a 38-foot wingspan.

ELECTION BOARD SCRATCHES 6 OF 17 IN SHOW CAUSE ORDER

3 of 10 Registered as Voters From 4th Ward Democratic Office Eliminated.

The names of three of the 10 persons registered from the headquarters of the Fourth Ward Regular Democratic Organization at 2431 North Spring avenue were stricken from the registration lists by the Board of Election Commissioners today.

The names of two of four persons registered from rooms above a tavern at 5342 Natural Bridge avenue also were removed and the wife of a Negro attorney who gave her husband's office as her voting address was stricken from the rolls.

The six were among 17 persons ordered by the Board of Election Commissioners last week to show cause why their names should not be scratched. The board's order followed disclosure in the Post-Dispatch of apparent discrepancies in the North Spring and Natural Bridge avenues addresses.

Those whose names were knocked off were John T. Collins, John T. Moran and Joseph A. O'Hara of the Fourth Ward headquarters; Marcella M. Melton and Doris M. Roche of the Natural Bridge address, and Mrs. Velma Lawson, wife of DeWitt T. Lawson, Negro attorney, who registered from 2738A Franklin avenue.

GETS CITY LIGHTS CONTRACT OVER UNION PROTEST

The Board of Public Service today disregarded the protest of a delegation representing the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and awarded a $525,302 contract for maintenance of the city's street lights to a Brentwood concern.

The protesting delegation, headed by Frank W. Jacobs, international vice president, argued against awarding the contract to R. L. McManemin & Co. on the grounds that the contractor did not have the necessary qualified supervisory personnel and would not pay the prevailing wages for the work.

Despite the protest, the board awarded the contract for a three-year period to the company, which was the lowest of three bidders. The last contract cost the city $550,000.

BRITISH KING TO UNDERGO OPERATION FOR AILING LEGS

Certain Nerves Will Be Severed in Hope of Relieving Arterial Trouble.

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—King George VI will undergo an operation soon in the hope of relieving an arterial ailment of the legs.

Buckingham Palace said the operation will be a lumbar sympathetomy, or the severing of certain nerves to improve the blood supply to the King's right foot.

SHREWSBURY GAS WORKERS WARNED TO RETURN TO JOBS

200 in Jurisdictional Dispute Told to Go Back by Tomorrow or Be Taken Off Payroll.

Employes of the Shrewsbury plant of the Laclede Gas Light Co., who refused to cross a one-man picket line and report to work this morning in a jurisdictional union dispute, were given until 8 a.m. tomorrow to go back to work or be taken off the company payroll and lose their seniority rights.

The ultimatum was given to a group of some 200 workers gathered in Shrewsbury boulevard by Alfred Hirsh, vice president of the company, who said that under the maintenance of membership clause in the company's contract with the CIO United Gas, Coke & Chemical Workers' Union, Local No. 6, this action was mandatory.

Company Seeks Injunction.

Meanwhile, the company filed a petition in circuit court at Clayton for a temporary injunction restraining Leo Bachinski, business agent of the AFL Operating Engineers Union, Local 148, and 29 members from "inciting, supporting, or participating in any strike or refusal to work for the company in St. Louis county."

Before addressing the men in front of the plant, Hirsh conferred with supervisory employes in the plant, who have been keeping it in operation. The plant supplies gas for 75,000 county users.

After reviewing the merger of St. Louis County Gas Co. with Laclede, Hirsh said Laclede inherited the AFL union and its contract at the Shrewsbury plant. He told of the National Labor Relations Board election, which was won by the CIO union, which has some 600 employes at the company's plants in the city.

Booed by Some in Crowd.

As he spoke, several men in the crowd booed him.

"Local No. 6," Hirsh said, "has every right to insist that you (AFL members) join that union or los eyour seniority rights and be removed from the payroll."

Again they booed him, and one man shouted: "We stuck with you all during the war when we could have gone out and gotten better jobs. You asked us to stay. Now look at the way you're treating us."

Following this, Hirsh said: "We will give you until 8 a.m. tomorrow to return to work or lose your seniority and be dropped from the payroll."

Before a group of eight supervisory employes took over operation of the plant about noon, eight night shift workers kept it running. When several AFL men went into the plant to see what

Small Animal in Sewer Pipe Causes Big Tie-Up on Gravois

Efforts of police, firemen and the Humane Society to find a small animal that ran into a 15-inch sewer pipe on the west side of River des Peres, north of Gravois road, caused a crowd to gather and resulted in a traffic jam this morning.

First attempts to locate the animal—a dark gray creature variously described as a dog, a fox, a wolf and a coyote—proved to be unsuccessful. The crowd began assembling, and traffic on Gravois was held up more than 10 minutes as firemen used high-pressure hoses to flush the sewer. More than 100 children stayed beyond the time for school opening to watch the activity.

Police Corp. Lester Whitmore and Patrolman Joseph Gartner, riding in a scout car, first spotted the animal at 5:30 o'clock this morning as it darted out of New St. Marcus Cemetery and down the bank of the river, which has only puddles of water in it now.

Using their spotlight, the officers followed the animal as it raced along the bank, going from one side of the river to the other. Finally, it ran into the sewer pipe and did not emerge.

The officers, believing they had seen one of the coyotes reported in the area recently, called their district. Fire Engine Company 36 and Sgt. Harold Present of the Humane Society soon were at the scene.

It was discovered that the sewer pipe, used to carry away storm waters, led into the cemetery, where it has two openings. Both openings, however, are covered by a grate, leaving the animal an opportunity of getting out only where it went in.

The city's water department got into the search when someone discovered there was an animal in an adjoining sewer pipe. After a large hole had been dug and an opening made in the pipe, an eight-pound opossum was prodded out.

BILL WOULD BAR TAKING 'KICKBACKS' ON EYEGLASSES

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8—An "anti-kickback" bill to prohibit payment of rebates or commissions in connection with the filling of prescriptions for eyeglasses was introduced in the House today.

The bill, offered by Representative Walter V. Lay of St. Louis and three other House members, is similar to one recently introduced by Lay to prohibit druggists from paying "kickbacks" on prescriptions written by physicians.

The new bill would require the State Board of Optometry to revoke the license of any person who accepts, in addition to his professional fee for fitting eyeglasses, any rebate, commission or other payment, directly or indirectly, in connection with the writing or filling of a prescription for prisms or lenses.

Other Representatives who joined Lay in introducing the bill were John W. Green and William A. Cole of St. Louis, and James McKinley Neal of Kansas City.

CITY PLANS CHECK BY 3 INSPECTORS ON WHOLESALE BAKERS' HYGIENE

Food, Insect and Rat Control Specialists to Work as Team—Will Make Recommendations for Each Plant.

Three inspectors from the City Health Division will be detached from their regular duties next week to start an inspection of wholesale bakeries in St. Louis, Dr. J. Earl Smith, Health Commissioner, announced yesterday.

The inspectors, acting as a single crew, will be specialists in food control, insect control and rat control, Dr. Smith said. They will prepare a general report of the situation for Dr. Smith, and a set of specific recommendations for each bakery.

Dr. Smith has previously opposed the use of employes of his office for the inspection of wholesale bakeries on the ground there were more pressing matters which demanded their attention.

In his announcement yesterday he did not change this position, but said that in view of worry on the part of the public, caused by the filing of federal actions based on alleged interstate shipment of contaminated bread, the inspections had been decided upon "in order to clarify the situation, prepare a plan of action for improvement and to prevent an undue amount of concern."

"By the very nature of the process, bakery products, including bread, do not involve any considerable public health danger because the temperatures reached in the process of baking destroy all harmful organisms," Dr. Smith said. "The notable exception is the preparation of cream-filled cakes and pies, but in the present situation, as far as is known, no evidence has been uncovered that would indicate these are being prepared in an unsanitary manner."

Retail bakeries have been inspected at intervals for several years as a part of the general program of restaurant and rat control inspection, Dr. Smith said. George F. Reeves, chief of the food control section of the division, said inspectors visit retail bakeries at intervals of from six to nine months.

Authority to Close Bakeries.

Inspectors have the authority to close bakeries if conditions warrant, Reeves said, but this has not been found necessary. Some operators have been summoned to commissioner's hearings, but have corrected objectionable conditions without more drastic action, he said.

"It is recognized that bakery inspection is ultimately a proper function of the City Health Division," Dr. Smith said. "However, assumption of the function on a routine basis should await the correction of the respective legal responsibilities of the state and city. It should be applied progressively so as to permit the proper development of adequate standards and of trained personnel on the local level."

The state maintains inspectors here for the sanitary control of food manufacturing, processing and distribution, he continued. In 1946 the state and city agreed that the inspection of wholesale bakeries could best be carried out by the state inspectors, Dr. Smith said.

Proposal to Legislature.

"The existing legal basis under state law is still unsatisfactory to both the state and city health divisions," Dr. Smith said. "The agencies have jointly proposed to the legislature that fees collected in the city be collected by the Department of Revenue and returned to the city to support local inspection of wholesale bakeries and other similar wholesale establishments.

"Such funds as now collected should be adequate to provide a satisfactory amount and type of inspection. Although such a bill has been proposed and introduced, it has failed to pass. If routine inspections of such establishments were started by the city, they would be duplicating the state inspection and causing the expenditure of city collected funds in a wasteful manner."

Any additional load imposed on the Health Division at present by the inspection of wholesale bakeries must result in a loss in the effectiveness of other programs, Dr. Smith said. He said that, because they were deemed of more immediate concern, the division had been concentrating its attention on such food industries as dairies, restaurants and meat slaughtering establishments, and in its preventive medical services.

BARBER CONVICTED OF BAD JOB ON WOMAN'S HAIRCUT

CHICAGO, March 8 (INS)—The wife of a University of Chicago student tearfully exposed her haircut in Grand Crossing Court yesterday.

Mrs. Roy Mackal, 26 years old, told Municipal Judge Smith:

"Look at this mess. It's half man's haircut. I don't know what the other half is. But I know it humiliates me. Because of it I stayed home from a university party when I was supposed to be a hostess."

Russell Kortum, 42, the barber, defended his job, saying it is the latest style in Los Angeles and New York.

Judge Smith found Kortum guilty on a charge of disorderly conduct and assault on Mrs. Mackal's blond hair, saying the haircutting job "looked more like Splitpea, Tenn."

Kortum will be sentenced March 15.

PENNY POSTCARDS AT 2 CENTS? NEVER, CRY CONGRESSMEN

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — Congressional friends of the penny postcard yelled bloody murder today at plans to mark it up to two cents. The plans are those of the Post Office Department, which is going into the red at the rate of $550,000,000 this year.

"Diabolical," asserted Representative Edwin A. Hall (Rep.), New York, today. "Asinine. Impossible. Raising the penny postcard to two cents is the best way I know of making the poor man shoulder the Post Office deficit. It's an American institution. It must not be abolished."

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson has no romantic ideas about the penny postcards. They are putting the Post Office Department in the hole to the sum of $57,000,000 this year.

All told, the Post Office handled 3,600,000,000 penny cards in 1948, of which nearly three billion were the stamped variety sold in post offices and about 700,000 the souvenir variety.

Each Government postal card, he said, costs the Post Office Department 2.59 cents to print and handle. By upping the price to 2 cents, Donaldson said he thought his department would save $36,000,000.

BAKER WHO KNOWS HOUSEWIFE VIEW SELLS BREAD FOR 8 CTS.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (UP)—Henry Streicher is selling bread at 8 cents for a one-pound loaf.

Streicher, 37 years old, runs a combination bakery and restaurant. He says he got the housewife's viewpoint of high prices because of the prices wholesalers were charging him, and he went out to beat the game by baking and selling bread 6 cents lower than most of his competitors. He says he can make about a half-cent a loaf selling a big family size loaf for 8 cents.

New Police Board Head Says He Wouldn't Want to Do Anything to Disgrace Family.

All the laws "on the books"—including those prohibiting gambling—will be enforced stringently by the new St. Louis police board, William L. Holzhausen, named yesterday as president of the board, said today.

Holzhausen, who sees himself as "just an ordinary guy" thrust unexpectedly into the limelight by his appointment, gave his views on law enforcement in an interview with the Post-Dispatch at the H. A. Stockmann Lumber Co., 2731 South Third street, where he is vice president.

Lester H. Holzhausen, one of his brothers, is a special officer attached to the Penrose Street Police District—a fact which Holzhausen did not mention in listing members of his family.

To demonstrate his attitude toward law enforcement, he picked up from his desk a photograph of his two young children, Lynne and Gale.

"See this," he said. "That's my family. I wouldn't want anything to happen to disgrace them, would I?"

The new police board president is 44 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. He has a small mustache, dark eyes and thinning black hair, accenting a light complexion. His features are somewhat pointed.

For the taking of photographs he occupied the desk of Stockmann, the lumber firm president, but he then insisted on moving to his own desk outside the president's office.

"This is where I belong," he said. "I don't belong in there. I'm just one of the little fellows."

Although Gov. Smith said that,

GOVERNOR SAYS HE AND HOLZHAUSEN HAVE MET; DENIAL BY HIS APPOINTEE

Kinney Asks, 'Who Knows Him?' — Smith Calls Commissioners to Conference Tomorrow at Jefferson City.

The four new St. Louis police commissioners, whose appointments were approved in rapid-fire fashion by the State Senate yesterday, were asked by Gov. Forrest Smith to confer with him tomorrow in Jefferson City.

"I think the Governor wants to emphasize something to us," William L. Holzhausen, president of the new board, told the Post-Dispatch this afternoon.

Commissions were to be sent today to the new police board members, whose appointments were approved after three weeks of delays. Little-known Holzhausen, a lumber dealer, 5408 Walsh street, was the second choice of the Governor for the board presidency. He replaced Daniel P. Reardon, attorney, who withdrew after learning that certain "strings" were attached to the job.

Others on Board.

Charles H. Ostertag, treasurer of the board, florist, 6137 Waterman boulevard.

Holzhausen is a "mystery man" even to St. Louis Democratic members of the State Senate. All four St. Louis Democrats on the 11-member Senate Committee on Municipal Corporations said they were not personally acquainted with him.

The Senate committee rushed through a report late yesterday recommending Senate confirmation of the four appointees. The St. Louis members on the committee are Senators Michael Kinney, William E. Hilsman, Edward J. (Jellyroll) Hogan Jr. and Robert Pentland. Holzhausen lives in Pentland's Senatorial district, the First.

Asked what he knew about Holzhausen, one of the St. Louis Senators replied tartly: "None of us knows him."

"Who Knows Him?" Asks Kinney.

In the course of the closed meeting of the Committee on Municipal Corporations, Senator Kinney, veteran Democratic leader, said: "I don't know this man—who knows him?"

Turning to Pentland, Kinney asked, "Do you vouch for him?"

Pentland replied that he did. Then the motion to recommend confirmation went through without objection, it was learned.

Pentland told a Post-Dispatch reporter he did not know Holzhausen but had talked to him on the telephone and had made inquiries about him.

"I saw his picture in a newspaper," Pentland related. He said he did not know who had recommended Holzhausen to the Governor, adding, "I don't think he is very active in politics." But, Pentland continued, "it was time for this thing to be settled."

When the first public suggestion of Holzhausen's appointment was made last week, Holzhausen said Senator Pentland had talked to him by telephone. Holzhausen thought the name of his caller was "Senator Pendleton."

Three Questions Reported.

Holzhausen related the Senator asked him three questions in the telephone conversation: "Were you born in St. Louis? Have you children? Would you accept appointment to the Police Board?" Holzhausen's answer was "yes" in each instance.

Although Pentland thought Holzhausen had not been very active in politics, Gov. Smith said yesterday Holzhausen "has been fairly active in politics." Smith said the lumber dealer supported him in his campaign for Governor.

Smith asserted Holzhausen had not been recommended to him by anyone, but the Governor did not answer when asked if Holzhausen was his personal choice. He said Holzhausen was not an applicant for the job.

Matter of Knowing Each Other.

The Governor said he had known Holzhausen for some time. But Holzhausen insisted he had never met the Governor, adding, "I wouldn't know him if I met him on the street."

Gov. Smith told his press conference: "I have had a lot of dealings with Holzhausen in state sales tax matters." He said this was while he, Smith, was State Auditor in charge of sales tax administration.

The Governor continued: "Holzhausen and some other lumber people came up here when the sales tax was first started. I had several meetings with lumber groups on the effect of the sales tax on lumber and on contractors." (The sales tax law was enacted in 1933.)

Musical Slot Machine Divorces Proposed by Nevada Legislator

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 8 (UP)—Those unhappy persons who get quick Nevada divorces may soon be able to get them from a coin machine, complete with the first two bars of "America."

A bill introduced in the Nevada Legislature yesterday by Assemblyman C. C. Boak, a Republican, proposes that each county clerk shall purchase and install a divorce machine.

On coming to the state, divorce seekers would pay a $5 registration fee. He or she would be given a key, with which he or she would punch a timeclock arrangement on the machine every day during the 42 days (six weeks) during which a legal divorce residence can be established.

On the forty-second day, punching of the timeclock by the divorce seeker would flash a green light—a go-ahead signal—on the face of the machine.

The divorce seeker then would insert 100 silver dollars made from metal mined in Nevada silver mines, specially milled for use in the divorce machine only, and usable only one each divorce.

When the 100th dollars dropped through the slot, the coin would release a spring mechanism which would start a phonograph record. The record would contain the first two strains of the song "America" as follows:

"My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty."

A divorce decree, signed by a district court judge and stamped with all necessary seals and decorated with the proper colored ribbons, would come sliding down a slot.

What about the divorce lawyers the bill would put out of a very lucrative business?

Boak has the answer to this, too. The bill provides that they "shall become useful citizens by seeking and accepting employment in the state's silver mines."

4 TOP DEFENDANTS IN SOFIA TRIAL GET LIFE SENTENCES, OTHERS 1-18 YEARS

Protestants Tell Court They Are Satisfied, Won't Appeal — Government Had Asked Death for Four.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

SOFIA, March 8 (AP)—Communist Bulgaria meted out prison terms today to 15 Protestant churchmen accused of spying and black marketing. Four of the clergymen were sentenced to life imprisonment. The others received sentences of 1 to 18 years.

The ministers, called "squealing little rats" by a government press department paper, stood without outward emotion while the three judges announced the sentences. Then all the defendants announced they were satisfied with the findings and would not appeal.

The Moscow-trained prosecutor, Dimitri Georgiev, had demanded the death sentence for the four top defendants, and long prison terms for the others.

Vassil Ziapkov, 48 years old, the leading defendant, broke into tears at the conclusion of the judges' reading, and declared:

"I am satisfied. I promise to work with all my strength to build the new man in myself and to help in the construction of our Socialist republic."

Leader Gets Added Terms.

Ziapkov, a Congregationalist minister who is religious representative of the Protestant denominations, was sentenced to life, and in addition got terms of five years for spreading false rumors and 15 years for allegedly trying to incite against the Government.

Also sentenced to life were Yanko Ivanov, 48 Methodist; Nikola Naumov, 49, Baptist, and Georgi Chernev, 46, Pentecostal. The property of all four was confiscated and their civil rights were taken away. They also were fined $3750 each.

The two defendants who received the lightest sentences—one year each—were ordered released since they had spent several months in prison awaiting trial. They are Angel Diven and Alexander Zahariev.

All the ministers were accused of spying for the United States and Britain and of black market currency dealings. Ziapkov also was accused of treason. All confessed at length, some with tears. Some begged for mercy and professed conversion to Communism.

"Committed the Worst Crime."

Presiding Judge Constantine Undjiev, who in 1947 sentenced the Agrarian leader Nikola Petkov to death, told the defendants as he passed sentence:

"You have committed the worst crime—espionage—not only against the laws of the country, but against the laws of any country. Your attitude in the future will determine your progress toward the new life."

Though the ministers had the right to appeal at once or within two weeks, all asserted they were satisfied with the verdicts. The sentences thus begin immediately.

The three judges acquitted three of the lesser defendants of espionage charges, but sentenced them on other counts in the multiple indictment.

The sentencing session was concluded in 55 minutes. Then each defendant stepped up and said he was satisfied. Several, like Ziapkov, pledged themselves to co-operate with the "new people's democracy," the term the communists use for governments they dominate.

Lifeterm sentences in Bulgaria generally last about 15 years. Time off is granted for good behavior and satisfactory work in prison. The prisoners are given work according to their intellectual and physical abilities. For instance, for two days work in prison, a prisoner is credited with three days time served.

It was understood that in cases where the prisoners were given two terms, the sentences would run concurrently, but no court announcement was made of this.

The others found guilty in addition to the top defendants were:

Lambri Mishkov, 41, Congregationist, 15 years for spying, three years for spreading false rumors, and a fine of 250,000 leva, or about $937.50.

Haralan Popov, 41, Pentecostal, 15 years for spying, three years for spreading false rumors, 250,000 leva fine on the same charges and an additional fine of 4,000,000 leva (about $15,000) for black market currency dealings in dollars.

Ioncho Drianov, 41, Pentecostal, 10 years for spying and 150,000 leva fine on the same charge. Additionally, he was deprived for 15 years of political and civil rights.

Ivan Stankulov, 44, Baptist pastor, received the same sentence as Drianov.

Zdravko Bezlov, 28, Methodist, 15 years for espionage, three years for spreading false rumors and a 250,000 leva fine on the same charges.

Zahari Raichev, Baptist minister, 10 years for spying and a 150,000 leva fine.

Ladin Popov, 36, Pentecostal, was acquitted on spy charges but sentenced to five years and a 4,000,000 leva fine for black marketing.

Mitko Dimitrov, 39, of the Church of Christ, six years and eight months for spying, one year for spreading rumors, and a fine of 10,000 leva. He was deprived of civil rights for eight years. His property was confiscated.

Angel Dinev, 40, Pentecostal, was acquitted of spying but given a year for spreading false rumors. He was fined 10,000 leva, his property was confiscated and his civil rights were lifted for two years.

Alexander Zahariev, 65, Methodist minister, was acquitted of espionage but sentenced to a year in prison for spreading false rumors. He was fined 5000 leva and deprived of civil rights for two years.

The courtroom had added decoration for the sentencing. Court bailiffs had wheeled in a big plaster bust of Premier Georgi Dimitrov, the old-line Communist who now rules Bulgaria.

Several dozen spectators had been in the courtroom an hour before the sentencing session began. The trial had been held in public.

A prediction that two or three other trials of Protestant clergymen will be held shortly was made by Vladimir Topencharov, Deputy Foreign Minister. He pointed out that in the trial of the 15 sentenced today, many names came out which were not mentioned in the original indictments.

90-DAY EXTENSION OF RENT CURB HOUSE G.O.P. IDEA

Filibuster Fight, However, Raises Doubt Whether Senate Will Pass Legislation on Issue.

Today in Congress

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—House Republican leaders talked today of only a 90-day continuation of rent controls. Meantime the Senate filibuster raised a question whether there will be any rent curbs at all after March 31, when present controls expire.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, No. 1 Republican in the House, reported that a majority of the House Republican policy committee has taken a stand for the 90-day idea. Congress could then "take another look in June," he said.

Senator Myers (Dem.), Pennsylvania, went before the Senate Banking Committee to urge approval of his bill for a 27-month extension. Myers, with CIO backing, wants the Senate to pass a stronger measure than the one approved by the House Banking Committee last Friday, for 15 months. President Truman asked for two years.

The House Rules Committee, which decides what bills are to be taken up, approved the House bill today. Debate probably will begin Thursday. A vote is likely Friday.

Situation in Senate.

Whether the Senate will ever get an opportunity to act on any extension bill depends on several factors. These all lead back to the current Southern filibuster to save the filibuster.

If Congress fails to act to extend the current rent control law past March 31, many believe there is little chance that the curbs ever will be revived.

Meanwhile, a new move by Lucas to break the filibuster threatened to halt Senate progress towards any new rent curbs until the floor fight over a proposed rules change is concluded.

Lucas announced that the Senate will start night sessions beginning tonight in an effort to wear down Southern resistance to the proposal.

Relief for Speech Makers.

Southern Democrats in the Senate were given a breathing spell today by a Western Republican. By agreement with the filibusters, Senator Cain (Rep.), Washington, was given time for a long attack on President Truman's nomination of Mon C. Wallgren as chairman of the National Resources Security Board.

Southern Senators said one of their number had brought word from a White House conference, before the President left for Florida, that he wants a finish fight on the rule change. This apparently prompted Senator Russell of Georgia, calling signals for the filibuster, to tell his speakers they will have to do their best toward using up a day's time each.

They conceded privately they can't corral the votes to uphold an expected ruling by Vice President Barkley that two-thirds of those voting can gag debate under present rules.

Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio announced yesterday that he would support such a decision by Barkley. Taft's emphasis that this wasn't a party decision was accented by the fact that 20 Republicans already have said publicly they would go against Barkley.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the G.O.P. floor leader who is one of the authors of the proposed rules change, said the situation is sifting down to these alternatives. (1) get unanimous consent to vote on the rules change (a move certain to be blocked), or (2) stay in session continuously in an effort to wear the filibusterers out.

Labor Bill Hearing.

Meantime the battle over labor legislation simmered in the House. Witnesses representing the National Association of Bus Operators, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Paterson Parchment Paper Co. and the Foremen's League were called before the Labor Committee there.

Chairman Connally (Dem.), Texas, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted the $5,580,000,000 Marshall plan fund would pass the Senate as is. Yesterday it was approved by his committee unanimously.

President Truman's budget director, Frank Pace Jr., told Congress today "it is not possible to justify" the Rankin veterans' pension bill. He called instead for enactment of President Truman's proposals for expansion of social security to "meet the same needs on a broader basis."

Pace outlined the stand in a report prepared for Representative Carroll (Dem.), Colorado, who read it to the House Rules Committee.

A whopping House vote sent to the Senate yesterday a "highly secret" bill to help United States Intelligence agents fish out information from behind the Soviet iron curtain.

The measure passed 348 to 4 on a roll call. Voting "no" were Representatives Marcantonio (ALP), New York; Powell (Dem.), New York; Bosone (Dem.), Utah, and Morris (Dem.), Oklahoma.

The bill would establish the United States Central Intelligence Agency with permanent statutory authority. It operates now under executive orders and emergency war powers of the President.

It also would allow the agency to bring into the United States aliens who supply American agents with vital information. The agency could bring in up to 100 a year as a reward for their help—and to protect their lives. They would be eligible for permanent residence and citizenship, but would be subject to deportation if they misbehave after arriving in this country.

CITY HOSPITAL HEAD TO QUIT TO DIRECT COOK COUNTY GROUP

Clinton F. Smith, superintendent of City Hospital, will resign April 1 to become general superintendent of the Oak Forest Institutions, a group of four Cook county hospitals 22 miles south of Chicago, he told the Post-Dispatch today.

He planned to resign late today as president of the Hospital Council of St. Louis. Smith has been superintendent of City Hospital seven years. He said he decided to accept the Cook county offer because the salary was higher and he was "interested in the type of work being done" at Oak Forest Institutions.

He will be head of a tuberculosis hospital, a hospital for chronic cases, a home for the aged and a hospital for the aged. Present salary for the general superintendent is $6300 plus full maintenance but the salary will be increased, Smith said. His City Hospital salary was $6540 and part-maintenance. The Cook County Board of Commissioners offered him the superintendency last December.

SHREWSBURY GAS WORKERS WARNED TO RETURN TO JOBS

those on the inside were doing, they reported back that the night shift workers had joined the CIO union.

Later in the morning, a group of about 50 AFL men, who had been loitering outside the plant, went in and forcibly ejected four of the night crew, pushing them through the gate by their arms.

Man Pulled From Auto.

When two men in a company automobile drove up to the plant at noon, one of the men was pulled from the machine and treated roughly. He explained: "I only came out here on orders. I'm not a strikebreaker. I don't know what it's all about." Later he was released and permitted to drive away as strikers kicked at the fenders of the machine.

One-Man Picket Line.

The one-man picket line was maintained at the plant by Bachinski, who carried a sign which read: "Unfair to AFL."

"This is not a picket line," Bachinski said. "It is a Freedom of Speech line. The company told the men yesterday that unless they joined the CIO union they would be fired."

The jurisdictional dispute between the AFL and CIO concerns the NLRB election held at the company's two plants recently. The Shrewsbury plant employes, who were members of the AFL union, were outnumbered in the election by the CIO union members in the company's downtown plants.

The CIO won the election and the AFL appealed the result to the NLRB, but the appeal was denied and the NLRB certified the CIO union as bargaining agent for all company employes. Under the terms of the union shop contract which the company has with the CIO, all employes of the plants are required to join the CIO within 30 days after the union was certified as bargaining agent. The 30-day period expired last Friday.

The Shrewsbury plant of the company supplies gas to all county communities from Kirkwood on the south to Ferguson on the north and east to the city line.

WOMAN HELD HAD ACCESS TO LIST OF FOREIGN AGENTS

Bills on Subversives Offered in Congress as Grand Jury Prepares to Go Into Spy Case.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (UP)—Miss Judith Coplon, Department of Justice employe, charged with stealing her country's secrets, had access to secret data on foreign agents, it was disclosed today.

A source close to the Justice Department said Miss Coplon could get two types of information valuable to a foreign power. These were available to her through her work as a political analyst in the foreign agents registration section of the Justice Department.

Three Congressmen introduced bills today intended to suppress subversive organizations and activities. Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, introduced one measure. Senator Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, and Representative Nixon (Rep.), California, introduced companion bills.

Ferguson's bill would provide fines up to $10,000 and 10 years imprisonment for conviction on charges of conspiracy to set up a totalitarian dictatorship in this country under foreign control.

The Mundt-Nixon bill would outlaw peacetime espionage in behalf of foreign powers and require the United States Communist party to sever connections with Russia. The two measures would require registration of Communist and Communist front organizations with a full list of officers and members.

Justice Department officials said Miss Coplon apparently worked alone in getting information for Valentin Gubitchev, Russian engineer attached to the United Nations staff.

Miss Coplon and Gubitchev were arrested Friday night in New York. At the time, she was carrying in her purse typewritten summaries of secret Government information.

The House Un-American Activities Committee appeared to have dropped any idea of investigating Miss Coplon. Committee members said the Justice Department "appears to be on its toes" and the legislators might disrupt things by "horning in." Committee members had debated the idea of questioning Miss Coplon and Gubitchev at a closed session.

Sol Bloom Dies, House Foreign Affairs Head; Colorful Career

SOL BLOOM

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Representative Sol Bloom, who rose from a childhood of near-poverty to riches and world prominence, died last night of a heart attack. He would have been 79 years old tomorrow.

The colorful New York Democrat, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and a familiar figure in the nation's capital for almost 30 years, was stricken at the naval hospital in Bethesda, Md. He had gone there Friday for treatment of a cold.

The veteran lawmaker's career included such varied pursuits as song-writing, acting, business enterprises—which reportedly made him a millionaire before he was 20—and finally a seat in Congress and a position as one of the most prominent makers of American foreign policy.

Funeral services have been set tentatively for Thursday afternoon in New York City.

Truman's Comment.

President Truman said he was "shocked and saddened" at the news and commented that the congressman from New York "will be greatly missed and widely mourned."

House Speaker Rayburn (Dem.), Texas called him "one of the finest men I ever knew and one of the best friends I ever had," adding:

"Everybody who loves a great soul will grieve at Sol Bloom's passing."

Secretary of State Acheson termed Representative Blooom "a bulwark for the foreign affairs of the United States."

Representative Bloom's death was the second in Congress in two days. Senator Melville Broughton (Dem). North Carolina, died of a heart attack Sunday.

Kee in Line for Job.

Representative John Kee of Bluefield, W. Va., now the ranking Democrat on the Foreign Affairs Committee, is in line for Bloom's job as chairman under the seniority system.

Bloom was born in Pekin, Ill., the son of poor Polish immigrants. Almost his only education was handed down by his mother, a Hebrew scholar. At the age of eight, after his family had moved to San Francisco, he found a job in a brush factory.

Some seventy years later he was to return to that city as one of the founding fathers of the United Nations organization. In the intervening years he made his mark in many fields—but principally in show business.

He wrote the popular song, "Coon, Coon, Coon," and—following the sinking of the battleship Maine off Cuba — "The Heroes Who Sank With the Maine," which sold millions of copies.

As a promoter at the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, he introduced sideshow freaks and muscle-dancers—for whom he composed extemporaneously the tune of the now-famous "Hootchy Kootchy Dance."

In 1910, then living in New York, he dropped all his other business dealings to concentrate on real estate and construction. He did well enough at that so he could afford one unsuccessful deal reported to have cost him $3,000,000.

Elected in 1922.

In 1922 he accepted the Democratic nomination for Congress in New York's nineteenth district—for many years a Republican stronghold. His district never went Republican again.

It was 1932 before he really achieved prominence in Congress. In that year, as head of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, he directed a vast publicity campaign which made the anniversary one of the most widely celebrated the nation had ever seen—and brought Representative Bloom the title "Washington's press agent."

From that time on, he was considered an authority on the first President. When a national poll reported in 1945 that most Americans considered Abraham Lincoln the greater of the two presidents, Bloom was incensed. It was an "insult" to Washington, he declared.

He became chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in 1939.

He headed the committee from that time to the time of his death, except for the two years of Republican control in the Eightieth Congress.

Foreign Relations Committee Votes for $5,580,000,000 Bill—Some Other Changes Made.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A bill promising the nations of Western Europe $5,580,000,000 in second-year Marshall plan aid has successfully passed its first major hurdle in Congress.

The measure, authorizing the full sum requested by the Economic Co-operation Administration, was unanimously approved late yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Chairman Connally (Dem.), Texas, saw in that a sign that the bill will be passed by the Senate. The foreign relations group, he said, "is a good index, since it represents a cross section." He added that several of the 13 members reserved the right to take a second look at the total when a bill to provide funds is considered by the Appropriations Committee.

Several Amendments.

The committee added to the measure two amendments broadening ECA Chief Paul G. Hoffman's authority, and one making American ships available for Italians who want to emigrate to South and Central America.

It voted to keep the present restriction that 50 per cent of all American tonnage shipped overseas under the program must be carried in United States ships "so far as practicable." Hoffman had said that provision sometimes boosts ECA's shipping costs.

And the committee included in the measure a section requiring Hoffman to "give sympathetic consideration" to this country's economy in making purchases for the recovery plan. When "all things are equal," the committee said ECA must consider buying surplus American commodities.

European Unity Resolution.

The Senate group also approved a resolution offered by Senator Wiley (Rep.), Wisconsin, which would put the Senate on record as encouraging "unification of Europe." Senator Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, wanted to make it "political unification," but the committee turned him down.

"If they want to unite, let them unite," Connally said later. But, he said, slipping in the word "political" would just give Russia "another hollering point that we are trying to dictate to Europe what they should do."

STATE ROAD PLAN READY; INCLUDES 4C GASOLINE TAX, RURAL HIGHWAYS

Gov. Smith to Submit Proposal to Legislature—Commission Would Take Over New Farm Mileage.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8—An increase in the state gasoline tax from 2 to 4 cents a gallon, to finance improvement of state major highways and construction of additional rural farm roads, is expected to be recommended to the Legislature today by Gov. Forrest Smith and his bipartisan Highway Advisory Committee.

Plans for a comprehensive road building program to be undertaken, if the proposed gasoline tax increase is voted, were worked out last night by the Governor, members of the Advisory Committee and the State Highway Commission and its engineers.

Gov. Smith said when the conference ended at midnight that none of the recommendations or details of the plans would be announced until after the committee's report was put into written form. He said it would be prepared in time for him to submit it to the General Assembly today.

A bill to put the recommendations into effect is being prepared for introduction in the House tomorrow, he said.

15,000 Miles of Rural Roads.

The Governor approved the proposed 2 cents a gallon tax increase, which the committee had virtually agreed on earlier. A second major proposal calls for the addition of 15,000 miles of rural roads to the state highway system during the next four years, meeting the demands of small counties that the state provide aid for local farm roads.

The plans call for allocation of about 60 per cent of the increased gasoline tax revenues, or about $11,400,000, a year, for rural road purposes, and 40 per cent, or $7,800,000 a year, for construction and improvement of urban highways and city streets carrying state and federal routes.

The commission has agreed to take into the state system an additional 5000 miles of rural roads the first year the additional highway revenues are available, 4000 miles a year for the next two years, and 2000 miles the fourth year.

Mostly Improvements.

Most of the work to be done on these roads would involve improvements and only a small amount of new construction, it was reported. This will permit the improvement of a large mileage of present county roads which are largely of graded mud and not serviceable throughout the year.

The additional road revenues would be allocated through the Highway Commission, conforming to the constitutional provision that all highway funds must be expended by the commission.

By accepting the commission's assurances that the funds will be expended for the purposes agreed on, the need for a constitutional amendment to earmark state funds for local roads is eliminated. Some rural road advocates have urged that the allocation be required by a constitutional amendment instead of relying upon the pledge of the commission. Most of the Governor's advisers, however, opposed this plan because it would take two years to present the amendment to the people, thus cause a delay in the work.

Earlier Tax Increase Rejected.

The Advisory Committee, headed by former Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, turned down earlier a suggestion that it recommend a 2½ cent gasoline tax increase, to help accelerate rural road construction. City members of the committee were opposed to that increase as being too big.

Gov. Smith appointed the Advisory Committee to study the state's road needs and methods of financing them after the Curry amendment to the Constitution, proposing to increase the tax to 3½ cents a gallon, was defeated by the voters last November.

Principal objections to the Curry proposal were that it prohibited cities from levying a gasoline tax, and that it gave to local political county courts control over local road-building funds allocated by the state, with only nominal supervision of the highway commission.

MAN, 90, FALLS INTO WELL AND JOKES ABOUT IT

WHEATLAND, Okla., March 8 (UP)—Ninety-year-old Charlie Weiche, who fell 20 feet to the bottom of a well and clung to a pipe an hour and 20 minutes to keep from drowning, felt good enough after his experience to joke about it.

"It'll probably cure everything that's wrong with me," said Weiche, who has heart trouble and a lame back and had a head cold before he fell into the eight feet of water in the well.

Weiche had been working in his garden yesterday when he stepped through some rotted wood covering the well. His cries finally were heard by a schoolboy, who summoned help.

First Step Up the Pyramid

TWO MEN LOSE LIVES IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

Machine Collides With Auto and Swerves Against Truck.

Two men were killed today when the motorcycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile and a truck at St. Louis avenue and Main street, East Alton.

The dead were D. L. Yungck, 2403 Virden street, Alton, and Vernon Hollis, who lived at the Bon Air Hotel in Alton

Coroner Ben Staten said the automobile and truck were headed west and the motorcycle was traveling east when the accident occurred. The motorcycle, he said, first collided with the machine driven by Alfred T. Rebenack of South Roxana and then swerved against the truck driven by Marvin of East Alton.

Yungck and Hollis were thrown to the street as their motorcycle skidded beneath the rear of the truck. Both were pronounced dead at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton.

Hollis, 33 years old, osn of Mrs. William Trinkle of Flora, Ill., was the father of two children. He was employed as a blacksmith's helper at the Laclede Steel Co. mill at Alton.

Yungck, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Yungck, was a student at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy.

COMMISSION ROW HANDBOOK CASE IS OUTLINED TO JURY

Information about the elaborate handbook at 829-31 North Fourth street, raided last Saturday by Carr Street District police, was outlined to the Circuit Court grand jury today, preparatory to presenting evidence in the case to the jury on Thursday.

Meanwhile, the 10 telephones found in the place were removed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. on orders of the Circuit Attorney's office. A telephone company installation supervisor told police there was evidence some of the connections had been made by unauthorized persons.

Eight men arrested in the raid were at liberty on bond pending grand jury action. They also are scheduled for police court appearances on Thursday, on city gambling charges. Two of those arrested, Michael Mercurio and Richard Egan, were booked as operators of the handbook, and the remaining six men as clerks. Mercurio was quoted by police as saying he obtained the telephones by using "assumed names" in business listings.

MOTOR TRICYCLES BOOST NUMBER OF PARKING TICKETS

The business of tagging illegally parked automobiles in the downtown section of the city has just about doubled since traffic officers started using motor tricycles instead of horses, a week ago, Maj. Raymond Dowling, head of the traffic bureau, said today.

In the first week of operation the four policemen riding the motor tricycles tagged a total of 338 machines, which "shows the officers can cover a lot of territory," said Maj. Dowling. This figure compares with 59 tags issued the preceding week when the officers were on foot. When they rode horses, their best week averaged about 175 tags issued.

Most of the violations were found between Ninth street and Twelfth boulevard on Delmar and Franklin avenues, Maj. Dowling said, adding that only "22 tags were issued west of Twelfth."

FORMER ILLINOIS LT. GOV. HUGH CROSS NOMINATED TO ICC

WASHINGTON, March 8 (UP)—President Truman nominated former Illinois Lieut. Gov. Hugh Cross of Jerseyville to the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Cross, who did not seek reelection last fall, will take the post held by the late George M. Barnard for a term expiring Dec. 31, 1950.

He was an announced candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor before the April 1948 primary election, but dropped out of the race.

Since leaving office he has resumed his law practice at Jerseyville and acted as chairman of the Illinois Highways and Traffic Problems Commission which is working out a long-range improvement program for the state.

POLICE ARE INVITED TO PYRAMID PARTY BUT PASS IT UP

5 Guests Attend, However, With Dollars—Attorney Says It's Legal.

Police were invited to a Pyramid Club party last night at the home of Edward Wilds, 1561 Louisville avenue, but they didn't show up.

Wilds's invitation was extended after his attorney, Morris Shenker, advised him that Pyramid clubs were not illegal. This directly contradicted a ruling by City Counselor George L. Stemmler last week that Pyramid clubs were illegal in that they constituted a lottery.

Five guests came to Wilds's party and everything went along fine. Each guest paid his dollar membership fee and, after exchanging some pleasantries, left with the promise that he would invite five more friends to a similar party within a short time.

Wilds explained that Pyramid clubs are similar to the old chain letter ideas, but added "these are on the up and up." After joining a club, a person goes to "friendship" parties. With each party his name is advanced up the pyramid one step, Wilds said. When he reaches the top, which should not take more than a month, he stands to get $2048.

LIEUT. GOV. BLAIR RESIGNS AS JEFFERSON CITY MAYOR

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8 (AP)—Missouri's Lieutenant Governor, James T. Blair Jr., submitted his resignation as Mayor of Jefferson City to the City Council at a meeting last night.

In turning in his resignation, Blair explained he wanted to devote full time to work as Lieutenant Governor. He also said, "I direct the council's attention to the fact that there is no organized syndicated gambling in the city."

He told the council to keep a watchful eye on the situation, because gambling is "inevitably followed by corruption, robbery, holdups, suicides and a general lowering of the moral tone of a city."

The president pro tem of the city council, R. E. Dorr, will be Acting Mayor until the April election.

P.S. CO. PLAN TO TAKE OVER LADUE BUS LINES APPROVED

The plan of Public Service Co. to take over three bus lines serving Ladue and adjacent territory, in connection with abandonment of the Clayton 04 streetcar line, was approved by the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday. The company will take over routes now served by Ladue Local Lines, Inc., and make some changes and extensions.

The approval will be effective next Saturday but Public Service Co. has not determined when the changeover will be made. Formal permits from the city of Ladue for the Public Service Co. operation have not yet been obtained.

CITIZENS ACT TO STOP DROWNINGS IN CREEK

Maplewood Group Named to Consult With Officials on Eliminating Dangers.

Angry Maplewood citizens protested at a mass meeting last night that police and firemen either knew little about first aid or were slow in applying their knowledge following the drowning of 6-year-old Fred Zipfel Jr. in flooded Deer Creek Feb. 26.

No firemen or policemen attended the meeting but Mayor Frank L. Martini replied that most of the men on the force were trained in first aid and an ambulance arrived quickly. An inhalator was used on the boy "all the way to the hospital," the Mayor said, "but he was pronounced dead at the hospital."

Martini told the meeting it would cost about $2,000,000 to eliminate hazards in Deer Creek, in which four boys have drowned in three years. He said Maplewood's share of the work would be $1,300,000. The cost would practically double the tax rate, he pointed out.

A six-member citizens' committee was named to consult with Maplewood officials and with officials of Brentwood, Shrewsbury and Webster Groves on ways of eliminating dangerous holes in the creek and other temporary steps that might be taken to prevent future drownings. The creek flows through the four towns. Members of the citizens' committee are Raymond Wilson, Eugene Walton, Russell E. Irwin, T. C. Gordon, George Patton and Chester Smith.

ORVILLE WRIGHT'S HEIRS WANT HIS SHOES RETURNED

DAYTON, O., March 8 (AP)—The heirs of Orville Wright want 10 pairs of the late inventor's shoes returned to them by the Goodwill Industries.

The shoes were given to the organization last week, and Goodwill announced they would be sold at a sale. Then, Robert E. Watkins, Goodwill's executive director, called off the sale after the heirs protested against the publicity.

Yesterday, Milton Wright, a nephew of the co-inventor of the airplane, asked that the shoes be returned and said Goodwill was trying "to capitalize on the name of Orville Wright."

WALLGREN DENIES HE WON $50,000 IN A CRAP GAME

Cain Says Drew Pearson Told Him of Alleged Gambling With Johnny Meyer 6 Years Ago.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (UP)—Senator Harry P. Cain (Rep.), Washington, today demanded an investigation of a report that Mon C. Wallgren won $50,000 in a crap game at Palm Springs with Holly press agent Johnny Meyer, who was a star witness in the Senate war profits inquiry of 1947.

Wallgren told the United Press the story was "entirely false — there is not one word of truth in it." He said he never won "a single dollar, not even a penny," from Meyer and that "I know of no such crap game at Palm Springs at all."

Cain brought up the alleged crap game early in what he said might be a 10-hour Senate speech against Wallgren's nomination to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

Tipped Off by Pearson.

He said he was tipped off about the game last Friday by columnist Drew Pearson. Cain said he thought Pearson had "a magnificent disregard for accuracy," but that his story should be checked.

"Pearson should eat his words if they are not true," he said. "Some agency of government should investigate the promiscuous comments that have been made on this case.

"Pearson told me that Wallgren won $50,000 in a crap game from Johnny Meyer in Palm Springs, Calif., about six years ago."

Wallgren at the time was a Democratic Senator from Washington and was a member of the Senate War Investigating Committee headed by the then Senator Harry S. Truman.

Meyer Aid to Hughes.

Meyer was public relations man for millionaire airplane manufacturer Howard Hughes, whose wartime dealings with the Air Force came under congressional investigation in 1947. Meyer was a key witness in the hearings and his testimony helped lead to the perjury conviction of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

Cain said Pearson informed him over the telephone that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was convinced the story of the crap game between Wallgren and Johnny Meyer was true. He added that the FBI later dropped the case, although it thought the gambling incident might have been "linked with an airplane contract."

"I think that Mr. Pearson should be asked to say under oath what he said to me over the telephone," Cain told the Senate.

MISS TRUMAN GETS BID TO SING IN SHOW AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 8 (AP)—Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, was acclaimed "our woman of the year" today by the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club.

The old social and dramatic club invited her to be "the first woman in 101 years to sing in a Hasty Pudding show." The invitation was signed by Club President Alan Winslow. The club's 1948 musical "Tomorrow is Manana" opens Friday at the Hasty Pudding theater and runs through March 26.

FIVE INDICTED ON CHARGES OF INCOME TAX EVASION

Personal Payments of Head of Koedding Painting Corp. Said to Be $60,516 Off —Poplar Bluff Merchant Named.

Five men, including three St. Louisans, were charged with federal income tax evasions in indictments returned by the September term United States grand jury in its first report yesterday.

They were August F. Koedding Jr., head of the Koedding Painting Corp., 5618 Easton avenue; Herman Ziegenbalg, partner in Ziegenbalg & Co., 1814 North Vandeventer avenue; Ephraim A. Dean, proprietor of a drug store at 331 North Euclid avenue; Clarence Eime, operator of a tavern at Mattese in St. Louis county, and Sidney Z. Garfinkle, a Poplar Bluff clothing merchant.

Koedding, who lives at 6130 Emma avenue, was indicted on five counts, three pertaining to his personal income and two to corporate returns. The indictment said he evaded payment of a total of $60,516 on personal income in 1943, 1944 and 1945. He reported $127,271 as his income for the three years and paid $63,424 in taxes, although his real income was $205,482 on which he should have paid $123,940, it was charged.

In addition, the indictment said he had evaded payment of $2245 in corporate income taxes in his organization's fiscal years ended September 1945 and 1946. Corporate income reported in the two years totaled $24,626, with $6687 paid in taxes, although the income was alleged to have been $30,982 on which $8932 was due in taxes.

Charge of False Returns.

Ziegenbalg, 3650A Garfield avenue, was accused of evading payment of $8114 in 1942, 1944 and 1945, and also of filing false and fraudulent partnership returns and causing false data to be filed by his partner, George Ziegenbalg, in the same three years.

The first three counts of the indictment against Ziegenbalg charge he reported a total net taxable personal income in the three years of $78,549 and paid $33,073 in taxes although in fact his income was $93,712 and he actually owed $41,187.

The counts dealing with his partnership indicate that because he filed allegedly false partnership returns, he stated, or caused to be stated, on the personal return of George Ziegenbalg in 1942 an income of $15,858 on which a tax of $4503 was paid. However, the indictment charged, he knew that George Ziegenbalg's real income was $21,772 and the tax due $7449.

Similar allegations were made concerning George Ziegenbalg's returns for 1944 and 1945 when because of the false partnership returns, the difference between reported income and actual income totaled $9247, it was charged.

Dean was charged with filing false returns in the four years, 1942-45, reporting an income of $16,560 and paying a tax of $2544, when, in fact, the indictment said, his income was $36,419 and he should have paid $8816.

Eime was charged in three counts with evading $6411 in taxes in 1942, 1943 and 1944. He reported a total net taxable income of $3801, paid only $47 in taxes, while his real income for the period was $28,061 on which he should have paid $6458, the grand jury said.

Garfinkle was indicted on five counts charging he evaded payment of at least $82,043 in personal income taxes for the period, 1942 through 1946. He reported a total net taxable income of $37,505 on which he paid $7817 in the five-year period, but his real income totaled $180,511, on which he should have paid $89,860 over the period, the indictment charged.

The grand jury also returned an indictment against Adolph H. Hanser, former vice president and secretary of the Mercantile-Commerce National Bank in St. Louis. He was charged with embezzlement of $15,000 of bank funds.

Hanser was arrested last Oct. 12 on a federal warrant and admitted he took the money from funds of certain Lutheran organizations on deposit in the bank. He resigned from his position last Oct. 1.

Interstate Thefts Charged.

Indictments were also returned against seven men charged with theft and possession of articles stolen from interstate shipments. Three of the men, employes of the Columbia Terminals Co., were accused of sealing cases of clothing from Columbia loading platforms and selling them to the others. The thefts took place mostly in last August and the men were arrested the following October.

Henry B. Robertson and Martin M. O'Connor, accused of holding up the Exchange Bank of Kahoka, Mo., last Oct. 25 and robbing it of $9405, were also named in indictments.

Arthur J. McGinnis, former postal clerk, was charged in another true bill with overcharging parcel post customers at the Main Post Office during the last Christmas rush and pocketing the excess. The overcharges, listed in 11 counts, ranged from 20 to 37 cents.

Five indictments were suppressed and the rest were largely routine in nature. They involved offenses under the Dyer Act, theft and forgeries of Government checks, sending obscene matter through the mails and violations of the Narcotic Act, among others.

CHECK WRITTEN AS BOND IN 5TH ARREST BOUNCES

The wife of a Scott Air Force Base sergeant was arrested for the sixth time for issuing bad checks yesterday when the check she had written to pay for a bond after her fifth arrest was returned by the bank marked "insufficient funds."

Mrs. Marilyn J. Beekman was arrested three times in 1947 on complaints of merchants who said she had given them worthless checks. On each occasion she was released, after making restitution, so that she might care for her three small children.

Last Feb. 4, she was arrested on the same charge and fined $25. Thursday she was arrested once more and this time the children were placed in the St. Clair county detention home.

Mrs. Beekman gave her husband, Sgt. Wilbur H. Beekman, a check for $30 to arrange for bond. Sgt. Beekman cashed the check at a bank and obtained his wife's release. Yesterday, however, the bank discovered Mrs. Beekman had only $25 in her account. She and her husband were arrested and placed in the county jail at Belleville. The children remained in the detention home.

HATCHET KILLER OF BABY DAUGHTER INSANE, JURY FINDS

Verdict on Floyd E. Rollings Makes It Mandatory to Send Him to Mental Hospital.

Floyd E. Rollings, St. Louis University dental student and Navy veteran, who killed his infant daughter with a hatchet last Dec. 14, was found not guilty "on account of insanity" by a jury in Circuit Judge Raymond E. LaDriere's court at Clayton yesterday.

The verdict, stating that the defendant "has not entirely, or permanently recovered from such insanity," was recommended by the State, which presented medical evidence that Rollings is insane.

Under the verdict it is mandatory on the court to commit Rollings to a mental institution. Rollings has been held in the county jail at Clayton since his arrest the day he killed his child at their home, 9728 Adair avenue, Lemay. He will be sent to one of the state mental hospitals shortly, it is expected.

Dr. John C. Matthews, psychiatrist of St. Louis County Hospital, testified he examined Rollings on Jan. 15 and again last Friday, and found him suffering from dementia praecox. Rollings, the psychiatrist testified, is incapable of managing his affairs and suffers periods of confusion when subjected to stress or strain. The chances for a complete recovery are remote, Dr. Matthews added.

Defense witnesses, including Rollings's wife and Dr. Robert E. Britt, a psychiatrist, testified to Rollings's unbalanced condition. Dr. Britt said Rollings did not know right from wrong the day he killed his child. Navy records, showing that Rollings suffered from dementia praecox and spent four months in a Washington (D. C.) hospital, also were introduced. Mrs. Rollings testified that last November her husband told her he "felt something is wrong." The day he killed their child, Donna Anne, she was at a neighbor's home telephoning a physician about her husband's condition.

Rollings, who is 27 years old, was present in court. He receives $135 a month disability compensation from the Government as a result of his mental breakdown while in service.

Since 1831

In that year, in Philadelphia, the first Savings & Loan Association was founded. So the idea is proved by time, and is thoroughly American.

Since its start, objectives have been the same:
1. To encourage thrift;
2. To provide home ownership.

Concentrating on these two objectives, the Savings & Loan Association of today offers a service perfected by a century of experience.

The Associations listed here have carried on the tradition of stability. The oldest was organized in 1873, and the average age is 30 years. They are serving 68,000 customers and paying regular dividends on $80 Million of the people's savings. They are helping to build their community by developing its basic value —real property.

To save, or to finance real estate, see an organization that gives no other service—that is your Savings & Loan Association—listed here.

1000 GARY WOMEN STORM CITY HALL OVER GAMING, VICE

GARY, Ind., March 8 (AP)—A parade of 1000 women in protest against gambling and vice brought action today from city and county officials.

Aroused by the killing last week of a Gary high school teacher, the women paraded last night to the chambers of the City Council. A few hours later, Mayor Eugene Swartz ordered a clampdown on gambling, although he expressed doubt that most of Gary's citizens would support such action. He previously had ordered all houses of prostitution closed.

Police raided a downtown establishment known as "The Club." They chopped up two or three card tables and two long tables which officers said appeared to have been used for recording horse race results.

Another development was the calling of a conference of law enforcement officers by County Prosecutor Ben Schwartz.

The women's mass meeting was held at the City Methodist Church and was presided over by Mrs. Florence Greve, a former president of the Gary Teachers' Union. The teacher who was killed was Mrs. Mary Cheever, 45 years old, a vice president of the union. She was shot in an alley near her home after returning from a Parent-Teachers Association meeting. Her death was attributed to a purse snatcher.

Following the meeting, the women marched to City Hall two blocks away.

The teachers previously had adopted a resolution demanding a cleanup of "the intolerable crime and vice conditions that made possible this brutal murder."

Similar resolutions were pressed by several other organizations, including the Gary Chamber of Commerce.

The women charged that a crime wave has developed here due to the influx of criminals attracted by the city's vice conditions.

Swartz disagreed. He laid Gary's crime wave to slums "maintained by some of our best people." The Mayor charged that these landlords "milk the property for whatever they can get out of it, and don't put anything back into it for improvements."

Blast Fatal to Mrs. E. F. Ball.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 8 (UP)—Mrs. Edmund F. Ball of Muncie, Ind., wife of the nationally known jar manufacturer, died yesterday of injuries suffered in a fishing boat explosion here Saturday. Mrs. Ray Applegate, also of Muncie, died shortly after the explosion.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Triply Careless.

McPHERSON, Kan.—Robert C. Hickman's automobile was struck twice by a train within an hour, then he was arrested for failing to report an accident.

Hickman and Charles Memminger, both of the Smoky Hill Air Force Base at nearby Salina, were driving on a country road when Hickman's car stalled on a railroad track. A train came along and slightly damaged the car. Memminger started to town for a wrecker. Hickman attempted to get the car started again but it stalled on the tracks again. Another train smashed into it, this time causing considerable damage. Hickman was unhurt.

32 Kids and a Dog.

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—Thirty-two sleepy tots padded calmly out of smoke-filled Alexander Orphans Home before dawn. Then excitement started outside. Their pet puppy was missing. Miss Blanche White, home director, rushed back into the building and rescued the pup. That calmed the 32.

A smoking mattress caused the inconvenience. It was set by a janitor smoking in bed.

Picket Line Romance.

LOS ANGELES—That little man, Dan Cupid, Esq., even walks the picket lines.

Alice Hammerstein, 27-year-old daughter of composer Oscar Hammerstein, and Philip Mathias, 41, a writer, plan to marry Wednesday at Santa Barbara. They said they met while picketing a studio during the 1946 movie strike.

100 FISHERS CAUGHT ON GREAT LAKES FLOES REACH LAND

50 Marooned When Wind Splits Ice, Abandon Truck, Auto, 75 Expensive Nets.

MENOMINEE, Mich., March 8 (AP)—Two big bays of the upper Great Lakes shed their winter sheaths yesterday and gave nearly a hundred fishermen trapped on ice floes the ride of their lives.

Between 50 and 60 men were marooned off Menominee when a 44-mile offshore wind split Green Bay's ice off the mainland for several miles north. As alarm mounted the floe ground to a temporary halt in a bank of crushed ice and all hands dashed ashore safely. They saved several vehicles but abandoned a truck and lost a car and 75 expensive nets.

Thirty-five men were rescued in a series of smaller operations on the other side of Michigan's upper peninsula, where the southwest wind pounded at Keeweenaw bay.

NEW POLICE BOARD HEAD IS 'MYSTERY MAN' TO SENATORS

sen, nor did they know of any part the lumber dealer played in the campaign. Two of the new police board members, Church and Roberts, said they had never met Holzhausen.

It is unusual for the appointment of the head of a major state board, such as the St. Louis police board, to be confirmed by the Senate without some of the Senators knowing him. It had been the practice to ask appointees in such instances to meet the Senators in Jefferson City or to appear before the committee considering approval of the appointment. This was not done in this instance.

St. Louis Democrats have been concerned about possible adverse effect of the delays and muddle over the police board situation on Democratic prospects in the city election April 5. There had been increasing pressure in Jefferson City to settle the matter as quickly as possible.

Taking note of published reports that gamblers were making preparations to resume operations in St. Louis and throughout the state, Gov. Smith told his press conference that he was directing the new police board to enforce the laws.

Law Enforcement Order.

"I am sending a letter to each member," Smith said, "instructing each of them to vigorously and fairly enforce to the limit of their ability every law of the City of St. Louis and the State of Missouri which comes under their jurisdiction."

After Gov. Smith sent Holzhausen's appointment to the Senate yesterday afternoon, the way was cleared by Senate leaders for fast action. The appointment was referred at once, with the other three names, to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Senator Doyle Barrow of St. Joseph, chairman, who had said earlier in the afternoon that he knew of no reason to advance the committee meeting scheduled for tomorrow, called a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

Quick Action Taken.

The Senate recessed, to convene at 4 p.m., after the committee met and reported. The committee meeting lasted about 15 minutes, and the joint session to confirm the appointments lasted about 10 minutes. Both were closed sessions.

In three weekly meetings after Gov. Smith sent his original appointments to the Senate Feb. 15, the committee had failed to act. The first delay was at the request of Senator Hilsman, who said he wanted to meet Roberts. The second was at the Governor's request, when Reardon withdrew. Last Wednesday the committee met again but took no action because Smith had not nominated a replacement for Reardon.

The three present members of the board, Thomas H. Cobbs, acting president; Ben L. Liberman and Francis L. George, will retire from office when the new board qualifies, probably tomorrow. Their terms would have ended June 27, under appointments by former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly. They offered their resignations to Smith last month but agreed to remain until their successors qualified.

Holzhausen replaces H. Sam Priest, who resigned as board president Feb. 1 because of the press of private business. The Governor said he urged Priest to stay on because some St. Louis Democrats thought "a change in the police board might upset the city election."

The new police commissioners, all Democrats, will receive $1000 a year. Holzhausen is vice president of the H. A. Stockmann Lumber Co., 2721 South Third street. Roberts has been a close friend of the Governor for many years. Church also is a longtime friend of Smith. Ostertag has been identified in politics with Senator Hogan.

as a State Auditor, he had dealings with Holzhausen in sales tax matter, the new police board president insisted he never had met the Governor or talked to him. Likewise, so far as he could recall, he never had any correspondence with him.

"I know that's hard to believe," he said. "But it's true. I don't think I would know the man if I saw him on the street."

Holzhausen has also had little contact with the St. Louis Police Department, except routine investigations connected with the two circuit court grand juries on which he has served.

One other exception, he said, smiling, might be "a few traffic tickets I received."

He does not know Chief Jeremiah O'Connell or other top officials of the department. He said he has a casual acquaintanceship with one captain.

"I do know this," he related. "I think St. Louis has a good police force—a good, efficient police force."

Asked what he would do if, on taking over as police board head, he finds that organized gambling is taking a foothold in St. Louis, he said: "I would make every effort to drive it out."

He said he wanted to emphasize that he was not in favor of gambling, "including handbooks."

"I don't gamble myself, I don't believe in lawlessness, I don't believe in the type of gambling the newspapers have been writing about," Holzhausen said.

Doesn't Know Other Three.

Not only has he never met Gov. Smith, but he does not know the other three men — Maurice G. Roberts, Daniel G. Church and Charles H. Ostertag — who will serve on the board with him. He does not believe he ever met any of them.

Holzhausen professed to be at a loss why he was chosen for the board, particularly as its head. He said he never has been active in politics and has, in the past, voted Democratic and Republican.

"I have no ties with anybody," he explained. "If I went in, I would be free to do just as I please, subject, of course, to the wishes of the Governor who appointed me."

The first inkling he had of his selection was last Wednesday, when he received a telephone call from State Senator Robert Pentland, who is from Holzhausen's district, the First.

"He asked me if I had heard from the Governor," Holzhausen said. "I told him I had not.

"Then he informed me that I was being considered for the police board and wanted to know if I would take the job. I said I would.

"The only other conversation was a few questions about where I was born and about my family."

Call From Pentland.

During the interview yesterday, shortly after announcement of the appointment had appeared in the newspapers, Pentland called Holzhausen from Jefferson City.

"Did you say the committee confirmed my appointment?" Holzhausen asked on the teelphone. "Am I supposed to be head of the board or just a member? You know, I don't know anything about this except what the reporters have been telling me."

Toward the end of the brief call, Holzhausen said to Pentland: "You sound like a nice fellow; I'd like to meet you sometime."

At one point in the conversation, the new police board head said: "Oh, definitely. I've already done that. That's just the way I feel about it."

He explained later that Pentland had advised him to emphasize to newspaper men that he was definitely against gambling and all forms of lawlessness.

Plans to Make Study.

Holzhausen has no immediate plans for changes in the organization or personnel of the Police Department. He indicated that one of his first steps, on taking office, would be to make a "thorough, business man's study" of the department and the law-enforcement situation in St. Louis.

He assured police officers that, under his regime, promotions would be made on the basis of merit alone and that each officer could enforce the laws, without fear of recrimination, to the fullest extent.

Asked what prompted him to accept the police board presidency, Holzhausen replied: "I thought it was my civic duty. If the Governor saw fit to ask me, I thought it was an honor and I'll do the best I can."

He said he had "a good idea" who recommended him for the appointment but he did not wish to disclose the name now because he was not certain.

"There's nothing wrong about it," he added, hastily. "Later on, when I know for sure, I'll be glad to make it public."

Well-Wishers Drop By.

As he talked, Holzhausen shifted about in quick, nervous movements at his desk. His voice had a ring of excitement as he answered numerous telephone calls from well-wishing friends or reached across the desk to shake hands with someone who dropped by the office.

Once he stopped to get a glass of water to take some pills. He said he used to drink a highball occasionally, but cut out liquor altogether since his physician prescribed the pills for a minor ailment about a year ago.

He was born near Fifteenth street and Cass avenue, attended Ashland Public School and, later, Yeatman High, for two years.

After high school, he worked as a draftsman for several firms, at the same time attending classes at night at Washington University and David Ranken School of Trades. He studied engineering.

Places where he worked as a draftsman included the Charles Lewis Pump Co., Johnson Auto Lock Co., St. Louis Car Co. and Dorris Motor Car Co.

In 1927, shortly after the death of his father, he became salesman of roofing materials for the old Libby-Williams Paper Co.

Joined Firm in 1932.

He joined the lumber firm Jan. 1, 1932, nine months after it had been established by Stockmann. In addition to his interest in the company, he and Stockmann and a third man own the Louise Investment Co., a real estate holding company.

He refers to his home at 5408 Walsh street as "just a little five-room bungalow, nothing like what the big fellows live in." His family consists of his wife, Anne, and the two children. Lynne is 6 years old and is in the first grade at St. Elizabeth's Academy. Gale is 2.

In addition to Lester Holzhausen, the new Police Board head has another brother, Edward J., who lives in St. Louis county.

Organizations of which he is a member are the Southwest Kiwanis Club and the Executives' Association of St. Louis. Holzhausen has been active in boys' work and underprivileged children's activities as a member of the Kiwanis Club.

"I forgot," he said. "Maybe I had better add another contact with the Police Department. In this work, I frequently associated with the officers in the police juvenile department."

Holzhausen likes to bowl and is an enthusiastic fisherman, particularly for bass. He has a cottage on the Big river.

The reference to fishing brought to mind that the only times he has been to Jefferson City were on occasions when he passed through the state capital on a fishing trip.

As the news of Holzhausen's appointment grew more widespread yesterday afternoon, his telephone jangled with increasing frequency.

"I don't know, just a chump, I guess," he replied.

Others jokingly said he was a "plain flatfoot now."

One caller suggested that, since Holzhausen was police board president, his office would constantly be filled with policemen.

"Oh no, it won't," Holzhausen replied. "I know the meaning of the little two-letter word: 'No.' This is a business house. They won't be hanging around here, I can tell you that."

TRUMAN URGES EUROPE TO FIGHT INROADS BY REDS

He Speaks Informally After Receiving Honorary Degree From Rollins College.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

"We may not know what is behind the iron curtain," Truman told a special convocation in Knowles chapel on the Rollins campus, "but we do know that the intelligence of the people in the embattled democracies of Europe, who live in front of the iron curtain, are the world's best hope for peace today."

The President, without mentioning names, assailed those who in recent years had used loosely the term "democracy."

After stressing the importance of providing this nation with leaders trained from childhood in the ways of "true democracy," the President paused briefly, then spoke with a note of gravity in his voice.

"You know," he said, "there isn't a word in the English language that has been so severely abused during the last 10 years as that word, democracy."

"Some people make a travesty of the word. That's one of the greatest words in the history of the English language and it should stand for just exactly what we mean when we say democracy. And not for a counterfeit."

If Truman had a special target in his remarks, it was Communism. Speaking in an academic setting, he repeatedly stressed the importance of education as the primary bulwark against isms contrary to this country's basic democratic concepts.

"Education is our first line of deefnse," he said. "Through education alone can we combat the tenets of Communism. The unfettered soul of free men offers a spiritual defense unconquered and unconquerable."

The President interrupted his vacation at Key West to fly here for the ceremony. His plane, the Independence, landed at the Air Force base at Orlando.

En route here, he drove through cheering thousands who lined the sidewalks in Orlando. Gov. Fuller Warren, who presented Truman for his degree, told the crowded chapel that President Truman "is a liberal."

CITY TO APPEAL TO CIRCUIT COURT ON TRANSIT PASS

operators downtown and in the fringe industrial section around the downtown business district yesterday showed that lunch business in some downtown establishments fell off, while it increased in places in the fringe industrial area. The restaurant operators attributed this to the pass elimination.

It has been a general custom for many workers in the fringe to use their passes to go downtown for lunch or shopping. The check was made by Harry H. Pope, a cafeteria operator, who said the lunch business in his downtown establishment declined 8 to 10 per cent yesterday.

No check has been made by the Associated Retailers as to whether dropping the pass had any adverse effect on sales of downtown stores.

A Negro housemaid told one West End apartment dweller yesterday that she and her family and friends had stayed at home Sunday, instead of going to church morning and evening, and calling in the afternoon. The last weekly passes expired Saturday night.

FRENCH SIGN AGREEMENT TO RESTORE BAO DAI TO THE THRONE OF ANNAM

PARIS, March 8 (AP)

PRESIDENT VINCENT AURIOL of France and ex-Emperor Bao Dai of Annam signed articles today which the French hoped would end the civil war in Indochina.

Annam is a native kingdom making up a large part of the French protectorate of Indochina. The articles signed would return Bao Dai to the throne of an enlarged annam.

Bao Dai said he would return to Indochina April 25. The underground Viet-Nam radio, somewhere in Indochina, broadcast a statement that he would be named a war criminal if he made the deal with Auriol.

GETS SIX MONTHS FOR REFUSAL TO TALK IN ALGER HISS CASE

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—William Rosen of Santa Monica, Calif., today was sentenced to six months in prison for refusing to answer grand jury questions in the Alger Hiss case.

Rosen, 65 years old, has been before the jury three days but has refused to discuss his alleged receipt in 1936 of an automobile which once had belonged to Hiss. Hiss, former State Department official indicted on perjury charges, has told a congressional committee he gave the car to Whittaker Chambers, confessed former Communist courier.

Washington motor vehicle records indicate that in July 1936 certificate of title to the car was transferred to an automobile company which on the same day transferred ownership to Rosen.

Triplets Born to Blind Pair.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8 (UP)—The two surviving infants of triplets born to the blind wife of a blind salesman have been placed in an incubator, hospital officials said today. Mrs. Clyde Stamper, 35 years old, gave birth to two girls and a boy yesterday, but one of the girls died.

$92,636 Illinois Payroll Sinecure Of 3 Holding Other Jobs Disclosed

'State Police Merit Council' Hasn't Met Since 1946, Records Show—One Member Quits, Stevenson Fires Other Two.

By ROY J. HARRIS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 8—More evidence of generous spending of Illinois taxpayers' money came to light today in the story of how three Chicago men, all in highly remunerative private employment, collected $92,636 in state pay in the last eight years as full-time employes of the Department of Public Safety.

These recipients of the state's bounty, the Post-Dispatch learned, were Leonarde Keeler, head of a lie detector company; Lawrence J. Benson, assistant to the president of the Northwestern Railroad, and Ernest Wilfred Puttkammer, professor of law at the University of Chicago.

They were described as members of the "State Police Merit Council," but were carried on the payroll as administrative assistants at $405 a month. The "council," created in July 1941 to examine candidates for state police jobs, hasn't had a meeting since March 1946, according to police records.

One Resigns, Two Fired.

Puttkammer, a widely known expert in criminal law, quit the state payroll Feb. 1, 1948, after drawing a total of $27,398, State Auditor's records show. The other two, however, continued to collect pay—Keeler for a total of $32,574, Benson $32,663—until last month, when Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson learned of the sinecures and ordered them fired immediately.

Director of Public Safety T. P. Sullivan, a holdover from the administration of Gov. Dwight H. Green, insisted to the writer that the "council" members held "frequent meetings—two, three, four times a month." This, however, was at variance with the version given by Gov. Stevenson, who said Sullivan had indicated to him the "council" had been "quite inactive."

State Police Superintendent Harry I. Curtis said Puttkammer and Benson met three days in January 1946, and a similar period in March 1946 to question applicants for 150 newly-created police jobs. Since then, applicants for police replacement jobs have been examined by Sullivan and high-ranking state police officers, with "council" members never on hand, Curtis said.

Early in the Green administration the Chicagoans reportedly met fairly frequently to screen police candidates. This was in the period of changeover of jobholders from Democratic to Republican party membership.

Code Not Obeyed.

There is no contention from any source, however, that the "council" members, as "administrative assistants," were required to conform to the State Civil Administrative Code, paragraph 21 of which says: "All employes in the several departments shall render not less than seven and a half hours of labor each day, Saturday afternoons, Sundays and holidays excepted."

Relating how he learned of the presence of Keeler and Benson on the payroll, Gov. Stevenson said he called on Sullivan last month for suggestions for members of the Governor's proposed committee to examine applicants for more than 100 current police vacancies. Among names suggested by Sullivan were those of Keeler and Benson, and in subsequent conversation the Governor was surprised to learn that he already had an examining board of which these two were members—on salary.

"I decided immediately that I didn't want those men on my examining committee—in the first place I didn't have in mind that the committee members were to receive pay," the Governor said. "And of course I ordered Keeler and Benson removed from the payroll."

Temporary Council Named.

Stevenson's selections for his temporary "merit council," to serve until a permanent merit system can be established by legislation, were Virgil W. Peterson, managing director of the Chicago Crime Commission; Prof. Charles M. Kneier, acting director of the Government and Public Affairs Institute at the University of Illinois, and Rex Andrews, chief of police of Winnetka, Ill. This group began examining applicants for state police jobs yesterday.

Keeler, Benson and Puttkammer started on the state payroll in 1941 as "assistant superintendents of state police," at $333 a month. This status continued until July 1, 1943, when they were carried for one month as "members, police merit council." On Aug. 1, 1943, all three became "administrative assistants, Class II." They received "cost of living" increases to $367 a month in 1945 and to 405 in 1947.

Benson, who, in addition to his other duties, supervises the Northwestern Railroad private police, is treasurer of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. He qualified for this job on the basis of his "connection" with the Illinois State Police.

Keeler is said to spend much of his time traveling about the country and abroad in connection with operation of his lie-detector device.

Moscow-Irkutsk Plane Service.

LONDON, March 8 (UP)—Twenty-six-hour plane service has been started between Moscow and Irkutsk, near the border of Outer Mongolia, the Moscow radio said today. The trip takes six days by train.

BLASSIE OFFERS TO LET CITIZENS PICK HIS CABINET

Says He Will Name Board Advisory Group to Choose His Aids if Elected Mayor.

Nicholas M. Blassie, candidate for the Democratic mayoral nomination, said today that, if elected Mayor, he will appoint an advisory committee composed of prominent citizens to select members of his cabinet and other key city officials.

Blassie, president of Local 88, AFL Meatcutters' Union, failed to obtain the indorsement of the Federation for Economic and Political Education, political arm of the AFL here, in his campaign for the nomination. Dale Ferris, president of the F.E.P.E., announced yesterday that the board of directors of the organization had voted not to take a position on any candidate for nomination at the primary election Friday. Recommendations will be made on nominees after the primary, he said.

CIO Is Backing Darst.

The CIO Political Action Committee last week indorsed Blassie's principal opponent for the nomination, Joseph M. Darst, former Director of Public Welfare, who is the organization-supported candidate.

Darst also received the approval of the Naturalized Voters' League of St. Louis, which represents 15,000 naturalized citizens of voting age in the city, George Facea, president, announced today.

Positions in the city government which Blassie proposed to fill through selections of the committee are: President of the Board of Public Service, Directors of Public Safety, Public Utilities, Public Welfare and Streets and Sewers; Supply Commissioner, Excise Commissioner, Assessor and City Counselor.

"The professional politicians probably will be shocked at this unique but very practical and democratic pledge which I promise to observe faithfully in the spirit and to the letter if I am elected Mayor of St. Louis," Blassie said.

Under No Obligations.

"Fortunately, I am not burdened with any obligations to the professional politicians or wealthy contributors, since I am getting my ward workers and finances from little people who do not expect political appointments. Consequently, I can offer this program in good faith and in an independent spirit.

"Therefore, I pledge that I will appoint to the key positions those men selected by my advisory committee, even though the professional politicians may violently oppose them. I will accept such recommendations even though these persons may have opposed me personally in the primary or general elections.

"Of course, I would be happy if the names recommended by the advisory committee were those of men who were Democrats like myself, but that qualification is non-existent so far as the advisory committee is concerned.

"The committee will be afforded every facility within the Mayor's legal powers, such as a paid secretary, researchers, investigators and expert advisers."

Proposes Broad Committee.

As members of the committee, Blassie proposed to appoint representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths, labor unions, St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis and Washington universities, the Urban League, Bar Association, League of Women Voters, veterans' organizations and the three St. Louis metropolitan newspapers.

A signed article by Blassie, telling of his intention to appoint the advisory committee if elected and outlining his 20-point program, will appear in this week's edition of the St. Louis Labor Tribune.

Ziegenhein Urges G. O. P. 'Old Guard' to Step Aside.

Russell J. Ziegenhein, candidate for the Republican mayoral nomination in Friday's primary election, said in a radio talk last night that he is of the opinion the Republican party "cannot survive and be strong in St. Louis, unless some of the 'Old Guard' leaders step aside and give younger men a chance."

Ziegenhein, a grand-nephew of the late Henry Ziegenhein, who was Mayor of St. Louis from 1897 to 1901, directed most of his talk, over radio station KWK, against Comptroller Louis Nolte, candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Nolte was largely responsible for lining up party organization support solidly behind J. Edward Gragg, lawyer, for the Republican mayoral nomination.

PHILIP MURRAY NEARLY WELL

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 8 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray has "virtually recovered" from a recent appendectomy and will "return to his duties very shortly," CIO Secretary-Treasurer David McDonald said yesterday.

McDonald said he "wished to emphasize" that Murray is almost well to "correct reports being circulated" in regard to his condition. McDonald's statement came shortly after he returned from Atlantic City where Murray is completing his convalescence.

JANITOR, BRILLIANT SCHOLAR, DIES AS HE ACHIEVES 'FAME'

Helped University Students With Subjects Ranging From Calculus to Physics.

LOS ANGELES, March 8 (AP)—Stanton Carr, 55-year-old janitor at the University Methodist Church, was an amazing man.

The tall, white-haired man took the job at the church 10 years ago. Little was known of his past except that he was a captain of marines in World War I.

He soon became an outstanding figure in the congregation, especially among the 2000 University of Southern California students who attend the church. A brilliant scholar, he helped them with their studies from calculus to physics. He was also a linguist.

Skilled in every trade, he kept the big campus church shipshape. His greatest skill, though, was quieting the babies in the nursery.

"He was," says Dr. Wendell Miller, pastor, "the most popular man in the church."

For that reason, he was to be honored Friday night at a testimonial banquet. Dr. Miller said it was to have been the biggest event of the church year.

The Los Angeles Times heard about the banquet and carried a story about it—and Carr.

Parishioners who read the story good-naturedly kidded the janitor about his "fame." He kidded back, then gasped and slumped to the floor. He died in a few minutes.

There will be no banquet Friday night. Sunday afternoon there will be a memorial service for him.

TRIAL RESUMED OVER $1,000,000 BALLARD ESTATE

Contest Is Over Signed Carbon Copy of Will Rejected by Probate Judge Arnold.

Trial of a suit to establish the will of Miss Berenice C. Ballard, who left an estate valued at more than $1,000,000, was resumed today in the court of Circuit Judge Waldo C. Mayfield.

The suit was brought by Albert M. Menzi, executor of the will, against Miss Ballard's sister, Mrs. Nellie E. White, 6255 Wydown boulevard, and two nephews, James F. and William Moffitt Ballard, who are sons of a deceased brother.

Miss Ballard, daughter of the late James F. Ballard, drug manufacturer, died last Sept. 25. In a will made in 1933, she left only $100 to her sister, $500 to William Ballard and $10,000 to James Ballard. As principal beneficiaries the will named Mrs. White's daughters, Mrs. John Heron Brooks, West Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Grace White Walker, Greenwich, Conn.

The original will could not be found, but a signed carbon copy was produced. Wilbur B. Jones, attorney for Mrs. White, contended Miss Ballard must have purposely destroyed the original, and Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold rejected the copy. This had the effect of declaring Mrs. White and the two nephews to be heirs-at-law, with the sister entitled to one half the estate and the nephews the other half.

Otto Erker, attorney for the estate, appealed the Probate Court ruling by filing suit to establish the will.

Miss Ballard, like her father, was noted as a collector of art objects, many of which were donated to museums. In 1940 she donated prints of 17 Albrecht Durer woodcuts to the City Art Museum.

WORKERS RECALLED BY AUTO FIRM AND TWO RAILROADS

TOLEDO, O., March 8 (AP)—Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., has announced recall of 4500 manufacturing and administrative personnel laid off Feb. 25 because of inventory taking.

All production lines will be in normal operation by next Monday, Arthur J. Wieland, executive vice president, said yesterday.

CLEVELAND, March 8 (UP)—The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. announced yesterday that it was calling back to work more than 1000 furloughed employes, effective immediately.

BOSTON, March 8 (AP) — The New Haven Railroad reported yesterday it would reopen its Readville repair shops March 16, recalling to work 597 of the 967 men laid off Feb. 23, when the shops were shut down.

ELECTION IN CHILE RESULTS IN LITTLE CONGRESS CHANGE

SANTIAGO, March 8 (AP)—The four parties supporting the government of President Gabriel Gonzalez Videlas won 76 of 147 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and 11 of 20 new senators in Sunday's congressional elections. They now have 21 senators, counting holdovers, in the 45-man senate.

The parties are the Radical, Liberal, Democratic and Socialist. The President also can usually count for support on the Conservatives who won 33 chamber seats and, counting holdovers, have nine in the Senate.

The National Democratic Front, backed by the outlawed Communists, won only six chamber seats as against 15 previously held.

The moderately rightist Agrario Laboristas won 11 seats in the lower house and added one in the senate to make a total there of four.

VITAL NEWS FOR RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

Now science shows why Sloan's in many cases gives such amazing relief from rheumatic aches, neuralgia, stiff neck and sore muscles. Using infra-red rays, scientists have photographed the blood vessels below the skin-surface. These photos show the expanded veins after an application of Sloan's . . . evidence that an extra supply of vitalizing blood, which carries away waste matter and poisons, has been brought to the pain area.

Scientists have also proved that this beneficial action penetrates deep down below the surface and lasts for hours. You not only feel the wonderful warmth and welcome comfort, you also know that the all-important increased flow of blood is getting at the spot where the pain is.

Elliott Graduate Praises Easy-To-Learn Shorthand

Mrs. Antha Mae Billups, like thousands of other Elliott graduates, is most enthusiastic in her praise of the modern streamlined Elliott way to a secretarial career.

ANTHA MAE BILLUPS

"You can learn the Elliott system of shorthand at any Elliott Business College, and be on a good-paying position in only a few weeks," says Mrs. Billups.

The famous time-saving Elliott secretarial course is taught exclusively in Elliott Colleges of Houston, Beaumont, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Shreveport, Baton Rouge, Oklahoma City, and St. Louis.

The newest addition to the famous chain is the St. Louis school which now makes this system of shorthand available to the people of this city. The St. Louis school is under the personal supervision of W. F. Elliott, president of the eight colleges.

The Elliott system of secretarial training is streamlined and it is copyrighted. One feature of the modernized Elliott course is Elliott shorthand. This unique system is the simplest, most direct, and easiest-to-learn shorthand ever developed.

Featured also is the Elliott method of individual instruction that enables each student to progress according to his or her ability and effort.

For complete first-hand information, without cost or obligation, call MAin 6102, or stop in to see W. F. Elliott personally. If you live out of the city, drop a penny postal card requesting information to Elliott Business College, 505 North 7th Street, St. Louis, Missouri.

WESTERN UNION INVITES 5 OTHER NATIONS TO CONFER ON COUNCIL FOR EUROPE

LONDON, March 8 (AP).

THE Permanent Commission of the Western European Union (Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg) announced last night it had invited Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Eire and Italy to attend a London conference to discuss setting up a Council of Europe.

The council would be composed of one minister from each member nation with power to discuss and recommend solutions on all questions but defense. A consultative parliament would have power to advise the council.

The conference may be held about March 28. One of its tasks will be to work out a constitution for the new structure.

RUSSIANS RETURN U.S. CRUISER; CREW IN DRESS UNIFORMS

Milwaukee Had Served Five Years in Soviet Navy Unde Lend-Lease.

LEWES, Del., March 8 (UP)—The United States cruiser Milwaukee, which served five years in the Soviet navy under lend-lease, anchored in Delaware Bay today for ceremonies returning the ship to the United States Navy.

Only a few crewmen were visible on deck when a Coast Guard launch with newspapermen and photographers aboard drew up alongside the ship, renamed the Murmansk.

The crewmen ran below. A few minutes later they appeared in dress uniforms. About 150 of them lined the rail wearing high fur Astrakhan hats and long black overcoats with wide, brass buckled belts.

Despite a heavy sea, the assistant Soviet naval attache, Capt. K. O. Ryzhkov, boarded the ship, accompanied by Lt. J. L. Wohler, United States Navy liaison officer.

The ceremonies returning the ship to the United States were expected to be delayed until the arrival of the Soviet transport Molotov, which will take the Russians home.

The Milwaukee is the first of 586 American vessels to be returned by Russia.

SELECTED ISSUES UP IN MIXED STOCK LIST

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Stock prices followed a winding course today, never getting very far from Monday's final levels. The market closed with gains and losses pretty well matched.

Sales first hour 290,000 shares; second 190,000; third 150,000; fourth 90,000; fifth 220,000.

Volume, however, included another 100,000 share block of Western Air Lines stock. It was the second time in a week that a 100,000 share lot of that company's stock changed hands. Today's sale was made at 5½, a decline of ¼, but later sales were made at slightly higher or unchanged prices.

A few issues swung outside of the narrow price pattern. Up 1 to around 4 points at one time were Douglas Aircraft, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, and Superior Oil of California.

Also ahead most of the day were Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, American Telephone, Western Union, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas Co., Gulf Oil.

In the Curb gains were posted at times for McCord Corp., National Fuel Gas, United Light & Railways, American Light & Traction, American Maracaibo, Cities Service, and Consolidated Gas Utilities. Huyler's and Claude Neon slipped a trifle at times.

The sale of a second block of Western Air Lines was believed to clean up the holdings of W. A. Coulter, former Western president. Last fall Coulter registered with the Securities & Exchange Commission a total of around 215,000 shares which he then stated he planned to sell. Today's block was purchased by the firms of Burnham & Co. and Bear Stearns & Co. for their own account and others.

LEAD PRICE CUT TO 19½C

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—American Smelting and Refining Co. reduced the price of lead 2 cents a pound to 19½ cents a pound, New York.

This was the first price break for any major non-ferrous metal since prices began to soar following the end of OPA in 1946. The record high price of 21½ cents a pound for lead had been in effect since last Nov. 1, when it was lifted 2 cents a pound.

The reduction had been expected for the past three weeks by the metals trade. It was presaged by a sudden drop in demand from a major user—the storage battery manufacturers.

St. Joseph Lead Co. also announced a two-cent reduction, bringing its price to 19.30 cents a pound, St. Louis basis.

WHEAT CLOSES WEAK, CORN MARKET LOWER

CHICAGO, March 8 (AP) — Grains rallied late in the morning session, but the rally was not sustained, and prices drifted back to around the day's low shortly before the close.

The session started on the easy side in light trading. Later there was buying in wheat attributed to mills and Southwestern interests in wheat. A large commission house bought soybeans for a time and this led to short covering in corn.

However the demand was soon supplied and some profit cashing again knocked prices down.

Oats were more stubborn than other futures and held some of their gains.

BILL DELAYS EVICTIONS IN TRAFFIC WAY AREA

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8—Legislation to prohibit the eviction of persons occupying buildings in the proposed Third Street traffic way area taken under condemnation proceedings, was instituted in the Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Anthony M. Webbe of St. Louis.

The bill provides that neither the State Highway Department nor the city shall demolish any building or evict any tenants for a period of two years after the effective date of the act, which, if the bill passes, would protect the tenants from eviction at least until Jan. 1, 1952.

Webbe said that at least 3000 persons resided in buildings which were to be taken over and that there was no other housing in St. Louis available to them.

"It would be criminal to put these people, most of them poor people out in the street," Webbe said. "For the most part they are living in crowded quarters and paying low rent. St. Louis does not have housing facilities for them, and if they could find other places in which to live, they could not afford to pay the rent that would be asked.

"I have no desire to delay the construction of this highway through the city, but if the city wants to go ahead immediately it should find some way to meet the housnig needs of these people."

Louis Johnson Quits Vultee Board.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 8 (AP) — Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. yesterday announced the resignation from its board of directors of Louis A. Johnson. Johnson has been named by President Truman to succeed James V. Forrestal as Secretary of Defense effective March 31. The announcement was made by Floyd B. Odlum, board chairman.

SUN FO QUITS; GEN. HO MAY TAKE HIS POST

Latter as Premier Would Weaken Chiang's Hold on the Cabinet.

NANKING, March 8 (AP)—Sun Fo, who stayed on as Premier of Nationalist China after the retirement of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as President, resigned today. His resignation opened the way for a Premier more acceptable to the Communists in peace talks to end China's civil war.

Gen. Ho Ying-chin, former Minister of Defense, emerged immediately as the most likely to succeed rotund Dr. Sun. The general, like Sun, is on the Communists' "war criminals" list, but is regarded as far more acceptable to the Reds.

Official Government circles gave Ho the nod as acting President Li Tsung-jen's probable choice. He would be a compromise among various Nationalist political factions and would be able to influence the powerful Whampoa military clique. (Whampoa is the old Chinese military academy.)

Selection of Ho, it was pointed out, would weaken the control over the Cabinet by Chiang and other ultra-conservative elements of the Kuomintang (Government) party. Chiang's weight has been felt in the Government despite his retirement since Jan. 21 to his ancestral home in Fenghwa. Ho is said to be closer to acting President Li than to Chiang. He and the Generlaissimo have had an uneasy truce in recent years.

Sun's announcement that he and his Cabinet had resigned came suddenly at a meeting of the Legislative Yuan, which has had his policies under fire. The legislators cheered Sun's announcement.

—Labor Bill Pros and Cons—

Right of Strikers to Vote in NLRB Elections Removed From Dispute When Taft Agrees They Should Senator's Exception Is in Case of Walkout Supporting Unfair Practice by Union — Point Is Made Taft-Hartley Bars Winning of 'Economic' Strikes.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
FIFTH AND LAST OF A SERIES.
WASHINGTON, March 8.

WHEN a union goes on strike, and the employer hires a new group of workers as permanent replacements, who is entitled to vote if the National Labor Relations Board conducts an election to determine a collective bargaining agent for the struck plant?

From the standpoint of philosophical inquiry, this was one of the most interesting questions raised in the recently completed Senate Labor Committee hearings on the Administration's bill to replace the Taft-Hartley Act.

As a practical matter, however, the issue has been removed from the area of controversy. Senator Taft, co-author of the law, has become convinced that a provision in the Taft-Hartley Act which bars strikers from voting is unjust.

Taft now favors return to the old Wagner Act provision as it was administered, at least in the last years of that law's existence. Then, strikers and strikebreakers hired as permanent replacements were entitled to vote and whichever group won the election became the bargaining agent. An earlier interpretation of the Wagner Act had barred strikebreakers from voting, even though they had been hired as permanent replacements.

Distinction Drawn.

Both the Wagner Act, and the Taft-Hartley Act which supplanted it in 1947, drew a distinction between strikers and workers who quit their jobs. Both recognized that the striker retained an equity in his job, although the Taft-Hartley Act denied him the right to vote in an NLRB election if he had been permanently replaced.

There are three sections in the Taft-Hartley Act which authorize injunctions against strikers: The NLRB general counsel has discretionary authority to seek an injunction against any strike called to support what the law defines as an unfair labor practice by a union; he is commanded under the law to seek an injunction against any strike called to support a secondary boycott; and the Attorney-General is authorized, after receiving instructions from the President, to seek injunctions against strikes which would create national emergencies.

Another Section Cited.

The Taft-Hartley law draws its distinction between strikers and persons who quit their jobs in still another section, which says that nothing in the act shall be construed to make the quitting of his labor by an individual an illegal act. This provision was necessary, of course, to conform with the constitutional prohibition against involuntary servitude.

Two events conspired to bring the issue of voting rights of strikers and strikebreakers to a head at the hearings.

One was an editorial published in December by Business Week, a journal devoted to chronicling news of interest to industry. The editorial, captioned "Why the Taft-Hartley Act Failed," was referred to frequently by witnesses before the committee, and its text was made a part of the committee's records.

Business Week said the act went too far in that it contained provisions which went beyond regulating unions and provided the means for destroying them.

Provisions Listed.

"These are the provisions that could do it," Business Week said. "Picketing can be restrained by injunction. Employers can petition for a collective bargaining election. Strikers can be held ineligible to vote—while the strike replacements cast the only ballots, and if the outcome of this is a 'no-union' vote, the government must certify and enforce it.

"Any time there is a surplus labor pool from which an employer can hire at least token strike replacements, these four provisions, linked together, presumably can destroy a union."

The other factor often brought up in the hearings concerning voting rights of strikers and strikebreakers was the leading decision of the NLRB interpreting the Taft-Hartley restriction on striker voting. This decision was handed down last October in the case of the Pipe Machinery Co. of Cleveland.

There members of the Machinists' Union had struck for higher wages. They were replaced by permanent new employes. The new employes petitioned the NLRB for an election, representing that they had formed an independent union. But when the votes were counted, none had been cast for the independent union, and two of the replacements voted for the striking Machinists' Union. The strikers were also permitted to vote, pending an NLRB decision on whether their votes should be counted. They all voted for the Machinists' Union, but in the end their votes were not counted, and the outcome of the election was that "no union" won the election.

Question Before NLRB.

The only question before the NLRB was whether the strike had been called because of an unfair labor practice by the employer. If it had been, the votes of the strikers and not the strikebreakers would have been counted. But there had been no unfair labor practice—the employer had simply refused, as has always been his right, to meet the demands of the union. It was what the law knows as an "economic" strike, not an "unfair labor practice strike."

Of all members of the Labor Committee, Senator Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, was the most persistent in bringing up the possibility that this provision of the Taft-Hartley law could, particularly in a time of unemployment, when strikebreakers would be easy to obtain, be used by an anti-union employer to break a union which had organized his plant. And, of course, under the facts as they exist, Douglas always got exactly the answer he wanted: It could so be used.

Early in the hearing, Taft made known that he himself had become convinced employers could use this device as a strikebreaking weapon, and that if no one else did, he would seek its removal.

This reporter does not know when Taft first came to the conclusion he reached, but having some knowledge of the Ohioan's real effort to be scrupulously fair, according to his lights, in labor-management legislation, feels warranted in making the assumption that the time coincided closely with the developments which first brought to his attention the acknowledged unfair implications of that section of the law.

Taft Gives His Position.

Taft, discussing the matter with the writer, told him: "I think we ought to decide, independently of other considerations whether strikers have the right to vote. If they have that right, they ought to have the vote. If they don't they ought not to vote."

In that conversation, and several times later on in the record of the committee hearings, he made clear that in his opinion, they did have that right, unless the strike had been called in support of an unfair labor practice by the union itself.

In other words, if the strike is an "economic strike," for more wages or less work, strikers should have the right to vote. In an economic strike the employer and the union may, in all fairness to each, fail to come to a meeting of minds, and strikers remain "employes" even though they are temporarily refraining from working.

An entirely different situation is presented when the union strikes to force an unfair labor practice on the employer—there the strikers, since their strike is unfair, would forfeit their right to vote as employes. If they strike for an unfair purpose, the employer would be justified in removing them from the payroll permanently.

For the rest of this discussion, it will be assumed that the strike is for a "fair" purpose—over issues which a fair-minded employer and a fair-minded union might well disagree.

Parts of Examination Quoted.

It might be useful here to recite part of the examination by Senator Douglas of Harvey Brown, president of the Machinists' Union, and of Herman W. Steinkraus, vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, touching on this issue. Brown was talking about the Pipe Machinery case; Steinkraus on the general subject.

Douglas, inferring from the circumstances that the group which sought a collective bargaining election at Pipe Machinery after the machinists struck got no votes in the election it asked for was a "so-called independent union dominated by management," asked Brown.

"So the claim of the independent union that it represented the employes was not really made in good faith, but was for the purpose of driving out of the plant and sealing the company off from any union for one year?" Brown's answer was, "Correct."

The NLRB, having held a representation election, will not consider a petition for another until after the lapse of a year. This was what Douglas had in mind when he spoke of "sealing the company off from any union for one year."

Taft tried to get Brown to say the Pipe Machinery replacements were not strikebreakers, but that the NLRB had held them to be new, permanent employes. Brown would not agree to that, but did agree when Taft added:

"All I'm saying is that the NLRB held that the replacements were new permanent employes because they had the required skill, had worked in the same geographical area, and were willing to take the same wages the company had offered to the strikers."

Question Put to C. of C. Man.

When Steinkraus was on the stand, Douglas wanted to know what this representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce thought about the Taft-Hartley provision which denies strikers a vote in union representation elections and grants that right to strikebreakers hired as permanent replacements.

"I think that is very unfair," said Steinkraus quickly. "That's one thing that should be changed."

An effort to justify the Taft-Hartley provision as it stands in the law now may be found in the report of the Joint Labor-Management Committee of Congress which had been due this month but was rushed into print last December after the November election had cost the committee its pro-Taft-Hartley majority, in-

Military Welcome for Koreans in Moscow

20-Year Pledge to Resist With Armed Force an Attack on Any Signer Is Reported Included in Treaty.

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP).

A DRAFT of the proposed North Atlantic defense treaty has been sent to the eight sponsoring governments for final review and approval. This means that the negotiators here have, for all practical purposes, completed their work, unless one of the home governments should suggest some major change.

The eight negotiating nations are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Norway.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, it was learned, has arranged to seek unqualified approval of the pact, as now drawn up, from key congressional leaders.

He handed members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee copies of the draft this afternoon at a conference which he called to go over the main points of the treaty before making a summary public.

Move to Include Italy.

Acheson was reported ready to tell the Senators that the diplomatic envoys negotiating the treaty now feels Italy can and should be brought into the alliance quickly along with Denmark, Portugal and Iceland. Chairman Connally (Dem.), Texas, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was said to have dropped his opposition to inclusion of Italy in the agreement.

The home governments of the eight sponsoring nations are expected to look over the complete text and to forward any final suggestions for changes in time for the next meeting of the negotiators on Friday. If the governments are satisfied with the draft as it now stands, the Friday session may be the last on a working level.

At yesterday's meeting, the negotiators "polished" the key article to the agreement—the one which commits participating governments to help any member attacked.

Diplomatic officials connected with the discussions said the present draft provides for an alliance lasting 20 years with the provision that the arrangement can be reviewed after 10 years.

Consultations are provided for among member governments whenever a situation arises which may threaten the peace. The draft is also said to provide for mutual aid in the preparation of defense.

This version is somewhat similar to accounts published by diplomatic writers in London of what they said were the details of the Atlantic pact. They said the treaty would be signed in Washington before the end of March.

Frederick Kuh, London correspondent of the Chicago Sun-Times, who said his information came from "British sources," wrote that the pact defines attack and the operating area of the alliance as follows:

"An attack against one or more of the parties both in Europe and in North America will be considered as an attack against all. In consequence they will assist the party or parties attacked by taking immediately, both individually and collectively, such action, including the use of armed force, as is deemed necessary to restore and maintain security."

W. N. Ewer, diplomatic writer for the London Daily Herald, organ of Britain's ruling Labor party, listed three points he said were in the treaty:

1. Immediate help to any member in case of attack.
2. Mutual aid in the preparation of defense.
3. Consultation if there seems any danger of attack.

Senator Watkins (Rep.), Utah, introduced a resolution today asking President Truman to submit the pact to the Senate for study in advance of its signing. He told the Senate there was "no reason" why the pact should not be made

Dulles Decries Talk That War Is Inevitable

Calls on Church Study Conference to Help Dispel 'Mood of Fatalism.'

By CHARLES MERCER
CLEVELAND, March 8 (AP)

JOHN FOSTER DULLES, United States delegate to the United Nations, said today he knows no responsible official of any nation who believes Russia "now plans conquest by open military aggression."

He addressed representatives of more than 35,000,000 American Protestants gathered here to examine major issues threatening world peace. The conference is sponsored by the Department of Internal Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

U. S. Countering Red Tactics.

Dulles told the 400 delegates representing 57 denominations and allied religious bodies that some persons "talk about war as something that Soviet policy makes inevitable." He said, "So far as it is humanly possible to judge, the Soviet Government, under conditions now prevailing, does not contemplate the use of war as an instrument of its national policy."

Dulles said that up to now, the Soviet Union has been using the Communist party "for actual expansive operations," but that this was "short of war" and could be countered "by methods short of war" as the United States has already proved.

Dulles cautioned that if major military aid were furnished Scandinavia under the projected North Atlantic security pact, "It can be assumed that the Soviet state would use the Red Army if its leaders felt their homeland was imminently and seriously menaced.

Task of Conference.

He said "many today feel that history is repeating itself and that forces beyond our control are irresistibly dragging us into another war." A primary task of this study conference is to "dispel such a mood of fatalism."

Discussing the purpose of the conference — courses of action which will increase Christian influence in relations among nations —Dulles said:

"No people are ever great, even in worldly terms, without a faith and nothing would be more dangerous and destructive than to have the present great material power of the United States rattling around in the world detached from the guiding direction of a righteous faith."

First Phase of Clash With Russia Won, Hardest Test for U.S. Ahead

Kremlin, Cheated of Easy Victory in Europe, Settling Down for the Long Pull—What America Must Do to Meet Threat.

By JOSEPH ALSOP
(Copyright, 1949.)
WASHINGTON.

THE final impression left by an intensive inquiry into the state of Europe is that the hardest test is still ahead for the United States. The state of Europe itself is vastly improved; indeed, in western Europe we have won the first major engagement in the world struggle between the Soviet Union and the West. But the makers of Soviet policy notoriously think, not in years, but in decades. Having been cheated of their expected easy victory in Europe, they are merely settling down for the long pull.

The question is whether we in America also have the foresight and guts to settle down for the long pull. This is the hardest test that is now ahead. It will not be an easy test to meet, since we shall be progressively deprived of our habitual stimulant, our customary political eye-opener.

Instead of stirring European crises, the new danger signals will be slow political changes in distant regions whose peoples and geography are equally strange, as in China; a Soviet rearmament effort which we may sense as huge but cannot exactly measure, and a program to put the whole Soviet empire in military array, the sternness and effectiveness of which will be three-quarters masked from us by the iron curtain. Yet, the whole future will depend upon whether we respond to these only dimly described danger signals.

Tanks an Example.

This may seem to be a double overstatement of the case. But while Soviet intentions must always remain enigmatic, what little is known of Soviet actions is enough to give the alarm. For instance, Soviet heavy tank production is now known to have reached a figure of between 3000 and 5000 tanks annually, which will give the Red Army an armored force of between 20,000 and 30,000 tanks in six or seven years' time.

This is not a statistic which can be lightly disregarded by the almost unarmed West. Fit data of this sort into the pattern of the drive for political conquest which the Kremlin is already carrying on. You must thus conclude that it is no longer safe to go on hoping for the best without preparing for the worst.

Equally, there is no overstatement above of the American responsibility in the period we are entering. An American student of politics abroad in these times occasionally wants to paraphrase Kipling's slightly peevish address to his countrymen, "Ye nothing know of England who only England know."

American policy is not the imperialism that Kipling was talking about. But every responsible European leader frankly acknowledges that all major decisions of the world struggle must ultimately be made in Washington. Even Europe's internal politics are intimately influenced by the views and measures of the American Government. And even including Britain, the European nations have neither the strength nor the resources to carry them safely through, unless the United States willingly makes the sacrifices and bears the burdens that must be made and borne by the acknowledged leader of the West.

If this is the underlying situation, what is to be done about it? The Atlantic pact and the inauguration of a program to rearm western Europe are, of course, major first steps in the right direction. But, unhappily, they are only first steps.

It is not enough to organize the defense of the Atlantic community, any more than it would have been enough for Hindenburg and Ludendorff to hold their lines in France in the first World War, meanwhile permitting their position to be flanked by Churchill's Gallipoli campaign. Europe is the undoubted center of world politics. But our whole political-economic-strategic position can also be made untenable if the Kremlin much further extends its sway in the Far East, or if the strategically vital Middle East is seriously menaced.

Long and Costly Task.

The steps that must immediately follow the Atlantic pact are therefore steps to stabilize the situation in these more distant threatened regions. The task will

Don't Separate Rolla

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The question of separation of the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla from the University of Missouri at Columbia is again before the public, that is to say the "nominal public." House Bill No. 82, introduced by Representative B. H. Rucker of Rolla, will be up for committee hearing on March 9 at 7 p.m.

It seems coincidental that Mr. Rucker is not only the author of this bill but is also the chairman of the committee before which the bill is to be discussed. It follows that discussion of the bill will be prejudiced in favor of its passage.

Local interests in Rolla favor separation of the two schools and have caused the above bill to be introduced before the State Legislature. This bill, if passed, would place the Rolla school in direct competition with all state colleges and the University of Missouri for funds and support.

It would cost the taxpayers of Missouri additional dollars because such a separation would require the duplication of facilities and administrators. Furthermore, nothing would be gained by either school if the separation was effected. Since Rolla School of Mines is the major engineering school in addition to being the second largest division of the University of Missouri, together they enjoy the prestige and benefits to be derived from the present unification. It materially aids in the securing of outstanding instructors, scholarships and a multitude of benefits for the students.

On one hand the present international reputation and successful administration of the University of Missouri unquestionably promotes the interests of the students, alumni and citizens in the State of Missouri, while on the other hand no benefits would be realized at all.

Separation of the two schools has been opposed by the majority of the members of the Alumni Association of the Missouri School of Mines. The incumbent Alumni Association Officers were elected in the fall of 1948 on a platform opposing separation by a 10 to 1 majority.

All public-minded citizens and educational leaders are urged to join the M.S.M. Alumni association in its fight to prevent this heinous bill from passing. Similar legislation to the above was introduced in December 1947 and was justifiably killed, clearly indicating the will of the people.

He's Against Passes

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

For the past week there has been a tremendous outcry against the removal of the several transportation passes. Frankly, I fail to see much justification in these complaints.

Now the local politicians are raising their voices in this chant and asking for an abatement of this order.

If all of us were to be brutally frank with ourselves we would be forced to confess to having passed our passes to others for their use when the terms of the sale of these passes stated they were nontransferable.

Also in riding the various forms of public transportation for years who hasn't noticed the abuse of so many riders getting on the busses and street cars to ride as little as two blocks?

Also, the abuse of the cars as freight conveyances. All too often I have been pushed around by these riders bringing in large bags of food, and almost without exception on a pass.

And as for the student passes, what justification was there for these passes lapping over Saturdays and Sundays? If I am correct, there are virtually no classes held on Saturday except at the universities, and those students were not eligible to purchase this type of pass. I have no connection with nor particular love for the Public Service Co., but for the sake of fairness why not give it a chance to prove its position until this trial period has elapsed? Without a shadow of a doubt in my mind most of our transportation problems will be solved through the final elimination of these passes.

FAIR PLAY.

Ersatz in Foods

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

When products such as the salt substitutes which were recently taken off the market by the federal authorities can be manufactured and sold "after trial on about 10 rats," it seems evident that Representative Keefe of Wisconsin is on the right track in his speech to the House on the use of chemical compounds in foods.

Can it be that discoveries in synthetic compounds and substitutes have gone faster than the Food and Drug Administration has been able to cope with them?

I have had personal experience—not pleasant—with two of these ersatz preparations. So I hail further investigation of an insidious encroachment upon the health of the public.

It is simply criminal that food can be tampered with this way.

BEATRICE R. DUBOIS.

Out of a Hat

St. Louis today, owing to the bungling of Gov. Forrest Smith and the amazing haste of the State Senate, has a new Board of Police Commissioners.

It is a board of which the community does not know what to expect. It is a board about which citizens have every reason to be much concerned.

After the unprecedented backing and filling of recent weeks, the Governor sent in the name of William L. Holzhausen, a 44-year-old lumber company man.

The Senate Municipal Corporations Committee immediately met and approved the new appointee, and along with him the three pending appointees, Maurice G. Roberts, Daniel G. Church and Charles H. Ostertag.

Thereupon the committee report was rushed to the Senate floor and all four were forthwith confirmed. There was not ever a quorum in the Senate chamber.

The fact that the Missouri Constitution requires nominations to be voted by a majority was ignored as if it never existed. No one objected to the lack of a quorum and the nominations were roared through.

There was no inquiry into the experience, interest or qualifications of the new president of the board.

Indeed, there was no exact information as to whether the latest appointee was to be the president. Gov. Smith sent in the name without designation as to President. It was merely "vice H. Sam Priest," but that might have meant only the seat Mr. Priest held on the board.

The Governor explained when asked that it was his "intention" that Mr. Holzhausen be president.

This is a detail, but it is important in that it suggests the loose, offhand way in which this vital piece of public business for the people of St. Louis has been handled by their Governor and their State Senators.

It is no discredit to Mr. Holzhausen as a person that he is, for all practical purposes, a name pulled out of the hat.

Gov. Smith really does not know the new Police Board head. He says he met him with some other lumber dealers when the state sales tax was first enacted.

Mr. Holzhausen says: "I don't think I would know Gov. Smith if I met him on the street." The appointee professes to be at a loss as to why he was chosen.

The St. Louis Senators, and there are seven of them, do not know the man they have confirmed to be board president.

In the past, the practice has been to call a prospective public official of such importance to Jefferson City and to have him appear before the committee so that it might have first hand information about him.

Apparently, the only overture made by anyone at Jefferson City to Mr. Holzhausen was a telephone call from Senator Pentland and at the time the prospective Police Board head thought he was talking to "Senator Pendleton."

So far as the public knows, the only information the State Senate had on St. Louis' new Police Board head at the time of confirmation was that he was born in St. Louis, that he had some children and that he would accept the office. What a travesty on popular government!

All things considered it is hard to see how, the appointing and confirming authorities could know less or seemingly care less about the president of a board which has been distinguished in the past for public service.

Add the unofficial way in which other names were raised and then dropped. Add also the stirrings of the gamblers.

In such perspective, there arises a situation that gives every St. Louisan cause for alarm.

This new board has its own record to write, but not a member of it can object if every citizen of St. Louis should say that it is in office by a procedure that flouts the public interest and raises the gravest kind of doubts.

Improving Illinois' Highway Police

Gov. Stevenson is moving, as he said he would, to take the Illinois State Highway Police system out of patronage politics. Pending action by the Legislature to provide a permanent merit system for the patrol, the new Governor is taking steps to do what he can by executive order.

To this end he has just appointed a temporary three-man merit council to screen applicants for highway police posts. These men—Prof. Charles M. Kneier, chairman of the department of political science at the University of Illinois; Virgil Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission; and Rex Andrews, Winnetka chief of police—obviously do not make up a partisan board in any sense. The people of Illinois can count on them to weigh one application against another, indeed, to leave some places open temporarily rather than fill them with unqualified candidates promoted through purely patronage channels.

If the Legislature does its work as well as Gov. Stevenson is doing his with respect to this important matter, the Illinois highway police will be taken out of politics once and for all at the present session.

A Sop to Insurance Regulation

The vast life insurance companies are in the curious position of embracing more state regulation to avoid threats of federal action. This is what is happening in the New York Legislature's investigation.

In New York the inquiry centers on the need to protect policyholders against dangerous investments. This is a high and worthy cause, and some of the recent multi-million-dollar insurance loans to business have been on questionably thin security. There is ample room for the states to act in this field.

Much more is involved in the insurance question, however, than the protection of the policyholder. The companies have become the largest capital repositories in the country. Their resources exceed the wealth of many states. A small group of entrenched insurance directors and executives can turn the flow of capital on or off at will, exercising a life and death power over American private business. What should be done to curb this great power, or at least to guard against its misuse?

The spokesmen of insurance plead that they do not really wield much power. Robert E. Dineen, New York's Insurance Commissioner, punctured this pretense in a scornful phrase. "Pure corn," he called it. This sounds like the utterance of an informed state official, but neither his state, nor any state, can do much to control industrial finance that leaps state boundaries at will.

Only the Federal Government can deal with such a problem. That is why no action that New York can take alleviates the need for the full-dress congressional investigation which Senator McCarran and Representative Celler are sponsoring. Indeed, the very eagerness of the insurance men to embrace more state regulation hints that there may be a very much bigger story which they prefer not to have Congress hear.

No Transport Solution Yet

Activities affecting transportation are parceled out among a number of federal bureaus. Each tends to behave as though there were no kind of transportation except the one with which it deals. They duplicate one another's work and pursue conflicting policies. Hence the Hoover Commission has necessarily decided that the setup does not foster "the best possible transportation system," or the most economical.

The commission hopes to bring better order into the situation by merging transport bureaus into the Commerce Department. The National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, the Coast Guard, the Public Roads Administration and the Office of Defense Transportation would be absorbed bodily. Such shifts seem to present no really serious difficulties.

It is another story, however, when the commission proposes to give the Commerce Department certain present functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission (railroad mergers, regulations to deal with car shortages, railroad and truck safety); of the Maritime Commission (the purchase, sale and subsidizing of ships), and of the Civil Aeronautics Board (air safety rules and enforcement). These shifts run the risk of causing as much trouble as they eliminate.

If, for example, the Commerce Department ordered better rail safety appliances and higher rates were needed to pay for them, the rate case would go to another agency, the Interstate Commerce Commission. The rate-controlling duties of the ICC, the CAB and the Maritime Commission cannot be put into an executive department, and the Hoover Commission does not propose to do so. But these judge-like duties cannot be cleanly separated from the administrative duties without doing new violences to orderly federal management.

A commission member, Representative Clarence Brown, objected that the administrative functions should not be centralized unless the regulation of rates, finances, etc., is also brought into a single body. This seems an echo of the railroads' old campaign to bring all transport under the ICC—a prospect which makes air and ship operators shudder, since the ICC has a reputation for favoring the railroads. An efficient national transportation system does call for a single regulatory agency, but if the ICC is the chosen instrument, it needs far-reaching reforms. With proper reforms, the ICC could also assume administrative responsibility over all kinds of transportation, making it unnecessary to set up a new division of authority in the Commerce Department.

The ICC is outside the Hoover Commission's bailiwick but it is in Congress' province, and the commission's inability to get a clean-cut solution to its transportation problem is an eloquent reason why Congress should address itself in earnest to this broader undertaking.

Art Appreciation of the Doodle

Doodling is of value in art, according to the noted artist Stanley William Hayter, and we accept Mr. Hayter as an authority. According to him, it would be "limiting and stultifying" for an artist to be in control of the situation at all times. The artist creates something that is personal when he completely relaxes and draws automatically.

On behalf of the spectator, let us hasten to add that when looking at the artist's creation he is not always in full control of the situation, either. He needs to relax to understand it just as much as the artist needed to relax in order to create it, we guess.

If artists relax and draw doodles under anything like the same circumstances that nonartists do, we know some of the formulas for spectators to use in relaxing into the right frame of mind to understand them. Let the spectator take a telephone along to the art gallery with him, and be waiting for his call to go through while looking at the painting.

Or better still, let him take his boss along, and do his looking while waiting for the old gaffer to quit droning on and get down to the point.

One Way to Close Bookies

The California Crime Commission now makes a matter of record what already has been rather generally known: the fact that the Capone syndicate's Continental Press wire service has virtually a monopoly on furnishing horse-racing information to betting establishments. St. Louis, for example, remembers that the Capone crowd took over the Pioneer service formerly operated here by Bev Brown and Gully Owen. And St. Louis feels as strongly as does the California Crime Commission that this is a business which leads to "much bloodshed, violence, intimidation, bribery and corruption."

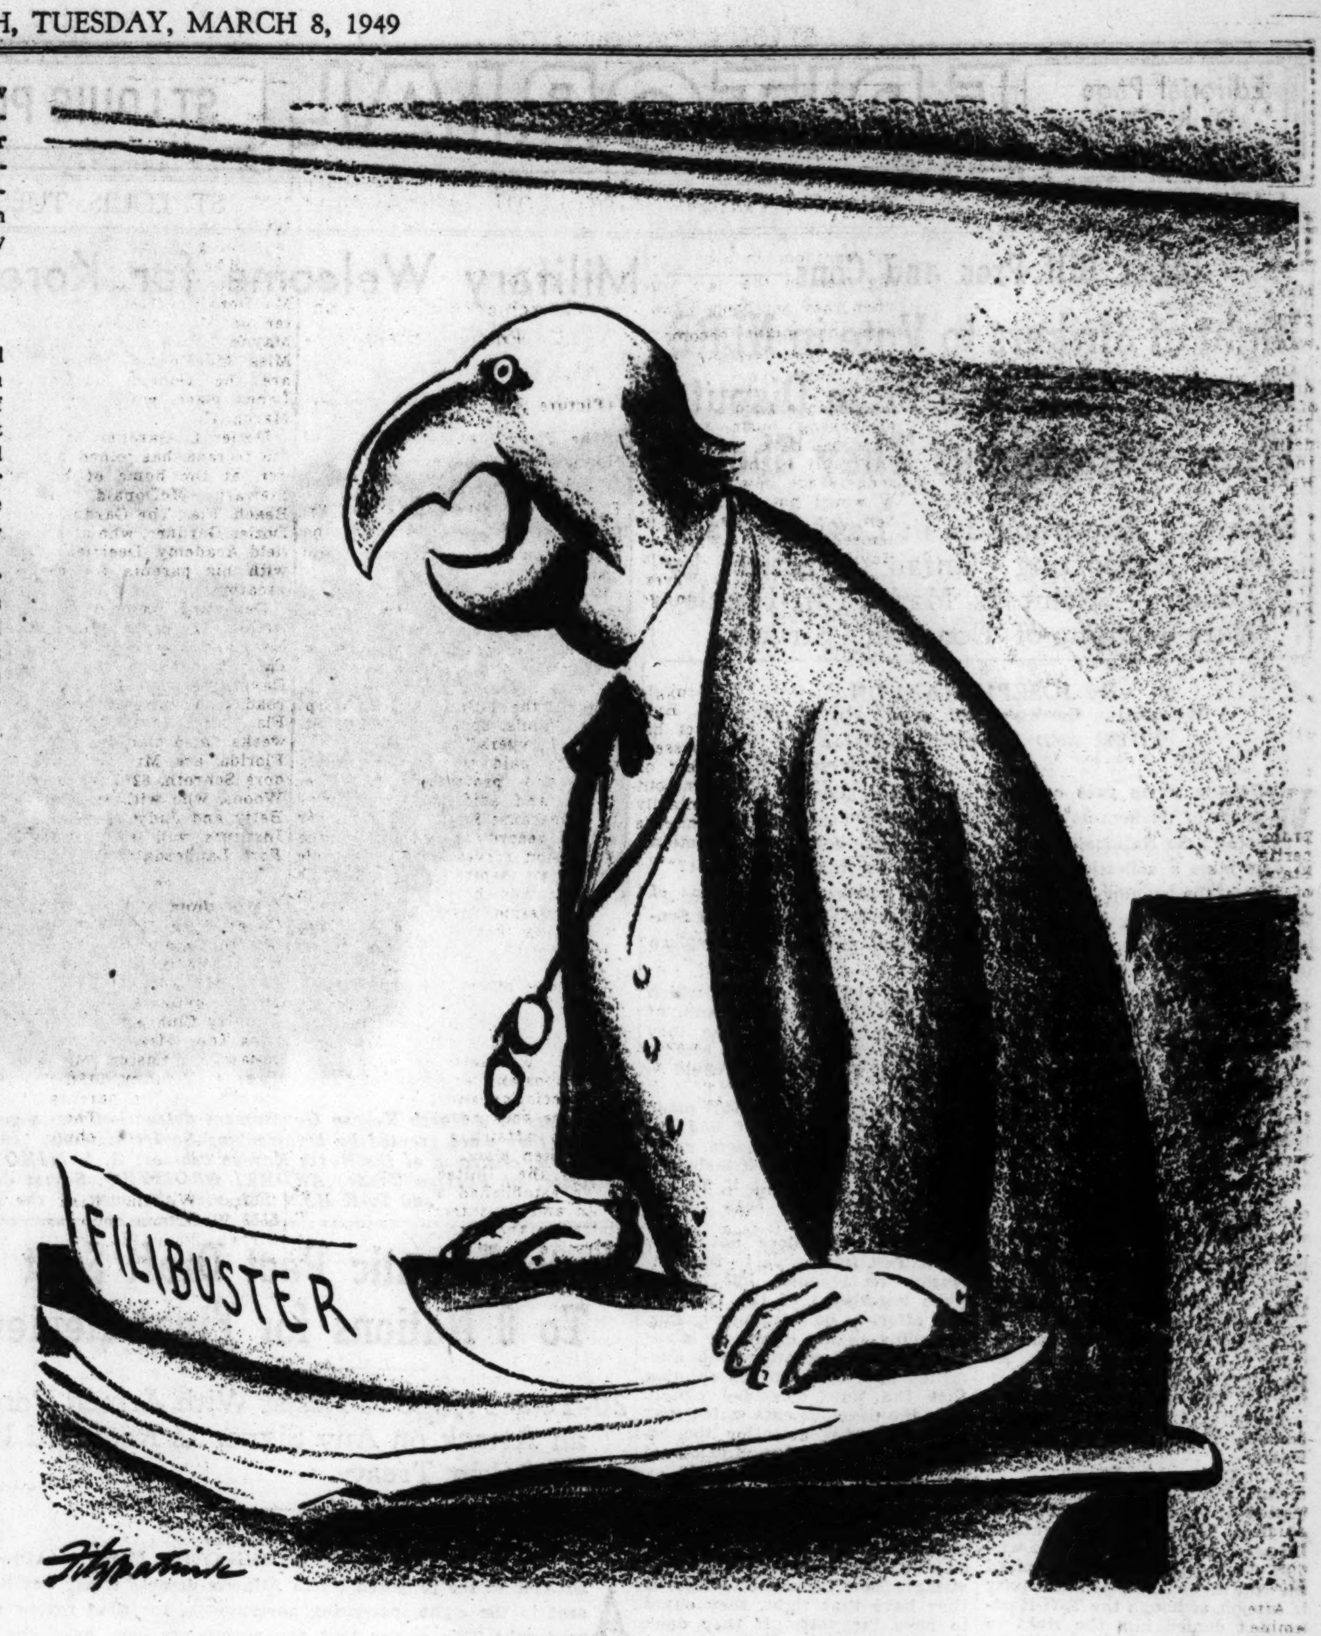
California felt that this race-news business had suffered a real set-back when the United States Ninth Circuit Court last month issued an order forbidding Western Union to make its wires available to Continental. But now the crime commission is forced to issue a warning that the Capone syndicate finds telephone lines just about as useful as telegraph wires.

In the effort to stop commercialized gambling in Missouri, former Gov. Donnelly, armed with the same knowledge, ordered Southwestern Bell not to provide service to bookies in St. Louis and Kansas City. Yet the St. Louis police just a few days ago discovered a new "horse-parlor" on North Fourth street, in Commission Row, which did virtually all of its business by telephone and which apparently encountered no great difficulty in having 10 telephone instruments installed. On being notified of the purpose of the phones, the company ordered their removal.

Perhaps the telephone company feels that it has no easy way of knowing for what purpose its instruments are to be used. Perhaps it feels that it has no business to find out. The fact remains, however, that bookies—and the syndicate on which they depend—would have a hard time staying in business if phone and wire services were denied them. If Southwestern is unwilling to withhold service on its own accord, legislators and courts should make sure that it is ordered to do so.

As a beginning, Gov. Smith could repeat his predecessors' orders. Few other single actions on his part could do more to dispel the notion that gamblers have taken his election as a green light for stepping up their activities in this state.

If the Governor wants support for such an order, he can find plenty of it in the California Crime Commission report. The story there is the story here.



LEGISLATION MUST WAIT

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Winner of many fights, the famed modern architect won another battle over his 27-story steel-and-glass "vertical community" for 1600 people at Marseilles; "I shall ignore the regulations," says he, "for it is my work which will give birth to new regulations."

Sylvain Zegel in the Manchester Guardian Weekly

In France today Le Corbusier is having the time of his life. His new housing project at Marseilles has probably aroused more determined opposition than anything he has built, or tried to build before. He is not the man to shrink from public controversy. All over the world he has had to defend his reputation as one of the acknowledged leaders of modern architecture in bitter public argument with his detractors and often with his employers.

In Moscow, New York and Rio de Janeiro his work has been criticized as fervently as it has been praised. Now in his own country he is facing the fiercest criticism and enjoying the most enthusiastic support that have ever come his way.

Le Corbusier

What Le Corbusier calls his "vertical community" will be more like a town than an apartment building. Standing in the middle of eight acres of gardens, it will house 1600 people in 330 separate flats. A shopping center is to occupy one entire story, including food shops, a chemist's, a laundry, post office, tobacconist, hairdresser, florist and news agent.

Light, Air and Space

Many other amenities will be provided on the roof—a 330-yard running track, a "solarium," gymnasium, swimming bath, a creche, and the community's youth club, most of them in the open air. The building's 27 stories will be supported, 23 feet clear of the ground, on 36 concrete pylons, and the whole structure will be 455 feet long, 80 feet wide and over 200 feet high.

Le Corbusier has compared the building's 45,000-ton ferro-concrete frame to a gigantic "bottle rack," designed to hold prefabricated dwelling units instead of bottles. Each flat will measure 70 feet by 13 feet, and part of it will be divided horizontally into two floors, each 8 feet 4 inches in height. The remaining space will become a large, airy living-room with 16 feet 8 inches of head-room.

Both ends of each flat will be made of glass. A garden terrace, protected by "sun filters," will provide fresh air and shade in the summer. (The filters are designed to afford protection against the excessive heat of the summer, but to allow the winter sun to penetrate freely into the flats.) In addition, an air-conditioning system will protect the inhabitants against the extremes of the Marseilles climate.

Nature in the Metropolis

It is Le Corbusier's firm belief that a house is not just a place where a man may eat and sleep—a man needs a real home, a place where he can relax, and cultivate his body and his mind without losing touch with nature. He believes that, in Marseilles, his "vertical community" can meet these needs.

It is on this very point that Le Corbusier's many critics emphatically disagree with him, but it was not until the building was seven stories high that the first protests were raised. The Committee of Public Hygiene, whose job it is to enforce the sanitary and building regulations, ordered an immediate stoppage of work. Last October the committee twice reported that, although "the Marseilles experiment is very tempting" it was, at the same time, "adventurous."

Most of its members agreed that the lighting and ventilation of the lower floors was inadequate, particularly in the kitchens, which would (in their opinion) be plunged forever in semi-darkness.

If the Electricity Went Off

Moreover, the committee expressed its concern about the air-conditioning system, the lighting arrangements in the corridors, and the water supply, all of which might be interrupted by mechanical breakdowns. The possibility of such breakdowns together with the lack of wide stairways (to permit rapid evacuation in case of fire) would endanger the lives of the inhabitants.

The committee's reports were sent first to the Ministry of the Interior, who sent them on to Eugene Claudius-Petit, the Minister of Reconstruction and Town Planning. He assumed full responsibility himself and went straight to Marseilles. The Minister's impromptu comment on seeing the first few stories of the "vertical community" was, "C'est formidable."

Later he expressed the same opinion, rather more formally in a speech at the end of his visit: "I believe that the pessimistic atmosphere in which this building was started will change to one of optimism, which will increase in intensity as the work proceeds."

Triumph of the Architect

M. le Corbusier is fond of telling how the Minister became convinced. The lighting in the kitchens was the most frequently criticized detail of his plan; before the Minister's visit one kitchen was completely furnished so that it looked more or less in working order. When the Ministerial procession arrived Le Corbusier announced: "Look, M. le Ministre! The room which is to drive the housewives to suicide."

Everybody (including the Minister) burst out laughing. Even with the lights switched off the room was bright as the day outside. The "vertical community" had been saved, thanks to the help and backing of the Minister of Reconstruction.

Le Corbusier is too old a fighter to believe that he will not have other obstacles to overcome before his work is finished—he knows that other regulations will be invoked against him. But all he says is: "I will overcome all the obstacles, I shall ignore the regulations. Myself, I am a builder and I build. For it is my work which will give birth to new regulations."

GAMBLERS ALL.

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

George Bernard Shaw wants the British Government to exempt writers from income tax, the same as it exempts gamblers, on the ground that writing is a gamble.

Yes, an author does gamble on his ability to make a living. But so does a weatherman, a poll taker, a farmer, a job-holder, a pretzel manufacturer and everyone else on this planet that is spinning through space toward an unknown destiny.

The Ghosts of Henry James

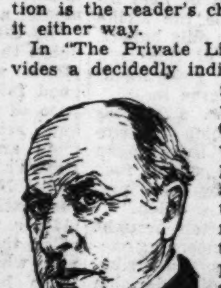
THE GHOSTLY TALES OF HENRY JAMES, edited by Leon Edel. (Rutgers University Press, 765 Pages, $5.)

Henry James had a life-long interest in the supernatural and in the "ghost story" as an art form. "The Turn of the Screw" is undoubtedly his pre-eminent contribution to the ghostly literature and its popularity has partly obscured the fact that he wrote many others. Mr. Edel's compilation is an attempt to bring that phase of his talent into one focus and to show the characteristic reactions of his mind when dealing with psychic phenomena in general.

As in his non-ghostly tales Mr. James becomes increasingly more subtle as he gains experience as a writer and it is also notable that his ghosts—like his flesh-and-blood creatures—are usually rather elegant and well mannered even when they're bent on nothing but trouble. But though he disdains such crudities as walking skeletons or headless horsemen he brings a chill to your skin just the same. So it doesn't matter whether the ghost—as in some cases—is the projection of somebody's disturbed mental state or a more standardized apparition visible to several pairs of eyes, it does the job a ghost is supposed to do.

One of the best in Mr. Edel's collection is "The Ghostly Rental" which was written in 1875, early in James' career. It is lucid, direct and chronological. For that reason it should appeal not only to such Henry James fans as may have missed it but to those who regard the mature Jamesian style as a baffling maze of meaningless refinements. In this story the No. 1 Ghost turns out to be a fake. But she—for it's a lady—is fittingly punished for no sooner does she acknowledge her mortality than she sees a ghost on her own. The haunter, in short, becomes haunted. Whether the second one is the real thing or an hallucination is the reader's choice. You can take it either way.

In "The Private Life" Mr. James provides a decidedly individual touch by giving a man a ghost while he is still alive, Clare Vawdrey writes wonderful books and plays but never says a word in conversation, that anyone can remember. Avoiding the commonplace explanation, that no author ever gives away something he can sell, Mr. James resolves the puzzle by having Vawdrey discovered in his room when he is known to be strolling on the terrace. Perhaps, in this instance, Mr. James was merely having his say about a split personality.



Henry James

There are 18 stories in the book including "The Turn of the Screw." Most of them are rewarding but some are so attenuated that the suspense gets lost in the verbiage. Mr. Edel provides a general introduction and a preface to each story. The reader is advised to skip the prefaces unless he's preparing a college term paper.

THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

Widow's Walk

WALK THROUGH THE VALLEY, by Zelda Popkin. (Lippincott, 320 pgs., $3.)

This is a story of readjustment. Each character in the novel is so much aware of the psychiatric aspect of the case that one wonders how the author has made them as alive as they are. One feels that Mrs. Popkin must have looked around for a good subject for her novel, decided that there are always more widows after a war, and proceeded to build a case history that could be used as a typical example.

Yet for all this Katherine Brewer is a living person; one has met her before and one has understanding for her loss and her need to rebuild her life. One even remembers poignant moments; the opening of the green metal box of her husband's papers, the yellowed clipping, the old snapshot of the children, or the children's own efforts to comfort her. Bit by bit her life is put together again, and in the end there even comes the possibility of a whole new chapter.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Ganging Up Against Small Airlines

IN the long days and nights of waiting and boredom, in the tense intervals between combat, a lot of young men in the last war thought about what they wanted to do when they got back home. Many dreamed about starting a little business that might become a good-sized business. They were tired of being ordered around, they wanted to be their own boss.

Childs

One who came back with that dream was Lewis C. Burwell Jr. of Charlotte, N.C. He had a very definite idea of the business he wanted to start.

Having been a combat pilot for most of the war —10 combat citations and three Distinguished Flying Crosses—he wanted to stay in aviation. His idea was for an airline that would take tourists on all-expense excursion trips.

Burwell formed Resort Airlines. Stock was sold, most of it to veterans, some of it to wealthy men who thought well of the proposal. Working intensively, the young promoter got operating safety certificates from the United States, Canada, Mexico and most of the Caribbean and Central American countries.

A Popular Service.

It was soon apparent the idea would take hold with the public. In the summer, Resort Airlines carried parties to the American West and the Canadian Northwest. In the winter, the tours were to the Caribbean and Central America.

Most of Burwell's customers were people who had never flown before or who had never taken a long trip. They liked having everything done for them—hotel reservations, air schedules, the whole thing wrapped up in one package at reasonable cost.

Before long, Resort Airlines had three DC-4s and seven DC-3s. It was a going concern. The dream seemed to have come true.

Red Tape Tangles.

Then Burwell began to have trouble with the Civil Aeronautics Board. The temporary operating authority issued by the CAB was modified. A long series of negotiations with the tourist industry, studies, hearings, briefs and, finally, a report by the trial examiner cost the company approximately $150,000.

After eight months, a trial examiner recommended a certificate of public convenience and necessity for Resort Airlines. Exceptions were filed, including the protests of the big, scheduled airlines. Their spokesmen argued that Resort was taking business they would otherwise have.

Burwell's reply is that most of his passengers are new to travel and they would not be likely to make their own reservations and take themselves from place to place. Having once made an all-expense, conducted tour, however, they are far more liable to go again on their own.

No Accidents.

In spite of the constant struggle with Government red tape, Burwell could point to the fact his line had flown 25,000,000 passenger-miles without an accident of any sort. He could also point out that Resort had voluntarily adopted the same safety standards as the big lines, and in some instances the requirements were higher.

If ever there was an example of small business, of enterprise, of ingenuity, of hard work, this seems to me to be it. Yet now Resort, along with all other unscheduled lines—most of them operated by veterans—is shut down by a CAB order.

The other day the CAB awarded the scheduled lines an additional $8,000,000 in subsidy. The unscheduled lines got no subsidy and have never asked for one.

Big Fellows' Claims.

The big lines claim, of course, that the little fellows want to skim off the cream and take no responsibility for regularly operated routes. It is a highly significant fact that not one new domestic trunk line carrier has been licensed since Congress passed the Air Regulation Act in 1938.

The drive originating with the big lines is to cut down competition. The small lines are trying to present their case to the Government and the public, but they are handicapped by lack of funds.

Resort, unlike most unscheduled lines which have no foreign ports of call, has one final appeal. That is to the White House.

This Administration professes to be for small business and for the veteran, although many of its acts have a contrary look. President Truman has a chance to prove all the professions of good intent toward the struggling small business man that he has made from time to time. It is too early to freeze the pattern of air transportation.

GIRL IN JOB SWAP SAYS U.S. LOOKS JUST LIKE IN THE MOVIES

British Factory Worker Finds Wallet With $20 Stolen on Arrival at New York.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

UNION CITY, N.J., March 8 (UP)—A 24-year-old British factory girl, who arrived today to exchange jobs for a month with an American, said the United States looked to her "just like it does in the movies."

Miss Ada Fishburn, daughter of a coal miner, never had been outside the village of Pagebank in northern England before.

"I saw the statue of "Liberty," she said. "I wish my mom could see it. I know a lot about America from the movies. I go to them every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday night."

Miss Fishburn, a slender, five-foot, four-inch, brunette, was here to take the job of Miss Mary Uglianitza at the Duro Test Corporation plant for 30 days. Miss Uglianitza now is in Pagebank, taking over Miss Fishburn's job at the company's branch plant there for a similar period.

The exchange was arranged by the company to better international understanding.

Ada had an unpleasant introduction to the United States. When she reached New York last night aboard the Queen Elizabeth, she found someone had stolen her wallet with the $20 she had managed to save for the trip from her $15-a-week salary. She will receive $36 a week for doing the same work here.

MRS. FREDERICA JONES LEAVES $3,000,000 ESTATE

BURLINGTON, Vt, March 8 (AP)—Mrs. Frederica Vanderbilt Jones, former wife of the late newspaper publisher, Ralph Pulitzer, left an estate of more than $3,000,000, court records showed today.

Mrs. Jones died recently in Arizona. Her will named her husband, Cyril Jones of Shelburne, as legatee for all real estate and personal property and six parts of the fortune which was divided into sixteen shares of approximately $187,500 each.

Other beneficiaries included two sons, Ralph and Seward Webb Pulitzer of New York, who will receive three shares each, and two nieces, Katherine Macdill Barrows of Brookline, Mass., and Jean MacDill of Boston, who will each get one share.

An employe, Helen Jalonen of Shelburne, was left $10,000. The will also provided for a bequest of two shares, or $375,000 to a charitable or educational institution to be chosen by the executors, Jones and Vanderbilt Webb of Garrison, N.Y.

Ralph Pultizer was a brother of Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MRS. JULIUS A. RAUCH DIES

Funeral services for Mrs. Julius A. Rauch, widow of the former president of the Union Savings Bank, St. Charles, will be at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, with burial in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Rauch, who was 87 years old and lived at 505 Jefferson street, St. Charles, died yesterday of infirmities. Surviving are four daughters, Miss Olive Rauch, Miss Celeste Rauch, Miss Bernice Rauch and Mrs. Edith Emmons, and one son, Oswald Rauch.

CAPACITY CROWD HEARS SYMPHONY AT BATTLE CREEK

St. Louis Orchestra's Next Stop on Tour Will Be Lansing, Mich., Tonight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 8—The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra appeared before a capacity audience of 2800 in Battle Creek's Kellogg Auditorium last night. The orchestra's last concert here was 10 years ago.

Vladimir Golschmann conducted last night. He and the orchestra earned warm applause for the First Symphony of Brahms, the evening's highlight. The large and enthusiastic audience also heard works by Bach, Vitali, Strauss and Wagner, as well as encores.

The state's capital, Lansing, will hear the orchestra tonight. The 23-day tour will end a week from today in Muncie, Ind.

ANTON FOHRELL SR. FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Anton Fohrell Sr., banker and business executive, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the John L. Ziegenhein & Sons' undertaking establishment, 7027 Gravois avenue. The body will be cremated.

Mr. Fohrell died at Lutheran Hospital Sunday of a heart attack. He was 84 years old. Mr. Fohrell was connected with Meyer Bros. Drug Co., for 38 years, then served as president of the Buettner Furniture Co., president of Beck Laundry Co., and vice president of the Jefferson Bank & Trust Co. He retired in 1939.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ida Fohrell, with whom he lived at 3422 Nebraska avenue; four sons, Eugene E., Sparkman, Ark.; Alfred C., Fall Church, Va., and Edward G. and Anton Jr., St. Louis, and four daughters, Mrs. Gustav Biar of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Norma Fohrell, Mrs. Edward Vanacek and Mrs. Lucille Eisel of St. Louis.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY DOCTORS VOTE TO PAY $25 ASSESSMENT

The St. Clair County Medical Society has voted to pay the $25 assessment levied by the American Medical Association to fight President Truman's national health insurance program, it was announced today by Dr. H. J. Nebel of East St. Louis, president of the county unit.

WARREN F. DRESCHER FUNERAL

Funeral services for Warren F. Drescher, former Hannibal (Mo.) merchant, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Bopp undertaking establishment, 131 West Argonne drive, Kirkwood. Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery, Hannibal, with Masonic services at 3 p.m. there tomorrow.

Mr. Drescher, who was 86 years old, died yesterday of infirmities at the home of his son, Warren F. Drescher Jr., 643 Pearl avenue, Kirkwood. He moved to St. Louis in 1918 after retiring from business. Surviving also are another son, John M. Drescher, and three daughters, Mrs. George Boardman, Kew Gardens, N.Y., and Mrs. Lawrence Myers and Mrs. Helen Kehde, both of Keokuk, Ia.

LUTHER ELY SMITH WINS LAWYERS' AWARD

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

The fourth annual Award of Honor of the Lawyers Association of St. Louis was made to Luther Ely Smith, attorney and civic leader, at a dinner meeting of the association at the Sheraton Hotel last night.

Ralph F. Fuchs, professor of law at Indiana University and former faculty member at Washington University's School of Law, made the presentation. McCune Gill, attorney and vice president of the Title Insurance Corp. of St. Louis, spoke on "Early St. Louis Lawyers."

Fuchs paid tribute to Smith's civic and professional achievements and said the award was made because Smith was a lawyer whose record of service to the profession serves "as an example that may inspire others to noble purpose and honorable effort in the profession of law."

Turning then to the philosophy of American democracy, Fuchs said the task of bringing performance into accord with conviction is moving slowly forward.

"The establishment of this association with membership unrestricted by racial exclusions was an important advance," he said. "Appreciation and congratulations are due because of it . . . and in foreign affairs a transformation has taken place.

"In the United Nations, we have established a parliament of man and an international administration that has built up an impressive record of performance in a few short years. But a great deal more is needed.

"Our institutions will not be secure and our purposes will not be fully realized until racial segregation has been eliminated altogether, until economic opportunity is made fairly available to every human being and until we have surrendered large segments of sovereignty to a world organization possessed of power and trusted by all nations."

2 ST. LOUIS HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WIN SCIENCE SCHOLARSHIP

Two St. Louis high school students were among the 40 youths selected as the nation's top teenage scientists in a nation-wide talent search sponsored by Westinghouse Electric Corp., it was announced yeasterday in Washington.

They are Edwin H. Merz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Merz, 4927 Nottingham avenue, and George Stout, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Stout, 5153 Westminster place. Each won a $100 scholarship which may be used at any college, university or technical school. Merz is a senior at Southwest High school, Stout a senior at Country Day School.

Top prize winner of a $2800 scholarship was Dwight Taylor of Altadena, Calif. The 40 winners have been in Washington the past five days being interviewed by the judges.

Tomorrow's Events

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE St. Louis contingent vacationing at Delray Beach, Fla., will be joined next week by Miss Margaret Mayne and Miss Frances MacDonald. Miss Mayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Mayne, 7 Picardy lane, Ladue, and Miss MacDonald, whose parents are the Donald MacDonalds, 6 Lenox place, will leave St. Louis March 17.

Dozier L. Gardner, 24 Washington terrace, has joined Mrs. Gardner, at the home of her father, Stewart McDonald, in Palm Beach, Fla. The Gardners' son, M. Dozier Gardner, who attends Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass., is with his parents for the spring vacation.

Departing March 18 will be Mrs. Arthur H. Feucrbacher Jr., 7117 Maryland avenue, her daughter, Betty, and her mother, Mrs. John David Ferguson, 736 South Hanley road, who will go to Ponte Vedra, Fla., for a visit of about two weeks. Also planning a holiday in Florida are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schroth, 62 York drive, York Woods, who with their daughters, Betty and Judy, students at Mary Institute, will leave March 20 for Fort Lauderdale.

* * *

Mrs. John A. Holmes, St. Louis Country Club grounds, will leave late this month for Tucson, Ariz., where she will join her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison Luyties, also of St. Louis Country Club grounds, at the Arizona Inn. Mrs. Holmes's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey, 6134 McPherson avenue, are the parents of a son born Saturday. The Woolseys have two other children, twin daughters.

Wedding Plans Completed.

WITH the selection of the bridegroom's attendants, plans have been completed for the marriage of Miss Sally Wray Wieneke and William B. Hirschi which will take place Saturday night, May 21.

Mr. Hirschi, son of Dr. and Mrs. William T. Hirschi, 7730 Cornell avenue, University City, will have Donald Thompson as best man. Ushers will include Gaither Clark, Charles W. Diekroeger Jr., cousin of the bride-elect; Herbert Feldman, Wilfred J. Hemmer, fiance of Miss Patricia Becker, a bridesmaid; H. Robert McKee, brother-in-law of Miss Wieneke, and Robert Early, brother-in-law of the bridegroom-to-be.

Miss Wieneke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Wieneke, will be honored at a luncheon Friday, April 1, given by her aunt, Mrs. Charles W. Diekroeger, 531 West Jewel avenue, Kirkwood. A noon breakfast Sunday, April 24, will be given for the bride-to-be by Mrs. Elmer Schewe, 317 Edgewood drive, Clayton. Numerous other parties have been planned, the dates of which are still indefinite.

The 8:30 o'clock ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Charles Duell Kean at Grace Episcopal Church. A reception will be given afterward at the Wieneke home, 621 East Monroe avenue, Kirkwood.

* * *

Mrs. Kurt G. Dietz, 209 West Cedar avenue, Webster Groves, will leave St. Louis March 20 for New York to fly to Frankfort, Germany, to visit relatives until the latter part of next month.

* * *

Mrs. Henry Louis Alt II and her young son, Ricky, 721 Goodfellow boulevard accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Carl E. Tucker and her son, Dennis, 720 Landscape avenue, Webster Groves, have departed for Biloxi, Miss., where they have taken a cottage for three weeks. They will also visit Mobile, Ala.; Natchez, Miss., and New Orleans.

HERBERT STELLWAGEN, EX-SCHOOL HEAD, DIES

Principal at Soldan High for 17 Years — Memorial Service Thursday.

A memorial service will be held Thursday at 4:15 p.m. in Soldan-Blewett High School auditorium for Herbert P. Stellwagen, former principal of Soldan High, who died of heart disease yesterday afternoon.

He was a high school principal here from 1904 to 1929, and thereafter head of Soldan until his retirement in 1946. He was 72 years old.

To an unusual extent, Principal Stellwagen interested himself in the ethical development and vocational training of the large bodies of students who came into his sphere of influence. He was active in finding college scholarships available to his graduates who were able to carry their education farther. For those who must go to work, he had suggestions in the line of employment to be sought, and frequently was able to give definite help in getting specific jobs.

Since his retirement from the public schools, he had been teaching a class in mathematics at St. Louis University, and he met this class yesterday.

He was educated in the University of Michigan and in Columbia University, New York. His first work as a teacher in St. Louis was in Yeatman High School. He was for 25 years a member of the board of the North Side Y.M.C.A.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Snyder Stellwagen; a daughter, Mrs. John H. Schneider of Normandy; and two sisters living in Wayne, Mich. Burial will be private. The family has suggested memorial contributions to the boys' work of the North Side Y.M.C.A., 3100 North Grand boulevard.

JOSEPH M. O'REILLY DIES; EARLY ST. LOUIS BALLOONIST

Funeral services for Joseph M. O'Reilly, a partner in the O'Reilly Real Estate Co., will be at 9 a.m. Thursday at St. Louis Cathedral. He was 71 years old and died yesterday of complications at Barnes Hospital He lived at 4549 Pershing avenue.

Mr. O'Reilly was an early St. Louis balloonist and participated in balloon races during the Louisiana Exposition here in 1904. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and a member of the board of trustees of the Missouri Historical Society.

Surviving are a son, Joseph M. O'Reilly Jr. of Des Moines, Ia., and three daughters, Mrs. Francis Sullivan, Mrs. James G. Overall, and Mrs. Sidney R. Overall of Lakehurst, N. J. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

PRODUCER CROSBY GAIGE DIES; EXPERT ON FOOD AND WINE

PEEKSKILL, N.Y., March 8 (AP) — Crosby Gaige, Broadway theatrical producer and food and wine expert, died today. He was 66 years old. He died of heart disease at Peekskill Hospital, where he was admitted two weeks ago.

Gaige wrote "The Standard Cocktail Guide," published in 1944, other books on food and drinks, and "Footlights and Highlights," published last November. He was food and wine editor of Country Life Magazine.

10 ACRES OF TOYS AT NEW YORK FAIR; 100,000 PLAYTHINGS

Bicycle-Tricycle Combination Is Hit Among Items on Exhibit.

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP) — Ten acres of toys took top billing among New York's many mass exhibits today, as buyers and public jammed the display rooms of the forty-sixth annual American Toy Fair.

The largest concentration of playthings in the world, the Toy Fair will last for two weeks.

Child models had a field day trying out as many as possible of the 100,000 different kinds of toys on display by 1200 exhibitors.

Hits of the show were the new wheel toys, which included a convertible bicycle-tricycle combination. An extra set of wheels on the back can be removed as junior learns to ride, leaving an adjustable two-wheeler, with the makings for a trailer or a cart from the spare wheels. There is a hobby horse on wheels, too, which proceeds with a loping motion.

Hygienic measures have struck the doll market. The lifelike dydee doll, which blows bubbles, gets its hair shampooed and burps in addition to wetting its diapers, comes supplied with a diaper disposal container and a pair of rubber gloves for its small mother.

The toy manufacturers say they expect to sell $300,000,000 worth of toys this year to America's 43,000,000 children—a new record.

WINNER OF ORATORY CONTEST

Everett Steele, Washington University sophomore, was named winner of the original oratory contest, one of the individual speaking events, at the annual Missouri state forensic tournament held at Warrensburg, Mo., March 3, 4 and 5, it was announced today. He will represent Missouri in the National Original Oratorical Contest.

JOHN J. HANLEY DIES, AUDITORIUM OFFICIAL

Superintendent of Operation Formerly Taught Dancing and Acting.

John J. Hanley, superintendent of operation of Kiel Auditorium, former teacher of dancing and acting, died last night of heart disease at his home, 4327 DeTonty street. He was listening to a radio account of a basketball game when he suffered a collapse. He was 58 years old.

Mr. Hanley was in charge of stage arrangements in both the Opera House and Convention Hall of the Auditorium. He had a wide acquaintance among stage folk, and proudly displayed over his desk a picture of Betty Grable, one of his early dancing pupils in his studio at Olive street and Boyle avenue.

He was stage manager with the Park-Shenandoah Opera company, and in the 1920s was stage manager of the Municipal Theater. Many of his dancing pupils were in the Municipal Opera chorus.

As a young man, he was tenor soloist in St. Alphonsus (Rock) Church, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue. He was educated in Rock Church High School and in old Christian Brothers' College on Easton avenue, west of Kingshighway. He came of an old St. Louis county family, his grandfather, Michael J. Hanley, having been tollgate keeper on Olive Street road in the days before a county highway system had been developed.

He was appointed to his position at the Auditorium in 1941. His wife, the former Aline Green, survives him. Funeral arrangements are to be announced.

SISTER WENESLAUS SUDA FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Sister Wenceslaus Suda S.S.N.D., the former Miss Elizabeth Suda of St. Louis, will be held tomorrow at the Mother House of the School Sisters of Notre Dame in Mankato, Minn. She was 70 years old and died Sunday of complications at the Mother House.

Sister Wenceslaus retired last November after teaching in schools in Mankato, St. Paul, Minn., and Milwaukee, Wis. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Frank Kutis, Mrs. Julia Petrik and Mrs. Joseph Ulrich, all of St. Louis.

A.L. Loaned DeWitts $300,000 in Brownie Purchase, Writer Says

Brothers Still Owe $635,000 In Notes

'Personal Matter,' Says Bill DeWitt Of Loan Report

WHEN asked today if it was true that the American League had advanced $300,000 toward financing the purchase of Dick Muckerman's controlling interest in the club, William O. DeWitt, president of the Browns, avoided a direct answer.

"We feel that the financial setup of the club is of no interest to the fans. It is entirely a personal matter between myself and my brother, Charley."

President DeWitt left by plane this morning for the conference with Commissioner A. B. Chandler at Sarasota, Fla., over the Sportsman's Park lease dispute with the Cardinals. Fred Saigh, head of the Cardinals, will also be on hand for the meeting which is set for tomorrow.

By Joe Reichler

SARASOTA, Fla., March 8 (AP)—A usually reliable baseball source today said the American League financed the DeWitt brothers' purchase of the controlling interest in the St. Louis Browns a month ago.

Bill and Charlie DeWitt, who on Feb. 2, bought the 56 per cent of the stock which Richard C. Muckerman owned, received a loan of $300,000 from the American League, the source said. There is no restriction in the baseball code against such action.

How It Was Done.

In all, he said, the DeWitts gained the majority stock for $935,000, of which they did not pay a single cent out of their own pockets. He added:

"The DeWitts paid off a $200,000 note owed by the Brown management with part of the money they got from the American League. They also made their initial payment of $100,000 to Muckerman. He still holds the rest of the notes, totaling $635,000.

"The American League has become the first mortgagor. As I understand it, the league must get its money first before Muckerman can begin to collect. If the DeWitts can't pay, the league can take over the franchise.

"One of the provisions the DeWitts had to accept in order to be granted the loan was that they couldn't sell another player to a rival club without the consent of the league. That probably is why they were forced to back down on the sale of Bobby Dillinger and Gerry Priddy after getting feelers from several teams."

Here's That Man Again.

The informant predicted the DeWitts may move the franchise to the Pacific Coast in a couple of years.

"I know for a fact," he said, "that Connie Mack, Clark Griffith, Del Webb and Bill Veeck would welcome such a move. After all, they now are in a position to make such a suggestion.

"Remember how the DeWitts worded their statement? 'As long as we have anything to say about them, the Browns will stay in St. Louis.' That might bring up an interesting question: 'How long?' "

The Browns, as owners of Sportsman's Park, currently are feuding with their tenants, the St. Louis Cardinals. They are seeking to abrogate the lease held by the Redbirds, which in effect, would oust their National League rivals.

They have filed a formal protest with Commissioner A. B. Chandler, who has ordered both club presidents, Bill DeWitt of the Browns and Fred M. Saigh of the Cards, for a hearing at his headquarters here tomorrow.

Four Members Of Indians Quit Holdout Ranks

TUCSON, Ariz., March 8 (UP)—The champion Cleveland Indians today bore a closer resemblance to the one, big happy family of last October following the acceptance of terms by pitcher Bob Lemon, second baseman Joe Gordon, pitcher Gene Bearden and utility infielder Johnny Berardino.

Gordon, who received an estimated $35,000 plus a bonus which could raise his earnings to $40,000, called the contract the best of his career. Bearden also signed a bonus contract which could net him better than $20,000. Lemon was understood to have received the $25,000 he sought.

Berardino, who batted only .190, took a slight cut from his last year's wage.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8 (UP)—The Philadelphia Phillies were 100 per cent signed up today as infielder Bobby Blattner, former New York Giant, inked his 1949 contract. Blattner signed for a reported $7000 after talking to club president Bob Carpenter.

Parker and Patty Win In Cairo Tennis Play

CAIRO, March 8 (AP)—Frankie Parker of Los Angeles suffered a dysentery attack during a third-round match in the Egyptian international tennis singles championships, but finished gamely to defeat S. P. Blazek of Egypt, 6-2, 7-5.

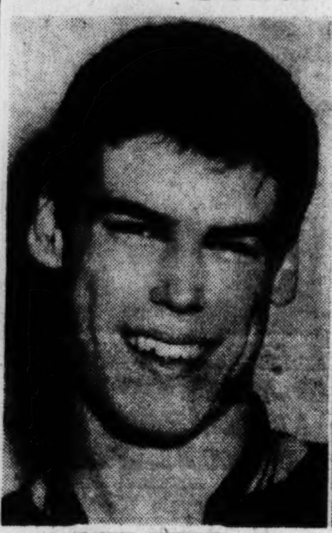
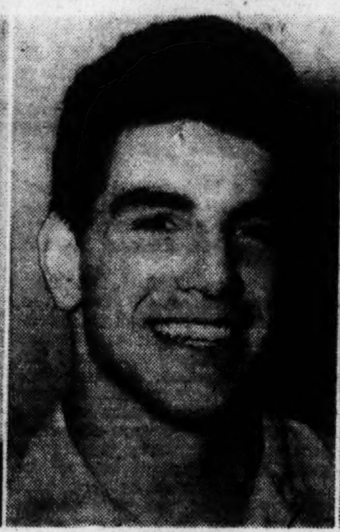
Handball Results.

T. Dawson and H. Rekhart defeated G. Markovit and E. Foster, 21-12, 21-17; H. Miller and L. Miller defeated Al Waldman and L. Smith, 21-16, 15-21, 21-19. John Raymond and L. Perrison defeated S. Gersen and S. Goffstein, 21-5, 21-6; R. Brand and A. Goldstein defeated G. Morgenstern and M. Linder, 21-11, 21-15; E. Lepping and G. Frank defeated H. Blass and M. Rombom, 21-13, 21-15; Carl Winstein and C. Steinmetz, defeated W. Windish and J. Strand, 21-13, 21-8.

Dave Sisler Unanimous Choice for Center on All-Star District Team

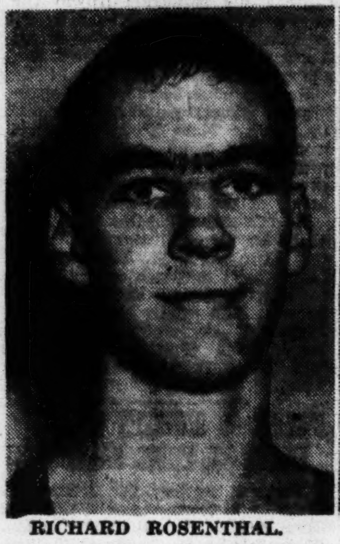


DAVE SISLER.



ED McDONNELL.

DAN SHEEHAN.



RICHARD ROSENTHAL.

BOB STONEMAN.

By Harold Tuthill

Champion is as champion does, to borrow a phrase to tell that all but one of the first five players on the all-star high school basketball team as picked by the Post-Dispatch board, was a member of a title-winning team.

The champions of champions—none of whom lost a league game—are Dave Sisler of John Burroughs, "ABC" king; Ed McDonnell of Cleveland, Public High winner, and Dan Sheehan of St. Louis U. High, Preparatory champion. A fourth representative of a title-winning team is Bob Stoneman of Suburban Webster Groves, which shared first place with Normandy. Richard Rosenthal of McBride, the fifth star on the annual team, did his best to keep the Irish in the running for the title they won in 1948.

The board, composed of outstanding officials—Roy Newsom, Bob Cochran, Froebel Gaines and Art Shipherd—did not concentrate on representatives from champions because the primary objective was to select five players from a list of 46 schools who could, at least, feel at home where they were placed on the star five. Almost 500 candidates were considered.

Sisler Unanimous Choice.

Sisler, as an unanimous choice, took the center job hands down. McDonnell and Sheehan have been guards as well as centers, so they were placed at the guard posts. Rosenthal, McBride's regular center, was too valuable a player to be left off the team and he and Stoneman, Webster Groves marksman, were awarded the forward positions.

Coaches who heard about the selections commented that the team was an excellent one, but none would spurn a second group such as Keith Aune of Bayless, unbeaten South County champion, and Martin Brockman of Lutheran at the forwards; Ed Gerken of Jennings, the North County champion, at center, and Terry Fails of University City and Gerry Koch of Beaumont at the guards.

The board agreed that if Fails had played as sensationally in the early part of the season as he did during a spree in which University City bowled over Normandy, St. Louis U. High and McBride, all rated higher than the Indians, then Terry would have clinched a first-team berth.

Lost Through Graduation.

Other players missed out because of illness or mid-year graduation. Into this group fell such stars as McBride's Bob Murphy, a member of the 1948 team; Southwest's Gary Schaeffer and Webster's Ron Tschannen.

Also omitted from the selections are representatives of the Southwestern Illinois Conference whose schools play so few games with the St. Louis teams that it is hard to judge the proportionate value of the East Siders. The board believed those who had been outstanding in conference play were Bob Thompson and Alan Grandcolas of Belleville, Norman Schalaut of Collinsville and Harry Gaghen of Alton.

Burroughs and U. City Off to State Tourney

Members of the regional champion John Burroughs and runner-up University City team had their bags all packed as they prepared to depart today for Springfield and the state high school basketball tournament which starts tomorrow night.

University City's 10-man squad together with Coach C. A. (Stub) Muhl and Manager Bob Harris was to drive down in private automobiles immediately after school today, while the John Burroughs party headed by Athletic Director George Staten, Coach Ray Wolfe and Manager Art Heuer, was scheduled to entrain at 5:30 tonight.

Blow on Head From Hockey Disc Is Fatal

ROLLA, N.D., March 8 (AP)—A blow on the forehead from a hockey puck caused the death Sunday in a Rolla hospital of Fred Harlin Sarkilahti, 15, a member of the Rolla High School hockey team. An autopsy disclosed the death was caused by a blood clot.

U. S. Hockey Team Wins.

THE HAGUE, March 8 (AP)—The United States's touring amateur ice hockey team trounced a team from The Hague, 10-1, yesterday. The Americans took a 3-0 lead in the first period and completed the rout with seven goals in the middle session.

Browns Coming Around Nicely; Taylor Drills 'Em on Tactics

By L. A. McMaster
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BURBANK, Calif., March 8—The Browns are in pretty fair shape after only one week's practice in the opinion of Manager Zack Taylor, and the boss curtailed the hitting drill Monday in favor of practice at cutting off throws from the outfield. Pitchers also worked on defensive plays.

"This is the time to get in that kind of work," Taylor explained. "Our four weeks out here will mean a lot in deciding how good a club we're going to have. This practice on defense will result in all the boys knowing just how we're going to try to make certain plays.

"Everyone is supposed to learn his part. And when we leave here all are expected to know just what every man in a play is going to do. Then, when we get to playing games later, we'll see how things work out.

Praises for His Squad.

"These fellows certainly have worked hard. There are a few blisters and a little soreness, but no sore arms or any leg conditions that amount to anything. No one has been forced to stay out of uniform.

"While we have not had a lot of warm sunshine, we've got in some fine workouts. It'll take Cliff Fannin a few days to get going, and of course, Priddy, if and when he signs and joins the squad. Otherwise, everybody seems to be coming along at about the same pace.

"I'm not going to say anything about where we'll be this year. Our club did better than a lot of people expected last year. Many of the players were strangers to one another last spring. But they quickly developed a team spirit and they have the same spirit this spring. From the experience of playing together for one year alone, the Browns should be better."

Now for Intra-Squad Games.

More fun will be injected into the workout today with the first of three scheduled intra-squad games. The two groups will be known as the Hofmanns and Winegarners, and they will be made up as the two platoons have worked in practice. A flock of pitchers will work for each side, of course.

Billy Sommers and Andy Anderson continue to play at second base in the absence of Priddy.

An old teammate of Jack Fournier at Brooklyn, Shortstop Johnny Butler of the Flatbush teams of Wilbert Robinson's days, visited with the Brownie chief scout. Bob Meusel, Yankee outfield great of 25 years ago, also shook hands with old acquaintances. Fred Hofmann was a catcher on the Yanks when Bob played in the outfield.

Michigan Wins From Illinois to Take Third

With the strain off, the Illini were trounced 70-53 by Michigan at Ann Arbor last night in the Big Nine finale.

Having won the conference crown by virtue of Wisconsin's upset of contender Minnesota Saturday night, Illinois had little to lose in its final game. Michigan had much to gain and turned on the heat to get it, running up its biggest tally of the season.

The defeat left Illinois with a 10-2 conference record and a team scoring total of 783 points for a new conference record. The old 12-game mark was 755 by the 1943 Illini whiz kids.

Dike Eddleman, however, failed to realize a new individual sharpshooting record for Illinois. He was held to 10 points to end the season with 299 for a complete 22-game schedule and seven shy of breaking Andy Phillip's all-time high of 305 in 1943.

The win enabled Michigan to snare third place. A loss would have pushed the Wolverines into a four-day tie for third with Indiana, Ohio State and Purdue.

Billikens Third In Final Poll; Kentucky Tops

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Kentucky's Wildcats are national collegiate basketball champions of the 1948-49 season and Illinois, Villanova, UCLA, Wyoming and Rice join them as leaders of their own particular bailiwicks.

These were conclusions of the final Associated Press poll, in which 161 writers and broadcasters throughout the country made their picks on both a national and sectional basis.

The Olympic-seasoned Kentuckians, who appear headed for one of the greatest sweeps in college cage history, won the No. 1 national spot hands down, surprising no one.

They received 136 of the 161 first-place votes and wound up with a total of 1546 points that left the other teams straggling behind in this order: Oklahoma A. & M., St. Louis, Illinois, Western Kentucky, Minnesota, Bradley, San Francisco, Tulane and Bowling Green.

Sectional sentiment offered some interesting departures from the over-all selection but not in the case of Kentucky which held its own in Southern voting. The Wildcats clinched first place in the south standings with 25 of the 27 first-place votes. Western Kentucky, a brash state rival the Cats don't play during the campaign, got the other two.

Illinois was rated best in the Middle-West by midland voters although the national poll placed the Big Nine champions below both the Oklahoma Aggies and St. Louis. The Big Nine champions had 22 first-place votes and 185 points; the Aggies were second with 140 and the Billikens, getting six first places, finished with 100. Minnesota and Bradley completed the Midwest's Big Five.

The Oklahoma Aggies finished more than 300 points behind Kentucky with 1209. St. Louis had 1158 and Illinois 1120, the only teams in the "thousand point" club.

The top teams figured on a point basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 (first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses).

	Team	Points
1	Kentucky (136) 29-1)	1546
2	Oklahoma A. & M. (5) (20-4)	1209
3	St. Louis (1) (21-3)	1158

Globetrotters in Basket Game Here March 27

The Harlem Globetrotters will return to Kiel Auditorium Sunday night, March 27, to headline a basketball doubleheader, it was announced today by Promoter Bob Soell. The Trotters are in for their hardest St. Louis test, as they will face Eddie Gottliebs's powerful Philadelphia Sphas, many times champions of the American Professional Basketball League.

Promoter Louis Will Talk It Over With Eddie Eagan Today

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Joe Louis, retired world heavyweight champion was to meet Col. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, today in regard to his plan to promote a world championship fight.

Louis, now boxing director for the International Boxing Club, arrived here last night after some exhibition bouts in the Caribbean.

Louis wants the commission's sanction for a proposed fight this summer between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott for his vacated title. The winner of this bout is to meet the leading challenger, probably Lee Savold or Gus Lesnevich within three months.

Walcott, in Philadelphia said, "I'm confident I'll be the next heavyweight champion of the world." Walcott, beaten twice by Louis, said: "I'll be glad to fight the best challenger," in reply to a question if he would rather meet Savold or Lesnevich should he beat Charles.

Abe J. Greene, commissioner of the National Boxing Association, said in Paterson, N. J., that the organization agreed to recognize the winner of the heavyweight fight promoted by Louis. The NBA is recognized in every state except New York.

Greene said approval of the fight was "the only practical way" to choose a new heavyweight champion.

Lesnevich said over the weekend that he wants to win back his light heavyweight crown from England's Freddie Mills before campaigning as a heavy.

Lanier, Martin File Suit for $2,500,000

NEW YORK, March 8 (UP) — Max Lanier and Fred Martin, former St. Louis Cardinal baseball players under suspension for jumping to the Mexican League, today filed suit for $2,500,000 against organized baseball.

They charged that their five-year suspension deprived them of their livelihood.

Far more stunning than the amount of the suit was the request by Lanier and Martin that they be reinstated.

The suit was filed in federal district court by Attorney John L. Flynn, who had promised this action on the part of "several" players who were suspended for jumping to the Mexican League in the spring of 1946.

The two players filed their suit against the American and National Leagues, Commissioner Chandler, the two league presidents, President George Trautman of the minor leagues, and, individually, each of the major league clubs in the two cities.

The suit claimed that Martin was damaged to the extent of $333,333.33 and Lanier $500,000. They asked for triple damages under the anti-trust laws, bringing the total to $1,000,000 for Martin and $1,500,000 for Lanier.

Lanier and Martin were the only two players to file the suit, although Attorney Flynn previously indicated that "several" would do so. Neither of the two players was in Federal District court when the suit was filed in the clerk's office. They remained in Flynn's Wall Street offices.

The players involved jumped to the Mexican League in the spring of 1946. For violating baseball's "reserve clause," that which gives the club an automatic option on the player's services even after his contract expires, they were suspended for five years.

They charged in their suit in Federal District Court that the suspension, covering all of organized baseball, deprived them of their right to earn a living.

The suit today came on the heels of a similar action by Danny Gardella, former outfielder with the New York Giants. Gardella originally sued in Federal District Court, but his suit was dismissed. The Federal Court of Appeals reversed that decision several weeks ago, ordering that Gardella's $300,000 suit be tried.

The Appeals Court majority opinion implied that baseball was interstate commerce and thus subject to anti-trust laws.

Fine Looking Youngsters In Cards' Future; Miggins Makes Bid With His Bat

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 8—Larry Miggins, yesterday's batting star, cracked out two hits and stole a base today as the Wares and the Kaufmanns played a 1-1 seven-inning tie. Ken Johnson and Bill Reeder allowed Kaufmann's team eight hits while Jim Hearn and Jackie Cullom held the Wares to four safeties, only one of which was off Cullom in the four innings pitched by the little lefthander, a 26-game winner last year in Class C.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 8—Eddie Dyer's Cardinals will be leaning heavily on pre-war ball players in the 1949 pennant race, just as they did last year, but the outlook is not so black for the future. It is a question how many, if any, of the rookies in camp this year are ready to play major league ball as Cardinal fans have known it through the years, but some good players are on the way.

Dyer showed several fine young pitchers yesterday as the Kaufmanns defeated the Wares in a squad game, 6 to 0. Larry Miggins, the Irish boy from the Bronx in New York, one of the finest looking athletes to come up in Cardinal uniform in many years, drove in five of the six runs for the Kaufmanns and went back to the fence for a fine running catch.

It's going to be difficult to send him away again, although he may not be ready to take over the center field spot, and that is where Dyer needs help.

Bangs One Over 397 Feet.

Miggins hit two singles and a home run. The homer cleared the center field wall 397 feet from home plate. He singled on a good curve and showed an ability to wait for a good pitch. He gained poise last year and isn't far from being ready—if he can field satisfactorily and consistently.

Glenn (Rocky) Nelson, first base rookie, was the other slugger for the Kaufmanns, hitting a single, double and triple. His three-bagger was a drive to center, Ed Sauer reaching the ball near the wall but failing to hold it.

Bobby Habenicht, a product of the St. Louis municipal diamonds, pitched three innings for the winners and showed a good curve. Observers expect him to be an important man on the hill for the Cardinals in a year or two. He won 12 and lost three at Lynchburg last season.

Charley Bishop, teammate of Habenicht at Lynchburg, with a 13-9 record, pitched three good innings and then tired. He was on the hill when Miggins connected for his three-run homer. Bishop also is an excellent prospect. Clarence Beers, Habenicht and Al Papai pitched the shutout for the Kaufmanns, while Floyd Boyer, Bishop and the Yuhas worked for the Wares squad. Yuhas, a righthander with Omaha last year, is another rookie highly regarded by Cardinal officials.

There'll be another squad game this afternoon and each afternoon this week to get the Redbirds ready for the heavy exhibition schedule that opens Saturday with the Yankees as the opposition.

Members of the Cardinal official family will go to Tampa this evening to attend the annual Florida Governor's baseball dinner.

Saigh Sees Chandler Tomorrow.

Tomorrow Fred Saigh will journey to Sarasota where Commissioner A. B. Chandler will try to iron out the differences between the Cardinals and Browns over the Sportsman's Park lease. According to the Cardinals, Chandler already has ruled for them on the radio point of the disagreement. The Browns have asked that the Cards refrain from broadcasting road games, but the Cards have signed a contract for three years to have the games aired and the revenue from the contract is so important that the Cardinals do not want to ask the sponsors to cancel that part of the broadcast.

It is expected that Chandler will suggest a compromise on the Sportsman's Park rental, if the Browns will make other concessions. In arranging the conference or hearing, Chandler instructed the Cardinals and Browns to leave their attorneys at home. And so an effort will be made to reach a settlement based on equity, instead of whereases and other legalistic hocus pocus.

Wins Industrial Title.

Sparked by Bill Travers' 14 points, Army Finance Center defeated McDonnell Aircraft, 49-39, last night at Sherman Park to win the Municipal Industrial League basketball championship.

Duck Situation Is Encouraging, Wildlife Report

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—There apparently are a good many more wild ducks and geese this year than last, the Fish and Wildlife Service said today.

But the coot have declined in number so greatly, the total 1949 waterfowl population is about the same as in 1948. The coot is a slow-flying ducklike bird.

Albert M. Day, director of the agency, said the annual waterfowl inventory, taken in mid-January, brought to light the "encouraging increase" in ducks and geese, and the coot decline.

The inventory was taken by 1300 observers in wintering grounds from Alaska to Guatemala, Jan. 11 to 14.

The Government no longer lists waterfowl population figures. Day said no predictions can be made about 1949 hunting regulations until summer breeding grounds have been surveyed, "but it does look encouraging."

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—What's the most hunted animal in America? The rabbit.

Daniel L. Leedy, Ohio State University research specialist, told the North American Wildlife Conference today that in the past decade "more persons hunted the cottontail rabbit than any other species."

For every 100 hunters who chased rabbits said Leedy, 67 hunted pheasant; 59, gray squirrel; 56, fox squirrel; 44, bobwhite quail; 28, whitetail deer; 11, black bear; 10, mourning doves; eight, ruffed grouse; seven, snowshoe hare; four, mule deer; three blacktailed deer and wild turkey; two, Hungarian partridge and jackrabbit, and one, valley quail.

Bills Score 26 Baskets in 54 Shots for Fourth Straight Over Irish

Macauley Registers 19 Points

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., March 8—With Easy Ed Macauley, once again the old convincer, the St. Louis University Billikens today had proved to the most skeptical of this town that they have the class.

The doubters of Notre Dame had no other course but to look at the record—four straight St. Louis victories in two seasons against the Fighting Irish, something that seldom has been achieved in the annals of the school so famous for its athletics.

It was hard for the Irish to take, and they showed it on the hardwood in the old field house here, with a rough and rugged and sometimes surly battle against the destroyers from St. Louis.

So rough it was that Billiken Coach Eddie Hickey, remarked after the game, won by a 68-59 score, that the Irish started football practice early.

It didn't pay, however, for officials Bill Harlow and Clay Van Reen expelled Notre Dame's Leo Barnhorst on five personal fouls just four minutes after the second half began. That in itself was enough to make remaining Irish efforts almost hopeless, for without Barnhorst Notre Dame had insufficient personnel to make a comeback.

Easy Ed Did It Year Ago.

Just as a year ago when Macauley achieved one of his greatest personal triumphs here in a Billiken victory that stopped a 38-game Irish winning streak at home, Easy Ed was again at his peak.

The big boy scored seven field goals and 19 points, six of the buckets came in the first half, during which time the Billikens drove to a 37-25 lead. That advantage grew as great as 16 points in the second half, dwindled once to six, then built up again toward the end of the rough and tumble battle.

Macauley himself gave important impetus in the crucial phase when the Irish trailed by only 56-50. After a free throw by Joe Ossola, Easy Ed got his only second half field goal, an under the basket lay up that also drew another Notre Dame foul.

Ed dumped in the free throw to restore the Billiken lead at 60-50 and with only four minutes to go, the margin was sufficient.

Macauley Wins 'Em Over.

The student faithful in the crowd of more than 4000 had roared encouragement in the Irish rally, but they had to lapse again into desultory cheers. More than once the kids exclaimed:

"That Macauley is really as good as they say he is."

This is not to imply, however, that the triumph, the Billikens' twenty-first in 24 games, was mostly a Macauley achievement. It was not by any means, for in the physical contact battle that was waged, regulars and reserves alike proved their mettle time and again.

Lou Lehman matched Macauley's total of seven field goals and scored 16 points altogether. Marv Schatzman smoothly hooped six straight free throws in the second half. Scoring the last six St. Louis points in the game Marv rose to the occasion as he usually does against Notre Dame.

Lehman contributed mightily to the roaring .481 shooting percentage the Bills established against a Notre Dame zone defense. Lou scored his seven baskets in only 10 shots, and they came brilliantly at the start of the game. The deft out-court shooter got his first field on a trailer layup, his second one on a push shot and his third on a wide-open opportunity afforded by Notre Dame's sinking defense.

An Assist for Schmidt.

Lou drove through a hole in the zone for his fourth goal, then just before the half ended Bob Schmidt stole the ball from Barnhorst at midcourt, tossed a long pass to Lehman, who got his layup easily.

If anything, the Billikens were more spectacular during the first half than they were in the game here a year ago and this triumph, following a good performance at Bradley two days before, showed them to be fit and ready for the National Invitation title defense in the tournament starting at New York Saturday.

In between, of course, comes the season-closing game with Missouri at St. Louis Thursday. It is to be hoped that that game, marking the close in athletic relations between the schools, doesn't become as rough as the one with the Irish.

Schatzman came out of the Notre Dame game with a bruised leg but his injury wasn't thought to be serious. Otherwise the Billikens were in good shape.

Twenty-six baskets in 54 shots for the .481 percentage constituted the most accurate Billiken shooting in two seasons. Ed Scott hit two out of four, Schatzman three out of four, Bill Edwards one out of three and Bob Schmidt three out of nine.

The boys had their eyes on the basket for sure. In the first half alone they scored 16 times in 33 shots for a .485 mark and their second half shooting was almost as deadly.

While Notre Dame couldn't match that kind of hitting, it did produce action at the free throw line that was little short of sensational. The Irish made 23 charity shots in 27 attempts. They missed only one of 17 tries in the second half and that part of the performance helped reduce a Billiken lead when St. Louis went scoreless from the court for four minutes.

Finale for Four Irish Stars.

The four Irish starters, Barnhorst, Capt. Paul Gordon, John Foley and Jim O'Halloran were playing their last game as Notre Dame closed the season with a 17-7 record. From the start the Irish were keyed high, but the will to win became a sullen and desperately rough attempt to come from behind after St. Louis' blistering first half attack.

Nobody squared off for attempted pugilism but the hacking and body blocking were terrific. Gordon showed his anger the most, but he also managed to score between times to become the high point man of the game. He had eight field goals and 22 points.

Barnhorst, Notre Dame's slickest operator at tossing a basketball through the hoop, tallied only twice in his 24 minutes of the game, Macauley took care of him. Irisher O'Halloran delivered four goals and 14 points, however, to help the cause.

The Bills played what looked like a zone on many first half occasions. They should know how to do it. They've been seeing enough of it this season.

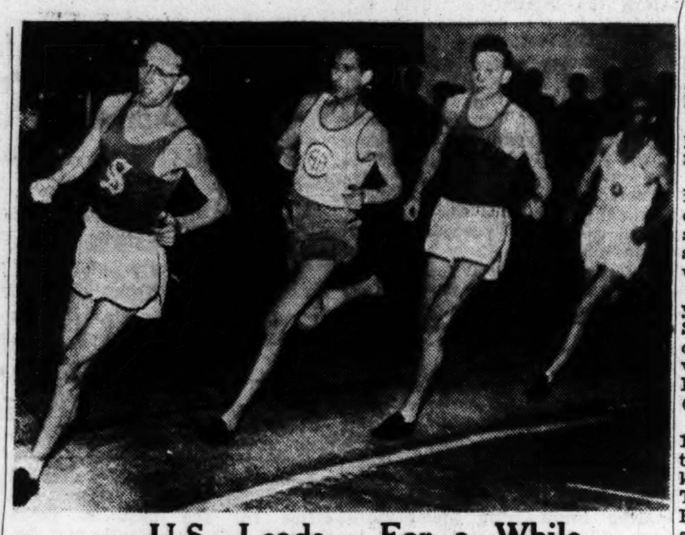
Jockey Garner Is Set Down for 3 Months

LOS ANGELES, March 8 (AP)—Jockey Willie Garner was suspended for three months by the California Racing Board yesterday for his ride on Olympia in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby Feb. 19. He was accused of cutting sharply across the field at the start of the derby.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What's the Matter? Are We Windbroken?



U.S. Leads — For a While

ATHLETICALLY, are we a nation of quarter-horses? . . . Or maybe we are just windbroken. . . . In any event, we still don't seem able to do much about winning races of a mile or more, in competition with foreigners.

We've heard about that before. . . . Check the Olympic Games records for confirmation. . . . In London last year we took the dust of all nations, when it came to showing a bit of stamina. . . . Last Saturday night we again had it brought home that we just aren't there when it comes to running 1500 meters or more.

* * *

It was one of those Hollanders who rubbed it in. . . . Lately we've taken plenty from these Lowlanders, especially as concerns women athletes and swimmers.

Last weekend it was a runner, Willy Slykhuis, who made our faces red. . . . For the fourth consecutive time he defeated all our United States standouts at the distance of one mile, ending his American tour.

This thing has been going on for decades, dating back to Kolehmainen, Nurmi, Lovelock and numerous other foreign runners. . . . When we attempt more than half a mile we just peter out, it seems.

The answer? . . . We can't believe that we lack the kind of physical stamina to meet competition . . . They tell us that our boys don't go in for distance races because the spectators are more thrilled by sprints.

Whatever the reason for the failure of this country's athletes at distance running, our continuing defeats present a challenge that ought to be met . . . It's unthinkable that countries like Finland (population 4,000,000), Sweden and Holland or, for the matter of that, any other nation, should defeat this country's best men decade after decade at any one form of physical competition.

Something can be done about it . . . If we have national pride something should be done . . . In the words of the immortal H. W. L., "Let us then be up and doing" . . . What's the delay?

* * *

Maybe Our Athletes Work Too Hard at It.

JUST in case you think our boys work too lightly trying to fit themselves for distance running, we recall a story by Barney Kremenko in the New York Journal American, pointing out that Willy Slykhuis was anything but orthodox (American idea) in his training.

He stays out late and eats what he likes when he wants it. . . . He ate a heavy lunch, followed by a chicken dinner the night he made his American debut — and he won the race from both imported and home-bred rivals. . . . He seldom works out more than once or twice a week. . . . He went through practice drills only twice a week, preceding his Olympic races.

Of this, Kremenko wrote: "Compare this with the program of Gil Dodds (America's greatest miler of a few months ago) — ten miles of walking every day, speed workouts every day and countless quarters of running. Gil used to indulge in that sort of schedule for months and months. . . . "Slykhuis goes his own way—no set rules . . . Work when you like, enjoy life even though you're a runner."

BUT he gets there. . . . In the Olympic Games, Slykhuis ran third in both the 1500- and 5000-meter events. . . . Only the super Europeans of the distance running game defeated him. . . . In the 1500 meters he lost to Sweden's Henri Eriksson and Leonard Stand. . . . At the greater distance, he was behind the famous Czechoslovakian, Zatopek, and Reiff.

* * *

Despite his indulgence in ice cream and rich foods, at times when other athletes abstain, the Hollander declares he's never tired after a mile race; is always fresh at the finish of this distance. . . . After two miles, he admits he occasionally becomes tired.

* * *

Our boys, it seems, no matter how they train or what the distance, get too tired to overtake him—and most all other European distance men of note, too. . . . Maybe a few late hours or a couple of quarts of ice cream would pep up our boys.

In the meantime, how about a benzedrine snifter or two? They don't take saliva tests after men's track events.

'Club' Fighters to Do Their Stuff in Bouts Here Tonight

By W. J. McGoogan

Something of an experiment in professional boxing will be conducted at Kiel Auditorium tonight when Promoter Hans Bernstein presents six contests scheduled for 40 rounds among boxers who usually fight preliminary bouts on programs in which so-called "name" men perform. Starting time of the first fight is 8:30 o'clock.

Three eight-round affairs, two at six and one at four make up the card with none of the events designated as a feature.

Jesse Turner, St. Louis, and George Sherman, Chicago, welterweights, are set for the final event at eight rounds; Virgil Akins, St. Louis meets Willie Cheatum, Newark, N.J., in eight rounds, while Jimmy Sheets, Chicago, and Eddie Newman, Nashville, Tenn., light-heavyweights, go the same distance.

Turner has boxed on numerous programs here and is a young boxer moving along in the professional ranks. Sherman should give him a good test.

Akins, former Golden Gloves champion, is another who has been impressive in the pro game. In Cheathum he will be meeting a boxer who did not win a fight last year.

Sheets is highly touted by his handlers and others who have seen him in Chicago.

Danny Womber, Chicago welterweight who pleased the spectators on a recent card at the Auditorium, takes on Diego Hidalgo, Des Moines, in a six-round event. Womber lived in St. Louis and attended Vashon High School before moving to Chicago.

In the other six-round affair, Irish Jimmy Cone, Kokomo, Ind., tackles Walter Tankins, St. Louis, in a middleweight contest. Lou Moeckel, St. Louis and Torpedo Tinsely, Indianapolis, are to box the four-round preliminary.

Auditorium Program

EIGHT-ROUND MATCHES — Jesse Turner, St. Louis, vs. Georgie Sherman, Chicago; welterweights. Virgil Akins, St. Louis, vs. Willie Cheatum, Newark, N. J.; welterweights. Jimmy Sheets, Chicago, vs. Eddie Newman, Nashville, Tenn.; light-heavyweights.

SIX-ROUND MATCHES—Danny Womber, Chicago, vs. Diego Hidalgo, Des Moines, Ia.; junior welterweights. Irish Jimmy Cone, Kokomo, Ind., vs. Walter Tankins, St. Louis; middleweights.

STARTING TIME, 8:30.

Huskers Beat Tigers, Sure of Tie for Title

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 8 (AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers clinched at least a share of the Big Seven Conference basketball championship by defeating the Missouri Tigers, 52 to 48, last night.

The Cornhuskers did it the hard way, coming from behind seven times before they nipped the Tigers. Missouri held a 24-23 half-time.

Then Nebraska jumped ahead early in the second half and ran up a 10-point margin. Missouri surged back and trailed only two points at 48-50 with two minutes left. The Huskers clamped the ball and added two points before the gun.

The victory put Nebraska half a game ahead of Oklahoma in the standings, with nine victories and three losses. But Oklahoma can tie for the title by defeating Colorado at Norman Saturday.

Lon Stiner Resigns as Oregon State Coach

CORVALLIS, Ore., March 8 (AP)—Lon Stiner, dean of Pacific Coast conference football coaches, resigned as Oregon State College coach late yesterday. He had been head coach at Oregon State for 16 years. Stiner's contract expires June 30. In a statement to the inter-collegiate athletic board, he requested that it not be renewed.

Stiner did not announce his future plans, other than to say they "do not include coaching football."

Hamline Wins First Game in N.A.I.B. Meet

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8 (AP)—Sixteen more teams jump into first-round play today in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament.

Eight games also were played yesterday to start the six-day cage marathon.

The Southwest Missouri State Bears of Springfield, who lost only one game during the regular season, will make their first N.A.I.B. start tonight. They meet the University of Portland (Ore.).

Advancing to the second round yesterday were Emporia (Kan.) State, Indiana State, St. Thomas of St. Paul, Brigham Young University, Eastern Illinois College, Hamline University, San Jose (Calif.) State and Indiana Central.

Hamline, N.A.I.B. champion in 1942 and the most highly regarded team in the meet, rolled over Arkansas State of Jonesboro, 76-43. The Pied Pipers' one-two punch of Hal Hankins and Verne Mikkelsen scored 22 and 15 points, respectively.

In other first-round games, the Emporia (Kan.) State Hornets whipped Mississippi Delta State, 67-57, with a strong rally in the last nine minutes of play. The Indiana State Sycamores, whipped by the University of Louisville (Ky.) in the finals last year, beat Eastern New Mexico College, 60-42. St. Thomas defeated Peru (Neb.) State Teachers, 74-44; Brigham Young trimmed Northwestern Oklahoma State 79-50; Indiana Central defeated New Britain (Conn.) Teachers, 72-59, and Eastern Illinois won over University of Maimi (Fla.) 89-73.

Harness Racing Notes

By Herman Wecke

Edwin C. Moon, general manager of Fairmount Park Raceways, will attend a meeting of officials of the various harness tracks of the country in Chicago next Saturday and Sunday. This gathering is for secretaries, presiding stewards, track management and owners when plans for the campaign are given a thorough airing.

"The principal purpose," said Moon, "is to get together and formulate a uniform system of rules for all the tracks."

A meeting of the United States Trotting Association also will be held when officers and directors will be elected.

Those of the official Fairmount staff now at Fairmount are busily engaged in tabulating entries for the track's early closing stakes to be held at the spring meeting opening May 18 and for the fall racing, which begins Sept. 1. Four $10,000 races, two in the spring and two in the fall, are scheduled.

Foy Funderburk, who drove Brother Harmony to a two-minute mile at Fairmount last fall, is training a good 2-year-old in the stable of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cardovano of Toledo, O., at Delmar, Calif., in Lady's Scottie. The veterans, Brother Harmony and Scottish Boy, aces of Funderburk's string at Fairmount last spring, also are training in California.

Harold Boring, who drove with success at the last Fairmount fall meeting, is training the trotter, Snappy Anne, winner of the Reading Futurity last year, at Shelbyville, Ind. Also in training at Shelbyville are Nottingham Delco and Mercy Abbey, which raced at the Collinsville track last season.

Neil Boardman, top driver at last fall's Fairmount meeting, is still very much in the race for driving honors at the Phoenix (Ariz.) meeting. According to the latest statistics, Boardman was in third place with 138 points. Clint Hodgins was first with 151, followed by Jimmy Cruise with 150. With a month of Grand Circuit racing at Fairmount this spring, it is expected that all three will be here. Latest successes for Boardman have come with Nite Express and Spencer Patch.

Harvey (Cotton) Burton, 50-year-old driver, who was injured in a spill at Phoenix, Ariz., died of a heart complication Feb. 16.

Aurora Downs, after a court fight with Maywood over dates, will distribute $90,000 in stakes purses at its meeting, May 9 to July 16. The Aurora Downs Trotting Derby and Aurora Downs Pacing Derby, each valued at $5000, will be tops. March 28 will be the closing date for entries to the stake events.

Racing Secretary June Van Gundy has announced that 754 nominations, a record total, have been named for the trotting and pacing stakes to be held at the DuQuoin (Ill.) fair in 1950. In nominating, owners did not have to specify whether the horse would race as a trotter or pacer.

Full Bloom, which entered the two-minute class last year, with a mile of 1:58 4-5 has been purchased by Clarence Gaines of Sherburne, N. Y., for a price said to be $20,000.

Eddleman on Second All-Big Nine Team

CHICAGO, March 8 (AP)—The 1949 All-Big Nine basketball team is one of the finest representative groups ever selected for the Associated Press by conference coaches. The annual canvass of coaches was closely-contested with no unanimous choices. The five players winning first team berths are from five different schools.

They are forwards Meyer Skoog of Minnesota and Dick Schnittker of Ohio State; center Don Rehfeldt of Wisconsin; and guards Bill Erickson of champion Illinois and Bob Harrison of Michigan.

On the second team are forwards Dwight Eddleman of Illinois and Bob Raidiger of Ohio State; Center Jim McIntyre of Minnesota; and guards Howie Williams of Purdue and Lou Watson of Indiana. Both Eddleman and McIntyre were 1948 All Star choices.

Gains First Decision.

Field and Trap Shooting Century Ago

Capt. Bogardus Started His Pigeon Shooting in St. Louis

(Installment 15 from the book "Field, Cover and Trap Shooting," written by Capt. A. H. Bogardus and published in 1878.)

By Capt. A. H. Bogardus,
Wing Shot Champion of the World.

I BEGAN to shoot pigeons in 1868, when I had been a field-shot for more than 18 years. I had often been invited to go and witness contests of the kind, but cared nothing for them, and up to 1868 had never seen a pigeon-trap.

The first public pigeon-shooting into which I entered was a series of sweepstakes at St. Louis. I had some success; so much, in fact, that R. M. Patchen, who was with me, forthwith made a match, in which I was to shoot against Gough Stanton of Detroit for $200 a side. The match was 50 birds each. He brought with him a plunge trap, the first I had ever seen of that character. However, I consented to the use of it, and won by killing 46 to his 40. I was then just about as good a shot at pigeons as I am now, except that I was anxious about the money, and sometimes missed owing to that.

I next shot against Abraham Kleinman. John Thomson, a stockman of Elkhart, made the match on my part. It was for $200 a side, 50 birds each from a spring-trap. Kleinman killed 49 and I killed 46. I told Kleinman that I could and would beat him before long, and went home to practice in the field. I challenged him for the championship of Illinois, and we shot for $200 a side, at 50 single birds and 25 pairs of double birds each—the single birds ground-trap, the doubles plunge-traps. Of the single birds I killed 43 to Kleinman's 42. At the doubles we killed 43 each. It was at Chicago in 1868.

Trap Shooting From Buggy.

The next match I took up with Abraham Kleinman was rather singular in character. It was at single and double birds. I was to shoot from a buggy at 21 yards, the horse to be on a trot or run when the trap was pulled. Kleinman shot from the ground at 25 yards. I won it. I afterward shot two other matches on these conditions, one with King at Springfield, and one with Henry Conderman at Decatur. Of these I lost one and won the other. My shooting from a buggy at plover, grouse and geese made me very quick and effective.

In the spring of 1869 R. M. Patchen made a match, in which I was backed to kill 500 pigeons in 645 minutes, with one gun, at Chicago. I was to load my own gun, and the stakes were $1000 a side. There were heavy outside bets that I could not do it. I won the match, however, in 8 hours, 45 minutes, and thus had 1 hour, 57 minutes to spare.

In the third hundred pigeons I killed 75 in consecutive shots. In the last 105 birds I scored 100; and in the seventh hour killed 95. I shot with a muzzle-loader. It was 21 yards rise and 50 yards bounds. Before this match came off I had, in practice, killed 500 birds in 5 hours and 7 minutes; but then I used two guns and had a man to clean them, though I loaded them myself. I missed 34 out of the whole number shot at.

Load Gun, Gather Birds.

I was next matched to kill 100 consecutive birds at Chicago in July 1869; $1000 to $100 that I could not do it, and three matches to be shot if I failed in the first and second. In the first I had killed 30 when the lock of my gun broke and, being obliged to borrow one which was a poor article, I lost. On the 21st of the month I tried it again and won. At Detroit in the same season I undertook to kill 40 birds in 40 minutes, to load my own gun and gather my own birds. I killed 53 in 20 minutes, 40 seconds, and won.

I shot and won a great many matches.

One I shall mention here because of its novelty. At Chicago I shot against four of the best marksmen in Illinois. The gentlemen opposed to me were Abraham Kleinman, Abner Price, D. T. Elston and Benjamin Burton. They were selected to shoot in company at 50 birds each, all they scored to form an aggregate, while I was to shoot at 200 birds. I won the match by killing 178 birds, while the four who contested it with me shot exceedingly well themselves by scoring 176.

I find myself excluded from about nine out of every 10 public contests by reason of my alleged superiority, and really see but little or nothing left for me to do save defend the championship.

Mateer Wins Title.

PRINCETON, N.J., March 8 (AP)—Diehl Mateer of Haverford won the National Intercollegiate Squash championship yesterday by defeating Charley Oliver of Army, 15-7, 6-16, 15-10, 15-11 in the final.

Aggies to Play Big 7 Champs For Meet Berth

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—With some of the minor and sectional tournaments already under way, the major post-season basketball picture was rapidly taking shape today.

Only one team remained to be selected for the national invitation tournament which is scheduled for Madison Square Garden March 12-14-17-19. The bids were tendered the City College of New York and San Francisco yesterday.

The C.C.N.Y. selection came somewhat as a surprise. However, Asa Bushnell and his committee, apparently figured Nat Holman's crew was the class of the metropolitan area.

Bushnell added that the eight teams which will take part would be announced today, and the last selection "shortly thereafter."

City College with 17 victories and six losses and San Francisco, which sports a 21-5 mark, thus join Kentucky, Western Kentucky, St. Louis, Utah and Bradley in the N.I.T.

The Eastern N.C.A.C. lineup is almost set, too, with the official selection of Villanova for the district two place. The Wildcats dumped Georgetown, 65-57, last night.

The other three eastern spots have been taken by Yale, Ivy League leaders; Kentucky, which will play in both the N.C.A.A. and N.I.T. tourneys, and Illinois, the Big Nine champion.

The western teams have not been decided as yet although Wyoming seems a shoo-in for district seven. The other three, however, still are in doubt.

Oklahoma A. and M., Nebraska and Oklahoma are battling it out in district five. There'll be a playoff between the Aggies and the Big Seven champion at Kansas City, March 14. Rice, Arkansas, Arizona and Baylor will play in district six in Dallas Wednesday and Thursday of next week and the winner of the UCLA-Oregon State game later this week will get the nod in district eight.

Hole-In-One for Connett.

W. C. Connett, former noted soccer referee, reached the age of 69 before shooting his first hole-in-one on the golf links. Recently his tee shot went into the cup on the 180-yard twelfth hole at St. Louis Country Club. He used a No. 3 iron.

Old-Timer Knapp "Nails" Wily Wild Turkey with Rifle Shot

THOS. E. KNAPP, of Alderson, West Virginia, has hunted his native mountains for more than forty years. He says: "A .22 rifle is pretty light for wild turkey, the most hard-to-get game bird. Yet I've bagged plenty with my Marlin lever action 39A. Of all the rifles I've owned, I like it best for small game."

"And of all the razor blades I've tried," adds Mr. Knapp, "Marlin's suit me best. They're keener than a wild turkey's eye, and save me money, too!" Single or double edge 12 for 25¢; Economy Packs 25 for 50¢, 60 for $1.

Post-Dispatch Caddie Meet, Aug. 1-2

Third Annual Event Again At Norwood

Youth was served as District Golf Association Secretary Jim Benson today announced the dates for that organization's amateur and open tournaments, including the third annual caddie championship sponsored by the Post-Dispatch.

Benson invited current high school, junior and caddie champions to play in this season's district amateur and St. Louis open events, free of entry or caddie fees.

It was the latest move in the district's drive to develop top-drawer amateur golfers and it meant that the 1949 prep winner and the 1948 junior and caddie title holders will be welcome to play in the district amateur championship June 14-19 at St. Louis Country Club.

Invited to Open Here.

Further, the new high school winner of this season and the 1949 winners of the junior and caddie events in July and August are extended the same invitation to play in the 36-hole St. Louis Open at Westwood Country Club, Aug. 20-21.

The caddie tournament annually sends the winner and runner-up on a Post-Dispatch sponsored all-expense trip to the national championship in late August at Columbus, O. District caddies will play again this year at the Norwood east course, Aug. 1 and 2.

Caddies under 18 years of age at the time of the national the dates of which are to be announced later, are eligible to compete in the caddie tournament won by Algonquin's Jack Higgins a year ago and by Meadow Brook's Bill Cox in 1947.

Preliminary qualifying play for caddies will be conducted at each club in the district under the direction of the club professionals. The trials will provide a field of about 50 players for the 36-hole, stroke play district caddie event.

"We want to give the kids an added inspiration," said Benson, who can remember not so many years ago when a stain on the shoulder from a golf bag strap was enough to disqualify a youngster from playing in the district tournament. "We think the young players have been neglected and we're going to do something about it. Doesn't make any difference whether the junior, or any other winner, is a member of a club. They're going to play."

High School Event.

The high school event is set for June 13 at Greenbriar (36 holes) and the district junior at match play is scheduled for July 18-22 at Meadow Brook.

Eliminating some events from previous years, the district's officials have sought to reduce the tournament pressure on crowded private clubs. The four-man team championship will be decided this year in conjunction with the 36-hole qualifying for the district amateur. Thirty-two players will qualify for district amateur match play.

Providing the climax for the season is the Western amateur championship at Bellerive, Sept. 19-26. Juvenile, Father and Son, Senior, and Champion of Champions events have been retained, while the monthly pro-amateur handicap play has been dropped.

—R.M.

Chicagoan Rolls To A.B.C. Lead

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 8 (UP)—Johnn Small of Chicago, veteran "clutch" bowler, took the lead in the all-vents division of the American Bowling Congress tournament today with a 1942 total.

Small, who was a member of the winning five-man team at Columbus, O., in 1942, was at his best last night as he displaced Charles O'Donnell of Detroit, who scored 1918 last Saturday.

Small scored a 552 in the team event and then hit the high series of the current competition—a strike-studded 722 in the doubles. In the last frame of the third game, he cut down the 6-7-10 split. In the second game, the 42-year-old bowler opened with 10 straight strikes and scored 289, tying the high single of the tourney.

Joe Wilman of Chicago lost his race with Junie McMahon also of Chicago for the lead in the 10-year ABC averages. Wilman needed a 1808 all-events total to keep his lead. He shot 1801 to bring his average to 206-63. McMahon leads with a 206-69 mark.

Cissell Fighting for Life in Oxygen Tent

CHICAGO, March 8 (UP)—Bill Cissell, former Chicago White Sox shortstop, fought for his life in an oxygen tent today.

Hospital attendants said that Cissell, 45, was in serious condition after suffering a heart attack. He had the attack after being completely cured of a nerve condition in both legs which prevented him from walking.

SHORT WAVES

Kentucky's ALEX GROZA was picked as the outstanding player to appear at the Chicago Stadium this winter by the Chicago Basketball Writers' Association. . . . Runners-up were WALLACE JONES, also of Kentucky and MEYER (WHITEY) SKOOG of Minnesota.

ARNOLD A. GALIFFA, one of the most versatile athletes in the history of the United States Military Academy, was elected captain of the Army basketball team. . . . A native of Donora, Pa., Stan Musial's home town, Galiffa has earned seven major letters in football, baseball and basketball.

HARRISON DILLARD, olympic track star from Baldwin-Wallace College, was awarded the Villanova College Interracial Club medal as America's outstanding Negro collegian. . . . Dillard, winner of the Olympic 100-meter sprint at London last summer, was unable to be present and HERB McKENLEY, Olympic runner from Jamaica, accepted for Dillard.

Lincoln High of East St. Louis was assigned to play against Brownstown at Hillsboro's sectional basketball tournament because the Illinois High School Athletic Association board of directors did not feel it was advisable to assign Lincoln, a Negro school, to the East St. Louis sectional because of racial segregation in the schools there.

Signs of spring: The $15,000 sixth annual Philadelphia Inquirer golf tournament will be held May 19-22 at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

B.A.A. Play-Offs Start March 22

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The Basketball Association of America play-offs, with a player's pool of $70,000, will get under-way March 22.

League President Maurice Podoloff announced the starting date yesterday and also a breakdown on how the $70,000 will be sliced up.

The teams that finished first in the Eastern and Western divisions will receive $5000 apiece and the runner-ups $1500 each. Washington already has clinched the Eastern crown while Rochester, winner of 11 straight games, tops the West by two games.

Teams finishing in the first four positions in each division will participate in the play-offs.

Series "A" of the play-offs, in which $28,000 will be divided, involves eight teams. The pennant winners in each division will tangle with the fourth-place teams while the runner-ups tackle the third-place fives. The winners in this best two-out-of-three series will collect $4000 and the losers $3000.

The victors of the semi-final or series "B" will receive $4500 and the eliminated teams $3500. This series also is a best two-out-of-three affair. The final series will be a best four-out-of-seven set with the champions walking off with $7500 and the vanquished with $5500.

The Boston Celtics trounced the Indianapolis Jets, 107-86, last night in the circuit's only game. The Celtics pumped in 38 points in the third quarter to win going away. Bob Doll and Dermine O'Connel led the Boston barrage with 17 points each. Leo Mogus of the Jets was high scorer with 23 points.

VALLEY ASSOCIATION BACKS FEDERAL BARGE LINE PLAN

The Mississippi Valley Association has indorsed a plan for the continuance of the Federal Barge Lines and thus ended a long-standing controversy within its own organization with respect to the Government-operated river carrier, it was announced today.

LEGISLATIVE REPORTS ON 'PUBLICITY' SOUGHT

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8—Persons, firms or associations soliciting funds to influence bills before the legislature would be required to file detailed reports listing contributions and expenditures, under a bill introduced in the House yesterday.

Offered by Majority Floor Leader C. P. Turley, Van Buren, and Representative Tom A. Shockley, Waynesville, the measure provides the reports must show the sums collected, the names of contributors and persons to whom funds are paid, and the purpose of the expenditures.

Specifically, the bill covers persons and organizations soliciting funds from the general public to engage in a "publicity program." A publicity program is defined as one to obtain information and statistics for dissemination to the public, or to mold public opinion for or against legislation, including constitutional amendments.

The bill exempts educational, religious and charitable organizations, and those which obtain operating funds from membership fees and furnish reports only to their members.

Turley said the measure is not aimed at any certain individual or group. He said he introduced it because he thought any group that solicited funds to influence legislation should be required to file a public report showing who its "angels" are, and the purpose of its expenditures.

The sworn reports would have to be filed with the Secretary of State on Jan. 1 and July 1 each year. A person violating the law would be guilty of a misdemeanor. If a corporation violated the law its license to do business could be canceled.

AGREEMENT ON STRIKERS VOTING IN NLRB POLLS

1938 Supreme Court Decision.

The report cited a 1938 decision of the Supreme Court under the Wagner Act in the case of the NLRB against Mackay Radio. There the court held that an employer guilty of no unfair labor practice had the right to fill with permanent new employes the places left vacant by strikers. This right was not challenged by later NLRB interpretations of the Wagner Act, nor would it be under the pending Administration bill.

"To have held otherwise," said the joint committee, "would have made it almost impossible for a labor organization to lose an economic strike."

Of course, the argument is made that denial of voting rights in representation elections to economic strikers would make it impossible, when there is a pool of unemployed workers from which to draw strikers, for a union to win an economic strike against an unscrupulous employer. It is for precisely this reason that Taft has changed his mind on the Taft-Hartley provision, and that the United States Chamber of Commerce witness favored return to the NLRB practice following the 1938 decision of the Supreme Court of permitting both strikers and strikebreakers to vote.

The joint committee report quoted above did not state the issue precisely. It is not whether an employer may replace strikers with permanent new workers; it is whether strikers should be permitted to vote, along with the strikebreakers, in representation elections conducted by the NLRB.

If enough strikebreakers have been hired as permanent employes, they would win the election, assuming they voted solidly. In that event the union would be ousted. On the other hand, if the strikers outvoted the strikebreakers, the employer would have two choices of action: He could maintain his refusal to come to terms with the union, in which event the union would still be on the outside looking in even if it was entitled to bargain; or if the employer did reach an agreement with the union, he would have to solve the problem of how the two groups could get along together in his plant.

He would not be compelled to retain the whole force of strikebreakers and strikers, but could select from among both groups the labor force he wanted to keep. This would be true except in a closed shop plant. The closed shop is now outlawed by the Taft-Hartley Act; the Administration bill would restore to unions the right to negotiate with employers in an effort to obtain a closed shop agreement which the employer, in his discretion, might grant or withhold.

Foreign Minister Indicates Denmark Will Join Pact.

COPENHAGEN, March 8 (UP)—Danish Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen is scheduled to depart for Washington tomorrow with a list of arms Denmark will send under the proposed North Atlantic pact, authoritative sources said today.

Rasmussen told a foreign press association dinner yesterday that Denmark was prepared to join the Atlantic pact but first must determine what obligations the agreement might impose.

The foreign minister told Danes there is no doubt they must look to "the Atlantic pact of peace and defense." The only other road, he said, is "complete isolation without military affiliation with other powers. The Government can hardly believe that wide circles in Denmark would line up behind such an isolation."

Fraternity Drops Race Clause.

COLUMBUS, O., March 8 (AP)—The Bucket and Dipper, an Ohio State University honorary fraternity, yesterday changed an admittance clause to read "all male students," rather than "all white male students." Fraternity President Herbert Floyd explained, "The members felt the clause had no place in an honorary fraternity."

Two Candidates for Comptroller On Each of Major Party Tickets; Records of Men Seeking the Office

Louis Nolte, Running for Ninth Term, Is Opposed by David Petersen, While Democratic Aspirants Are Milton Carpenter and Patrick J. Walsh.

THE POST-DISPATCH Voters' Guide today presents facts concerning the major-party candidates for nomination for Comptroller at the primary election next Friday. There are two candidates for nomination for the office on each the Republican and Democratic tickets. Records of candidates for nomination for aldermen will be given in subsequent installments.

Republican

Louis Nolte, St. Louis's veteran Comptroller, who has retained the office for the past 32 years through both Democratic and Republican regimes, is seeking his ninth four-year term as Comptroller.

He was first elected to the office in 1917 and has been re-elected each four years since that time, the Democrats on two occasions not even placing a candidate in opposition to him. These occasions were in 1929 and 1941. He was the only Republican office holder at City Hall during the Democratic administration of former Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, 1933-41.

Nolte had announced his plans to retire from public office upon the expiration of his present term next month, but finally decided to file for a ninth term after one of the factions of the Republican City Committee filed a candidate in opposition to the man Nolte was backing for the nomination for Comptroller. In effect, he thus became his own "unity candidate," the candidates over whom the party leaders were squabbling withdrawing in Nolte's favor.

Noted for Guarding Funds.

Throughout his years as Comptroller, Nolte has been regarded as one of the most colorful, as well as able, officials of the city. Early in his tenure in office, he became known as the "Watch-dog of the treasury" because of his close observance of city expenditures. Another expression familiar among employes of the Comptroller's office is, "No — as in Nolte."

In October, 1945, Nolte expressed opposition to the granting of tax exemption for housing projects, at a time when the city administration was seeking passage of a bill by the State Legislature to effect such exemption as a stimulant for the proposed housing program.

Nolte said at the time that such exemption would disrupt the American system of government, would be unfair competition for private capital and would place an undue load on other property owners. He approved of the proposed slum clearance bond issue, which was defeated last fall.

Fight With Civil Service Board.

On several occasions Nolte has been at odds with the Civil Service Commission and the city's Department of Personnel. He objected to the Charter Amendment's provision for a mandatory appropriation for the Department of Personnel and to the fact that the Civil Service Commission has control over the salaries and numbers of city employes. He has criticized the character of civil service examinations given city employes and at one time engaged in a prolonged fight with the Personnel Department to retain a key employe in his office, who had failed a civil service examination. The fight ended when the employe took another job. Nolte insists that he believes in merit system principles.

In 1934 Nolte received the St. Louis Award, given annually for outstanding service to the community, for his refusal to certify a public works bond issue until revenue had been provided, as required by law, to assure interest and retirement payments on the bonds. He gave the $1000 prize to charity.

Before becoming Comptroller, Nolte served six years as Sheriff of St. Louis, 1907-13. He declined to run for Assessor in 1913 and for the next four years returned to the real estate business.

Born in St. Louis, he attended military school. Started his career as a messenger boy for a land title firm. He is married and lives at 1129 Penrose street. He is 77 years old.

David Petersen, manager of the heating department of the Peerless Missouri Co., a wholesale heating and plumbing equipment firm, 4971 Fyler avenue, is seeking public office for the first time.

Born in Omaha, Neb., he attended public grade and high schools there and later took night school courses. He has been a resident of St. Louis since 1927. He is a veteran of World War I. For six years prior to last year he was in federal government service, with the United States Army Corps of Engineers and with the War Assets Administration.

He is 54 years old, married, has one child, and lives at 6033 Potomac street.

Democratic

Milton Carpenter, district manager in St. Louis and assistant treasurer of the Patent Scaffolding Co., formerly was a roofing and general contractor. He was Democratic nominee for the office of Collector of Revenue for the city in 1946, but was defeated at the general election.

Born in St. Louis, he is 43 years old, married and lives at 8421 Church road. He attended public grade and high schools and Washington University night school.

He is a member of the board of directors of Pilgrim Lutheran Church and president of the Philia Society, a church group. He is a member of the board of directors of the Optimists' Club and a past president of the Inner Circle Club, a business organization, and of the United Roofing Contractors' Association.

Carpenter is a veteran of World War II, having served three years as a technical sergeant in service and supplies, medical department; suffered injury in early Army training. He is a member of the American Legion and Amvets.

Patrick J. Walsh, former Alderman of the Thirteenth Ward, retired a year ago as president of the Pat Walsh Loan & Finance Co., 721 Olive street. In his race for the nomination for Comptroller, he has the support of Nicholas M. Blassie, president of Local 88, AFL Meatcutters' Union, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor.

Before heading the loan company bearing his name, Walsh was president for a time of the Senate Loan & Finance Co., 317 North Tenth street, and prior to that was a vice president of the Industrial Bank of St. Louis.

He served as Thirteenth Ward Alderman from November, 1940, when he was elected to fill the unexpired term of Phelim O'Toole, who resigned to accept appointment as Excise Commissioner of the city, until April, 1941. Walsh was defeated for re-election as alderman.

He attended public and parochial grade and high schools and the City College of Law and Finance; was admitted to the bar in 1926. He is 60 years old; married; has four children; lives at 3669 Fillmore street.

ELECTION BOARD NEXT MAJOR SELECTION JOB

Gov. Smith Declines to Say When He Will Name St. Louis Commissioners.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 8—The most important St. Louis appointments now remaining to be made by Gov. Forrest Smith are the four members of the bipartisan Board of Election Commissioners.

The Governor, asked today when an announcement as to the election board appointments might be expected, declined to reply. The terms of the present commissioners expire in June. They have conducted the registration and other preparations for the municipal primary next Friday, and if not replaced shortly, they will conduct the April 5 city election.

Present members of the board, appointed by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, are: Chairman Frank L. Ramacciotti and Lawrence Boogher, Democrats; Henry A. Hamilton and William J. Studt, Republicans.

representative to the United Nations Trusteeship Council, told the conference any attempts to establish world government inevitably would lead to "increased disunity and division." He said world government is "impractical" and that only the development of common moral and legal standards could insure world peace.

The Rt. Rev. William Scarlett of St. Louis, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri and chairman of the sponsoring department, is presiding over the conference. Also attending is Dean Sidney E. Sweet of Christ Church Cathedral at St. Louis.

FIRST PHASE WON AGAINST RUSSIA HARD TEST AHEAD

be long, dirty, tiringly complex and unpleasantly costly. But it is certainly not a task which cannot be accomplished. The emerging British-American partnership, previously reported in this space, will be perhaps the major instrument for doing the job. But the first thing to realize is that, one way or another, the job has got to be done. And it is more important at the moment to grasp this necessity than to worry about methods.

Then, even when the situation has been stabilized on the vulnerable colonial flanks of the Western nations, it will still be necessary to meet the challenge of Soviet rearmament. The Western nations may have, in fact we do have, more than five times the total annual steel production of the Soviet empire. But the experience of 1939 should be enough to prove it is never safe to rely on preponderant but unmobilized resources, while permitting any enemy to achieve preponderance of immediate military might. We need not militarize ourselves as the Soviets are doing. Aggression is not our purpose. But we must unquestionably make enough effort and sacrifice to retain for the West a very strong defensive advantage.

If we fulfill both these difficult requirements, we shall be safe. And as time goes we may hope that the inner contradictions of the Soviet system will lead to changes, which in turn will transform the armed truce into real peace. But at present, because of the inner contradictions of our own system, we are fulfilling neither requirement. If there is another world catastrophe we shall have only our own hankering for business as usual to thank.

Worldly Character

By F. A. Behymer

WHEN the Pomeroys moved from St. Louis to Lebanon, Ill., there was a question whether they should take along an alley cat with possible aristocratic antecedents which, on account of a certain haughtiness, had been named Sir Thomas Prowler. Sir Thomas, for undisclosed personal reasons of a possibly romantic nature, was disinclined to migrate.

This reluctance on the part of Sir Thomas, though it was okeh with the rest of the Pomeroys, disturbed Karen, the youngest Pomeroy, who loved him madly and did not want to be separated from him. Not entirely trusting the other Pomeroys, she smuggled Sir Thomas into the car, much against his inclination. When the car started Tom let out a yowl, leaped through the window and hid under the house.

It took all the Pomeroys and some of the neighbors to get him out and again into the car. He was kept from making another break only by keeping the windows closed all the way to Lebanon, and it was a hot day. At Lebanon he was kept virtually a prisoner for several days until he became oriented. He was still discontented, though, as anybody could see, and was only biding his time. One day, with exaggerated nonchalance, he went for a walk and didn't return.

★ ★ ★

KAREN was disconsolate. She searched the neighborhood, calling out: "Kitty, kitty, Sir Thomas Prowler, come back to me," but no dice. Sir Thomas didn't come back.

Karen had all the kids of the neighborhood helping her in her search and went so far as to post a reward of a dollar at school for information leading to the recovery of Sir Thomas.

Somebody suggested that advertising might help. It was known that others had by such means achieved remarkable results. So to the newspaper office went Karen, with money taken from her piggy bank, without consulting her parents, for she doubted very much whether they would approve, and put an ad in the Lost and Found column, written by herself, to the following effect:

> LOST—A very nice cat. He is yellow with a white collar. His name is Sir Thomas Prowler and he isn't any special kind of cat. He has been gone for a week. If found please call 132L.

For days she stayed close to the telephone but no call came. Everybody said it was no go, Thomas was gone and he wouldn't be back. Karen, though, didn't give up. "I'm trying to be brave," she told her mother. To the suggestion that she get another cat to take the place of Sir Thomas she shook her head. "Sir Thomas will come back I'm sure," she said, and nobody had the heart to destroy such faith as that.

★ ★ ★

FINALLY, THOUGH, when months had passed without a meow at the door, Karen softened. One day she was sick and Dr. Carpenter came. What she needed, he said, was a cat. He happened to know where one could be had. A little girl had told him that, having more cats than she needed, she would sell one for a nickel. It was sort of like taking advantage of the kid when she was sick and everything, but she said all right and when the doctor came the next day he brought a kitty of female gender which Karen accepted and named "Queen Blondie the Pickle Puss." Queen Blondie almost took the place of false, perfidious Sir Thomas, but not quite.

The other night, when Blondie had gone out for a fling, belikes, with her Romeo, and Karen had gone to bed, there came a scratch at the door. It sounded like the scratch of Sir Thomas Prowler, but that couldn't be, for it was 21 months since he had gone away. With unbelief Mrs. Pomeroy opened the door and in stalked Sir Thomas the Prowler, that worldly fellow, that man around town, home from his prowling.

MRS. POMEROY'S STARTLED CRY was heard by Karen, who wanted to know what could the matter be, and Mrs. Pomeroy gasped: "Sir Thomas has come home." Out of bed bounced Karen, to see this miracle that had come to pass.

Straight through the living room to the kitchen went Sir Thomas and found, as he evidently expected, a saucer of milk in the corner where it used to be placed for him, refreshed himself, waddled back into the living room and climbed into the old green chair that had always been his, polished his bedraggled whiskers and languidly accepted the endearments and fond reproaches that Karen showered upon him.

When Queen Blondie the Pickle Puss came in she viewed the proceedings with scant tolerance and as good as told Sir Thomas that he was not welcome in that house, but Sir Thomas, treating such inhospitality with the contempt that it deserved, yawned and went to sleep in the old green chair.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THIS is Sinclair Lewis's story: A gambler at a Las Vegas roulette wheel was very partial to Number Eleven. Unfortunately the little silver ball and Number Eleven did not even strike up a speaking acquaintance during an entire evening, and 2 a.m. found the gambler all alone at the table, low in spirit and finances.

He was about to put all of his remaining chips on Number Eleven again when a flutey, unearthly voice whispered in his ear, "Put it on Sixteen." The gambler wheeled around. Aside from himself and the yawning croupier, there wasn't a soul in sight. Utterly mystified, but impressed, the gambler shifted his stake to Number Sixteen. It came up! As he was about to rake in his chips, the shrill voice counseled, "Let it ride!" '

Number Sixteen came up again!

The gambler, jittering with excitement, found himself awaiting that mysterious voice once more. Nor was he disappointed. "Put the whole pile on Twenty-two," it commanded. The gambler obeyed blindly.

The wheel spun. As it slowed down, the silver ball hovered on the very edge of Number Twenty-two, then skittered out into the green Zero.

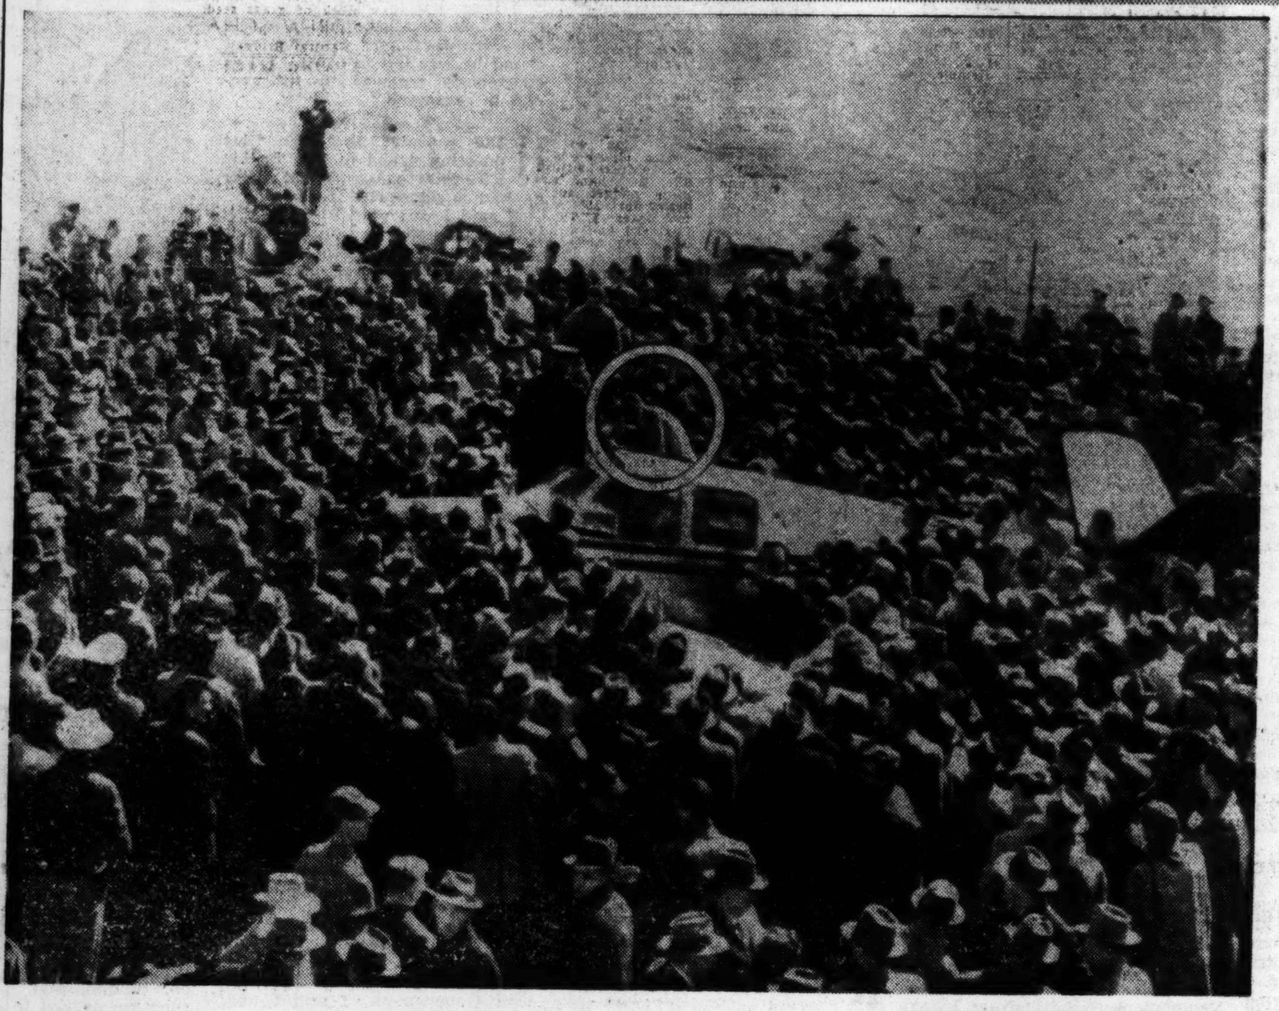
What Am I Saying!

I SEE where a woman wrestler from Texas was being held for Nevada authorities for beating up a Reno gambler and taking $6000 from him. She explained he'd tried to hold her hand without being introduced, so she used one of her holds on him instead—a stranglehold. Women wrestlers, apparently, believe that the best way to hold a man is down. FRANK MORGAN.

CROWD GREETS ODOM AFTER RECORD FLIGHT



Welcomed by a large crowd, Bill Odom (circled) stands on the wing of his single-engine Beechcraft after landing at Teterboro (N.J.) airport today to set a 5000-mile world's nonstop record for light planes in a flight from Honolulu. Odom, who took off at 11:05 p.m. Sunday, was in the air for 36 hours and one minute. After making a perfect landing, he commented, "I feel just like a business man coming home on an easy trip."

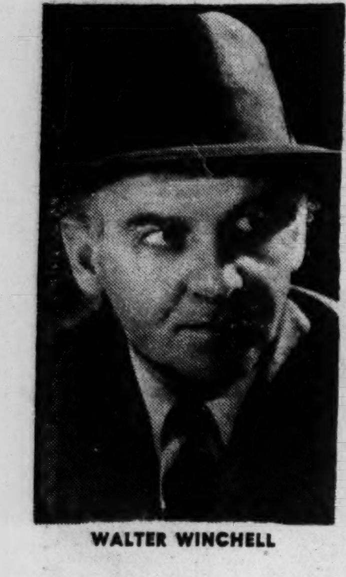
Man Patting His Yawns

FROM a H. Trib sports column: "A loyal follower of the Princeton basketball team was astounded last week when the Tigers upset Yale. He said: 'How did Princeton ever stop Tony Lavelli? Life magazine said it couldn't be done.'"



WALTER WINCHELL

Ho-hum. Is it still news when a Luce publication is wrong? . . . Egad, it's an epidemic. A mag discloses that our dignified-as-a-monocle Sec'y of State Acheson called a legislator a s.o.b.—without bothering to use initials . . . Franco's flunkeys here would have you believe that his critics are Communists. Nutz. During the past fortnight the Spanish Fuehrer had his fangs yanked by the conservative H. Trib and the ditto Satevepost. . . . Talk about type casting: A villain in Bob Hope's "The Paleface" is a dead ringer for A. Hitler. . . . Luce staffers stamp their feet at a columnist who corrected a fluff. But their publication has at least a half-dozen corrections every issue, and they go to press only once a week. . . . Oh, those Hollywoodites are terrible: Lassie has had six mates! . . . Add New York excitements: The red-haired salesgirl in the Saks 5th Avenue toy dep't. . . . Headline: "J. Parnell Thomas Back in Hospital," Courtroomatism?

HERE'S AN EXCERPT from indicted traitor Ezra Pound's "poem" that received the $1000 prize: "Oedipus, nepotes remi magnanimi. . . . so mr. bullington lay on his back like an ape. . . . singing: o sweet and lovely . . o lady be good . . . in harum ac ego ivi. . . . Criminals have no intellectual interests?"

THE FILM "A Letter to Three Wives" serves much meaty dialogue. Have a slice: "School teachers are not only comic; they're often cold and hungry in this richest land on earth. What would happen if they all quit: Who'd teach the kids? Who'd open their minds and hearts to the real glories of the human spirit? Who'd help them along to the future? Radio sponsors? Movie producers? The comic strips?" . . . Most impressive electrobatic along Mazda Alleys is the 40-foot figure of H. Bogart above the Astor.

TRAITOROUS French and Italian Communist leaders have declared they'd support the Red Army if it marched into their nations. Commenting on those statements, the New York Times editorialist wondered what the position of the American Scummunists would be if the Russian Army set foot on U.S. soil.

There's no need for the editorialist to wonder—because here is the answer in black and white: Communist leader William Z. Foster stated several years ago: "No Communist, no matter how many votes he should secure in a national election, could, even if he would, become President of the present government. When a Communist heads a government of the United States (and that day will come just as surely as the sun rises) the government will not be a capitalistic government, but a Soviet government and behind this government will stand the Red Army to enforce the dictatorship of the proletariat."

Does that make everything clear, Mr. Editorialist?

INCIDENTALLY, the New York Times frowns on personal journalism—and has often attacked columnists who deal in personalities. But a Satevepost on that gazette's Washington columnist noted some time ago: "Although Arthur Krock talks much of principles, to him the political drama has been largely an affair of personalities who are either devils or angels." Ho-hum.

FRENCH COMMUNIST THOREZ scooted to Russia when war broke out. He was tried and convicted of desertion in France. But oddly enough, Thorez was pardoned and allowed to return to France by that nation's arch-foe of Communism—DeGaulle. . . . When you come across a snoboteur with a Mayflower-complex remind him of this: Pro-Communist Anna Louise Strong informed reporters: "My ancestors came to America in 1630." . . . If you want to see steam rising from your corpuscles—read the Mag Digest piece telling how arrogant Germans are rediculing American soldiers. . . . Bogart says: "Those high Hollywood salaries are silly anyway. We can't keep it. It just impresses a lot of people." Well, we may not be able to keep much of our lofty salaries—but it helps keep our Government running. We just found out that it costs us more than $1000 a day (in taxes) to enjoy the freedom of being able to say whatever we please. What a bargain.

Sense of Humor

By Angelo Patri

WE ARE proud of the American sense of humor. We make laughter an imperative in our daily lives. The book we read must make us laugh; the picture we see must "make them roll in the aisles." If catastrophe strikes, the victim must meet it with a smile and a humorous story. We just must have a sense of humor, the sixth sense for us Americans.

The children are trained to share this idea. They are furnished with joke books and comic books. Why these books are called comics is beyond me, but that's what they are and they are supposed above all else to be the inspiration of laughter. They don't make me laugh, but perhaps I lack this essential sense. That "could be."

People can be judged by the things they laugh at. Their characters express themselves directly in their reaction to things that happen about them, to the plays they see and the books they read. When they laugh in the wrong places, we know they are lacking in understanding, in discrimination and judgment—if not good sense.

CHILDREN attend movies that they do not understand and they laugh in the wrong places—at a murder, for example. They cheer when the gangster shoots his hapless victim. They don't know why they laugh, nor why they cheer. We know that it is because emotions for which they have no proper outlet are aroused and find expression in the elementary fashion-noisy laughter.

We train children to laugh at the wrong things. They laugh at a picture that shows maltreatment of a feeble-minded person, of a weak and helpless character. They laugh at the story of an aged person falling, of a silly woman asking a foolish question and getting a still sillier reply. Because these jokes are dignified by publication and exhibition on the stage, the screen, the billboards, advertisements and the comics, they take them as standards and follow them.

★ ★ ★

THEREFORE, we have children committing serious breaches of behavior—shooting a companion, binding one to a tree and leaving him to the mosquitoes, tripping up an elderly person, doing the funny things that brought cheers and laughter in their wake in the movies, the comic and joke books.

Laughter is a tonic to the mind and body. True. But the tonic quality depends upon the cause of the laughter. What is your child laughing at? It is important to know because a child loves to cause people to laugh with him, to be the center of praise and applause. He may try his hand at the game he has enjoyed so much. Be careful of it.

Alger Hiss Before House Committee

Head of Peace Foundation Completely at Ease in First Appearance

By Robert E. Stripling

Chief Investigator, House Un-American Activities Committee, 1939-1948

Edited by Bob Considine

(Fifteenth Article of a Series.)

ALGER HISS . . . SAID HE WOULD SPEAK FROM THE HEART.

THE first appearance of Alger Hiss before the House Un-American Activities Committee, Aug. 5, 1948, drew perhaps the biggest turnout of reporters and spectators in the history of our inquiries.

They sat restlessly through the extended remarks of Rep. Fred E. Busbey, a former member of the committee who produced correspondence with the Civil Service Commission concerning Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, who had been heard the previous day.

As Busbey spoke on, I moved across the caucus room to Hiss, a boyish-looking man of considerable poise, and whispered:

"We're calling you next, Mr. Hiss. If you have a statement prepared, I'd be happy to submit it to the committee in advance."

The youthful president of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, former law clerk for the great Oliver Wendell Holmes, State Department official, organizer at the birth of the United Nations, and adviser to President Roosevelt at Yalta, smiled amiably. He reached inside his neat coat but, instead of producing a statement, touched his heart.

"What I have to say will come from here," he replied.

When he was sworn in, Hiss elaborated dramatically on what is normally the routine "I do." Hiss said, "So, help me God . . . So help me God."

Then, in his clear, perfect diction, he began:

"I was born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11, 1904. I am here at my own request to deny unqualifiedly various statements about me which were made before this committee by one Whittaker Chambers the day before yesterday. I appreciate the committee's having promptly granted my request. I welcome the opportunity to answer to the best of my ability any inquiries the members of this committee may wish to ask me.

"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist Party. I do not and never have adhered to the tenets of the Communist Party. I am not and never have been a member of any Communist-front organization. I have never followed the Communist Party line, directly or indirectly. To the best of my knowledge, none of my friends is a Communist.

"AS a State Department official, I have had contacts with representatives of foreign governments, some of whom have undoubtedly been members of the Communist party, as, for example, representatives of the Soviet Government. My contacts with any foreign representative who could possibly have been a Communist have been strictly official.

"To the best of my knowledge, I never heard of Whittaker Chambers until in 1947, when two representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation asked me if I knew him and various other people, some of whom I knew and some of whom I did not know. I said I did not know Chambers. So far as I know, I have never laid eyes on him, and I should like to have the opportunity to do so." His voice rose in indignation as he spoke the last sentence.

"I have known Henry H. Collins (Ed. Note: Named by Chambers as provider of the Washington apartment where the alleged conspirators reportedly met) since we were boys in camp together. I knew him again while he was at the Harvard Business School, while I was at the Harvard Law School, and I have seen him from time to time since I came to Washington in 1933.

"Lee Pressman was in my class at the Harvard Law School and we were both on the Harvard Law Review at the same time. We were also both assistants to Judge Jerome Frank on the legal staff of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Since I left the Department of Agriculture I have seen him only occasionally and infrequently. I left the Department, according to my recollection, in 1935.

"Witt and Abt (Ed. Note: Nathan Witt and John Abt, accused by Chambers as leaders of an "elite" spy ring to which he also linked Hiss) were both members of the legal staff of the A.A.A. I knew them both in that capacity. I believe I met Witt in New York a year or so before I came to Washington. I came to Washington in 1933. We were both practicing law in New York at the time I think I met Witt.

"Kramer (Ed. Note: Charles Kramer, also named by Chambers) was in another office of the A.A.A., and I met him in that connection.

"I have seen none of these last three men I have mentioned except most infrequently since I left the Department of Agriculture.

"I don't believe I ever knew Victor Perlo (Ed. Note: Named by both Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley as leader of another alleged Communist spy ring in Washington.)

"Except as I have indicated, the statements made about me by Mr. Chambers are complete fabrications. I think my record in the Government service speaks for itself."

Hiss then traced his background but became reluctant when Representative Nixon asked him who, in addition to Judge Frank, urged him to come to Washington to work.

"Is it necessary?" Hiss asked. "There are so many witnesses who use names rather loosely before your committee, and I would rather limit myself."

Nixon pressed him on the point, and finally Hiss said, "I am answering this only because you ask it—Justice Felix Frankfurter."

Continuing, he traced his progress through various Government posts and his eventual appointment to the Carnegie Foundation, through the recommendation of John Foster Dulles, among others.

★ ★ ★

REPRESENTATIVE MUNDT briefly reviewed Chambers's charges against him and ended the resume by wondering, aloud, why the Time editor mentioned Hiss.

"So do I, Mr. Chairman," Hiss spoke up. "I have no possible understanding of what could have motivated him. . . . I wish I could have seen Mr. Chambers before he testified. . . . The name means absolutely nothing to me."

I showed him a picture of Chambers taken several days before. Hiss shook his head.

"I would much rather see the individual," he said. "I have looked at all the pictures I was able to get hold of. If this is a picture of Mr. Chambers, he is not particularly unusual looking. He looks like a lot of people. I might even mistake him for the chairman of this committee."

The caucus room roared with laughter.

Mundt brushed this aside and said, "You realize that this man whose picture you have just looked at, under sworn testimony before this committee, where all the laws of perjury apply, testified that he called at your home, conferred at great length, saw your wife pick up a telephone and call somebody who he said must have been a Communist, pleaded with you to divert yourself from Communist activities, and left you with tears in your eyes, saying 'I simply can't make the sacrifice.'"

"I do know that he said that," Hiss answered, easily. "I also know that I am testifying under those same laws to the direct contrary."

Hiss surprised the sympathetic crowd when he conceded that in 1946 he had been directed by Secretary of State Byrnes to present himself at the FBI for a loyalty test, growing out of a report from Capitol Hill that several members of Congress were going to name him as a Communist.

"I immediately went to my own office," he recalled, "put in a call for Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, and found he was not in town. I was courteously received by his second in command."

★ ★ ★

HISS revealed that the first question asked of him by his FBI interrogator was whether he had a statement to make.

"I said I was glad to make any statement upon any subject they suggested," he told the committee, "and they had no specific one initially. So I simply recited every organization I had been connected with, to see if that could possibly be of any significance to them. They asked me if I knew certain individuals. Among the names I remember was that of Lee Pressman.

"I told them how I had known him and the extent to which I had known him, as I have before this committee. They did not mention the name Chambers, I am quite sure."

Under questioning by the committee, Hiss then stoutly denied Chambers's charge that Mrs. Hiss was a Communist, denied that Chambers had ever come to his home to ask him to retire from Communism, denied that his brother Donald was a Communist.

He did not recall ever having met any of the accused at Collins's apartment, but he said he knew Lauchlin Currie "very well, and have a high regard for him." He also said he knew Harry Dexter White.

Speaking of his role in the diplomatic operations leading up to Yalta and the formation of the United Nations, Hiss said he lent his influence to the inclusion, in the draft of the U.N. Charter, of the veto provision.

"That was practically the unanimous position of the American Government, I might add," he amplified.

The tone of the committee was semi-apologetic as the first hearing of Hiss neared its close. Mundt expressed the chair's "appreciation for your very co-operative attitude, for your forthright statements, and for the fact that you were first among those whose names were mentioned by various witnesses to communicate with us asking for an opportunity to deny the charges."

"And another thing," spoke up John Rankin. "I want to congratulate the witness that he didn't refuse to answer the questions on the ground that it might incriminate him, and he didn't bring a lawyer here to tell him what to say."

Hiss smiled cordially and said, "I think I have been treated with great consideration by this committee."

There was applause outside as he left, smiling for the photographers. The committee filed silently out of the caucus room. A few reporters approached me as I followed. "Strip," said my friend Mary Spargo, "you fellows have really put your foot in it this time."

In executive session the members looked at one another for a time, and you could have cut the gloom with a knife. "We're ruined!" one declared. There must have been a wish on his part, and that of others, to drop the whole matter and apologize to Hiss. But, as I pointed out, with the aid of Rep. Nixon, a a prima facie perjury was somewhere involved. We had to carry on, if only for that reason.

Nixon and I felt vaguely dissatisfied with some of Hiss's answers, though it was difficult to place our fingers on the exact points. And we both felt that Chambers had mainly produced information only in answer to direct questions, and that he might have more to say.

Finally, a subcommittee was formed and empowered to go to New York to confront Chambers, in secret session, with the categorical denials of the distinguished man he had accused.

Be Smart

Jersey, the beloved wool of youthful wearers, looms importantly on the early spring fashion horizon. And there's a great partiality to very light colors in the taupe and beige family for wear both now and later, when a contrasting topper is all that's needed. You'll find these new jerseys blossoming out largely in the new accordion and knife pleat patterns, particularly the accordion pleats, which do not demand the meticulous press of the latter. Choose separates or a dress — both are equally fashion-wise.

FENCE POSTS.

OFFHAND we can think of six good reasons for fences around lawns, gardens and whatnot and if we had more time we could probably think of six more. The fact remains that no matter what the purpose of the fence, it needs a little attention and now is a good time to give it.

We note that fences are usually made of iron or wood. Metal fences are usually galvanized to prevent rusting but when the galvanize goes, the rust comes. The only thing to do here is to remove all the rust and give the metal a coat of metal priming paint. This can be followed by a finish coat.

The big headache with wood fences is that the wood posts rot out at the base or start to lean after a few months. The rotting can be avoided by treating the portion of the post which is underground with a wood preservative. This will also keep out insects. Don't use paint for this job because paint won't do much good and both insects and rot will be able to get at the wood.

The best way to keep wood posts from falling over is to set them nice and deep in the ground.

Some people prefer to set them in concrete but this isn't so good because there is bound to be an open seam between the concrete and wood which will allow moisture to get down and cause trouble.

In order to remove the membrane from the outside edge of liver slices insert a small sharp pointed knife at one point and then pull the membrane from the liver; in some cases it may be necessary to scrape the membrane away.

Muffins should be removed immediately from their pans, when they have finished baking, and should be served at once.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SAN FRANCISCO.

MY DAY in Vancouver followed the usual pattern of this trip except that the press conference was waiting for me when I reached what is known as American House, the home of the United States Consul General, Alfred W. Klieforth. A woman also was waiting with a recording machine for an interview. A half hour was all the time they needed, though, and then we dashed to the lovely and imposing city hall, where Mayor Percy E. George received me.

Mrs. Roosevelt

From there we proceeded directly to a luncheon which the mayor gave in my honor at the Vancouver hotel. I had the pleasure of seeing again some of the people whom I had seen in Victoria when I had been there 10 years ago with my husband, and most of the women's organizations were represented in the group of 60 people to whom I spoke briefly.

★ ★ ★

AFTER LUNCH I was taken by Mr. Barker of the Optimist Club to see a rehabilitation center which is being established largely through the interest of one of the lumber company heads. They told me that this was not primarily for veterans, though they would benefit by it. It seems that in the woods there are many lumbering accidents and this center is meant for all the people of the area who need rehabilitation. They have a large outpatient department as well as a small number of resident patients. The facilities for exercise are good now but will be even better when the swimming pool is completed.

Then we drove to North Vancouver and up a steep hill to see my host's house and his family and friends. Had it been a clear day the view would have been magnificent, but unfortunately one could see very little because of the haze.

★ ★ ★

BACK AT THE CONSULATE we had a pleasant cup of tea and I was glad to learn that this house was bought for Mr. Klieforth by our Government. That seems to me so much more sensible than letting our representatives search for accommodations when every place is so crowded that almost before one tenant moves out a new one moves in. This house in Vancouver has pleasant grounds around it and is a comfortable and adequate place for living and for necessary entertaining. Mr. Klieforth and his wife have spent a great many years in Europe and were in Germany during the Hitler period, so they had much of vital historic interest to tell.

When I went upstairs I had barely time to go over the mail, write the column and dress. Then, before dinner, the members of the consulate staff came in so I could meet them. Immediately after dinner we went to the auditorium where I spoke.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl age 19. There is a certain boy who lives in a neighboring town whom I have seen around my town for the past two years, though I have never met him, and I have fallen in love with him. There is a girl he goes with but even though with her when he sees me he never takes his eyes off me. I feel sure he must know I am interested in him. For the past year I have refused many chances to date other fellows because of the feeling I have for this one. Am I really in love with him? What shall I do?

THANK YOU.

You are a very young 19 indeed to be thinking yourself in love when all you have done is gaze on this boy soulfully from afar, not even a word spoken. You are simply in the throes of an infatuation. You saw the boy, decided you liked his eyes, the way his hair grew, then you began weaving all kinds of dreams around him and imagining him to be many wonderful and ideal things he probably is not all, though he may be a very nice, average kind of a fellow indeed. It seems to me surely you can find someone who knows this young man, and who will introduce you to him. Then you can meet the real fellow, not just someone you have dreamed up. In the meanwhile, why sit in a daze and continue to dream? You could keep that up for years and waken suddenly to find everyone you know, including this particular boy, has married and even left town, long ago. Get back into circulation. One real live boy to take you to parties and with whom you can be gay is worth a dozen dream men any day, particularly when they are already spoken for!

* * *

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL age 15. For the past four months I have been going steady with a boy a year older than myself. My parents like him very much. The very first time we went together to the movies I had him come in and meet them, and usually he sees them to talk to every time we go out. I have never yet met his parents though he often mentions them. Don't you think he should take me to meet them? How can I make him understand that is what he should do?

TRIXIE.

You are allowing yourself to become a bit on the serious side, don't you think? You are 15—remember—and after all, you aren't engaged to the boy. At your age you shouldn't be going steady with him either. You have the right idea in wanting the boys you date to always meet your parents, and I am sure they all appreciate this. But unless the boy you go with has a mother who is a friend of yours, or gives a party at his house or perhaps asks his mother if he can bring his girl friend to dinner some evening, you aren't likely to meet his family. So don't get all hurt and teary-eyed about this. And do be a sensible girl and get back into circulation. Time enough several years hence to be so exclusive. In the meanwhile, date various boys in the crowd and don't permit yourself to become serious about anyone. You'll find you'll have lots more fun.

Modern Marriage

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

NO 50-50 marriage for Mrs. V.—"Not if I have anything to say about it," she asserts.

"You don't think two heads are . . ."

"I don't think marriage can be put on a methematical basis as the idea of 50-50 implies," she answered. That scheme must have been worked out by the feminists, who figured that men and women are mathematically equal and tried to split the marriage in two equally balanced pans of a scale; you do this today and I'll do the same thing tomorrow, and so on.

"You don't think the pans will balance in that way?" I suggested.

"You know they won't, Dr. Popenoe. Men and women are too different. Men can do some things better, women other things better; you can't measure those things with a foot-rule and make them add up to 50-50."

* * *

"HOW WOULD YOU describe it?"

"Team-work—anybody can understand that."

"Agreed. But a team has a captain. That's the idea the feminists were trying to leave behind, isn't it?"

"You can't leave it behind. If the team hasn't a captain, it isn't a team. But a captain isn't a dictator—he's a coordinator. Or she's a co-ordinator, because in modern family life the wife has that position as often as the husband."

"At least among educated families in cities," I qualified. "It's not so true on farms."

* * *

"BUT FARM FAMILIES do much better team-work than city families," Mrs. V. argued. "Look—marriage is like paddling a canoe. The husband is probably stronger. He can paddle harder than his wife. But if she paddles as hard as she can, nobody criticises her—she's doing her best, and that's enough. In a team, or in a family doing team-work each does his best toward the common objective, which is the welfare and success of the team."

"Well, if each is doing his best, then they are on a 50-50 basis," I objected. "They may be doing very different things, but when these things are added up they come out as equal contributions . . ."

Nobody can add them up mathematically in that way, and you know it," Mrs. V. retorted. "It may be true in a purely metaphysical sense, but I don't want a metaphysical marriage. I want team-work!

QUESTION: You mentioned that girls in Minnesota are leaving the farms. Is that equally true in other states?

Answer: Yes, everywhere. Sociologist George W. Hill found that more than half the young women in more than half the counties of Wisconsin had left the farms. He says one in three of the young farmers in Wisconsin has no chance to marry a farm girl. If he marries a city girl, she may not fit into farm life. Bad prospect for the farmers, isn't it?

Q. Our child is three years old, which we think is "old enough to know better." We are having a difficult problem of discipline.

A. Who isn't? But remember what psychologist Arnold Gesell recently pointed out, that a child does not have much ability to make choices at that age: "Many things that look like obstinacy or bad behavior are simply immature behavior," and not to be punished.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE FOLLOWING letter about paying evening visits, asks: "Is it proper to go to see a new neighbor after I get home from business and have my supper? It is impossible for me to go during the day; weekends I've noticed they are away a good deal and I am pretty well confined to family duties myself."

Unless evening visiting is customary in your neighborhood, it would be best to call up your neighbors and ask if they like to see people in the evening. If they explain that they much prefer to see people in the daytime, then you have to try to go either on a Saturday afternoon or sometime on Sunday when they are home.

GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD

Mary Travels to Ain Karim to Confide in Her Cousin Elizabeth

By Fulton Oursler

CHAPTER THREE.

"WELL, Joseph?" demanded Joachim, something like truculence in his voice. "Now you've heard. What do you say?"

Joseph shook his head slowly and turned to the washbasin. From a jug that Mary had filled with water for him only the night before the carpenter poured a splash into the basin and dashed a handful on his face.

Joachim's face softened.

"She must have had," he agreed. "But can you imagine what it would be? This is an unheard-of thing, Joseph. A girl does not run off from her parents."

"And from her espoused one."

"And, of course, from her betrothed," Joachim agreed. "Why, only last night you two were setting the date for the wedding. Do you suppose she got a little giddy; overexcited, I mean? She is a very young girl."

"No, not Mary," declared Joseph firmly. "There was never another so composed as she. As serene. And," he added with an eloquence of words not usual in him, "unshakeable in her purposes. She loves me. She is going to marry me. Last night we made great plans. Something happened after I left her, I am sure of that; something good; we must believe when we do not know."

But the same thoughts were in both minds. The great southern road was long and difficult.

"If," sighed Joseph, answering his own doubts, "she had wanted me she would have called me. And God will protect her," he added, his voice breaking.

Joseph's faith was fully justified. As one under special protection Mary traversed the weary distance. She had walked only a few miles when a small caravan overtook her and offered her a donkey to ride to the next town.

Brooding she was, all the way; the wayfarers were struck by a feeling of special separateness that distinguished her. One of the least of them, a rakehell from the Damascus bazaars, gave her a cup of flavored water late one night and whispered:

"Where have you found such peace?"

There was no mirror for Mary to study; it would be days later before the peasant girl would notice for herself the pallor that was coming to her face and neck, arms, and the back of her hands, like cream over strawberries; the blood-red natural color of strength and youth was giving way to some newer and purer force taking possession.

Without a mirror she realized that something had taken hold of her and changed her. She felt as if she were a new person, a stranger, who—keeping all previous memories—was nevertheless different; a mixed awareness of glory and humility. She felt small and weak and yet powerfully protected.

An interpretatiaion of the oil painting attributed to B. E. Murello

ZACHARY, JOHN THE BAPTIST AS AN INFANT, AND ELIZABETH.

This was the way she had felt ever since the Annunciation of the Angel. And this was so, even while thoughts of reality persisted; they were of Anna and Joachim a little, and of Joseph a little more. How could she tell him? Cousin Elizabeth must advise her.

* * *

IT was nearing sunset of the third day when she found herself back in the tiny suburb of Ain Karim; and there was her cousin, six months big with child, sitting on the dooryard stoop.

Now Mary had come all the long distance to Elizabeth, not because she doubted the angel but because she believed in him. Yet even the trust of Mary was startled at the confirming greeting she received.

"Hail, Mary!" cried Elizabeth happily. "Blessed are you among women!"

The dusty figure of Mary stopped short in the road. Those very words she had heard before—from the angel!

"You repeat the angel's words to me, Cousin Elizabeth. How did you know?"

Elizabeth embraced her, and then whispered:

"For look, as soon as the voice of your salutation sounded in my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy. And you are blessed because you have believed, because those things shall be accomplished that were spoken to you by the Lord."

With a sob of relief Mary flung herself into the arms of Elizabeth. Then, speaking very softly, she uttered the words of her Magnificat, all unaware that the world would sing those words and pray them for thousands of years, but pouring them out for the first time in the consolation of her communion with Elizabeth:

"My soul doth magnify the Lord; and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. Because He hath regarded the humility of His handmaid; for behold from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed. Because He that is mighty hath done great things to me; and holy is His name. And His mercy is from generation into generation, to them that fear Him."

As at last Elizabeth led her into the house, she whispered:

"Do you realize that you are pregnant already?"

* * *

MARY'S eyes entreated her.

'I have not known a man." She trembled.

"You believe me. You know," she quavered. "But how can anyone else ever believe me? Will not Joseph be sure to think . . ."

"What would any man think in his place?" asked Elizabeth. "But God, Who has shown us these things, will surely show us how to talk with Joseph. Come in now. No more deep talk until you have rested."

The kindness with which she was received on her arrival never once wavered in the months that followed. In her advancing pregnancy Elizabeth was not strong enough to do the housework and so Mary remained to be a maid to her until the child was delivered. At once she wrote notes home, explaining this as her intention. She also told her mother that she had passed through an experience of which it was impossible for her to write. When she came back to Nazareth she would confide everything. To Joseph she sent a dutiful and tender note, telling him that the time was soon coming when she would explain to him why she had to leave so suddenly.

She remained in Ain Karim until the great day when, as the angel had predicted, a man-child, was born to Elizabeth. And, true even to the last prophetic accent of the angel, Zachary immediately found his voice again!

Suddenly Samuel, the trader, returned from Jerusalem and called on Joseph.

"I think," the carpenter said, "I notice a change in you, Samuel."

"No, I am just the same."

"Let be, then."

"Please, Joseph, what kind of change did you think you saw in me?"

"You look hunted. And furtive! And frightened!"

Samuel instantly became serious.

"There is never a moment when I am not in fear of my life. The last time I talked to you, I thought I knew all about the wickedness of Reb Naamaan. But now. . ."

"Who is Reb Naamaan?" asked Joseph innocently.

Samuel whispered in his friend's ear.

"King Herod. We never dare mention his real name when we talk. The sound of that name in your mouth will bring a spy to your elbow instantly; if they misunderstood you, it may cost you your life. So we never mention him except in code. Joseph, his deeds would shame a tiger."

"More beast than man, then?" asked Joseph in a sad tone.

There was a moment's silence and then Samuel came nearer Joseph, towering above him, and clamped both hands on his shoulders.

"Joseph," he cried, "hasn't the time come for you to change your mind? How goes it with you? The last time I was here you were mooning about marrying some girl you never met. But you're still a bachelor. Her father refused you, then? Come with me to Jerusalem. . . ."

* * *

"SHE accepted me!" protested Joseph, leaping to his feet. We are to be married in a few days."

"Then where is she? Where is the excitement? Where are the wedding preparations?"

Joseph looked distressed.

"You see, Samuel," he explained, "she has a cousin who has not been in the best of health. She went to see that cousin. I am expecting her back any day."

"You're still hard to figure out," Samuel grumbled. "But look here, Joseph. I am with a caravan that rests in Nazareth tonight. Come down with me this evening to the camp fire. Let's have supper together. And sing a few songs for old time's sake."

Sunset found Joseph at the camp with his friend by a small fire of dried twigs. They ate and listened to the roistering voices of the minstrels, who sang to Dionysos, god of wine and the drama. Pagan songs, yarns, about the gods of Rome and how they mated with mortal women, breeding half-gods who always stirred up a lot of trouble in the world.

"Now you're hearing something," gloated Samuel. "Not those sickening old psalms. Did you hear that song of the god and the woman?"

"Of course, Joseph. And does that not have a personal meaning for you? Didn't you tell me a year ago that you would not fight for the freedom of the people because God promised to send a deliverer, wasn't that it?"

"Right."

"Who was to be God's own son, and born of the virgin? Am I not now quoting the prophecies?"

"Yes, Samuel."

"Can't you see, Joseph, that it is all just an old wives' tale—told in every language? Every silly religion teaches the same thing. They all have the same story of gods having children by mortal women. You are making your decision on a fairy tale. You are believing in a universal nonsense."

"In universal truth," he replied with the same tranquil conviction that always annoyed Samuel with its force. "Even though some people worship these false gods, and believe in myths, the Messiah will not come just for our people, but for all—for everybody!"

And then before they could speak more a hand was thrust from the darkness behind him and tapped the carpenter on the shoulder. Startled, he turned swiftly, looking into the face of Joachim.

"Peace be with you," the young man breathed, aware of sudden fear.

"And the Lord be with you, Joseph. I came over to ask you to come to your shop. Mary is there, waiting for you. She says she wants to talk with you at once. Alone."

Tomorrow: Joseph Dreams a dream.

'Everyone Should Plan Retirement'

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

ALL of us should plan some type of new career for ourselves after the age of 65. This means everyone should prepare for retirement. Retiring, to be really effective, does not mean simply quitting work.

One may retire successfully and still work at a new occupation. The pace set by long years of active work must be maintained to some extent or there is often mental or physical deterioration. Many people have a fear of retiring because of the anxiety associated with making the enforced change. This fear is not based solely on economic reasons.

A successful retirement may add 10 years to a man's life whereas an unsuccessful retirement may be the cause of his early death. Industries have begun to appreciate these facts, and many progressive industries are attempting to assist their employes to plan their careers after they retire. This makes more contented and better employes. It would be surprising to most people to learn that most large industries consider their best employes to be those over 45 years old.

For their tests, new jet jobs have been gassed with the usual fuels. Nothing is known of how fast and high they would zoom with benzedrine inhalers.

"Would you kindly enlighten me about correct evening attire? I am in college and go to proms, etc., yet I have never been certain as to whether stockings are essential or whether they are out of place. Some of my friends say yes and others say not, therefore I am writing to you."

Answer: Perhaps you and your friends are doubtful about stockings as an "essential" part of your evening clothes because you grew up during the war when they were scarce. That's the only time they were ever omitted, day or night. Now that they are available again they are always correct, and formal evening clothes are not complete without them. Even in warmer months the new sheer nylons are comfortable and look so much smarter and more attractive than bare toes. Some girls are already looking forward to new knee-high nylons with elastic tops; they plan to wear them with evening dresses as well as daytime clothes when they are available.

"We are a group of high school girls and we seem to play the same games over and over at parties. Could you suggest some new ones?" Ans.—For party games that are good "mixers," fun for both girls and boys, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope at this paper.

"Please tell me how to act with boys—and what to say." Ans.—Be interested in what they say; be natural; make a remark or ask questions to start the conversation and keep it going. Act as if it were fun to be with them. Everybody loves to be appreciated, so admire something they do well. Boys like to talk about sports, school games, hobbies. Include compliments. Women may have vanity, but it's nothing compared to the male ego!

Contract Bridge

The actual bidding at one table was:

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♦	Pass	3♥	Pass
4♦	Pass	5♦ (!)	Pass
6♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

To quote:

"We made the contract, for all of the five trumps West held, because the club king was right, but we did not get a good score because several North-South pairs made six no-trump, and others made seven hearts.

"North argues that South should have bid four hearts over three hearts, while South insists that this might have closed the bidding. South felt that North should have bid four hearts over four diamonds to show his 6-5 distribution in the club and heart suits, after which a slam in hearts could be bid by using the Blackwood convention. . . . Please comment."

South might indeed have bid four hearts instead of four diamonds, but his actual choice should have done no great harm. Most certainly, North should have described his exact distribution by rebidding the hearts. North's support of diamonds was (to put it mildly) rather peculiar, in view of his diamond void. Sometimes, this type of raise is excellent, but this was not one of those times!

If North had rebid the hearts, South presumably would have raised him in the suit, and then North could cue-bid spades. This would have led to at least a small slam contract at no-trump.

Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

"AFTERNYOON" IS WRONG LET'S STAMP IT OUT!

DURING recent years an absurd trick of speech has been heard on the radio with increasing frequency—that of giving the long "u" sound (yoo) to words in which it should never occur.

It first came to my attention when Californians in large numbers reported broadcasters as saying "nyoon" for noon and "afternyoon" for afternoon.

I wrote several columns about the error, but to no avail. The reports increased. An announcer was heard to declare that a certain brand of aftershave lotion has a "cyooling" effect on the skin. A woman broadcaster urged her listeners to try her sponsor's "chicken nyoodle syoop."

I myself heard a newscaster mispronounce all these words on a single 15-minute broadcast: "afternyoon" for afternoon, "tyoo" for to, too and two, "dyoo" for do, "syoon" for soon, "dyoom" for doom, and "tyoor" for tour.

Incredible? Granted; but a fact, nevertheless.

The comments that have reached me lead me to believe that a Southern California school of speech for broadcasters has actually been teaching that such pronunciations are correct American usage. As the students leave the school, they carry the insane misuse with them to other parts of the country.

If my surmise is correct, the offending school (or teacher, or whatever or whoever is to blame) should be publicly exposed for malpractice. We Americans make enough errors as it is, without paying someone good money to dream up for us such asinine mistakes as "afternyoon, syoon, dyoom," etc.

I should like very much to hear from speech students whose teachers have taught or are teaching the "yoo" sound in such words as afternoon, noon, soon, cool, noodle, soup, doom, to, too, two, do, tour. Write to me in care of this paper, giving full particulars. You have my word that your identity will not be disclosed by me.

It's an Idea

A decorator suggests papering window shades. She doesn't say how; or what kind of paste to use—but, it's an idea.

Bread pudding is especially enjoyable when it is served just after it has cooled at room temperature; garnish it with a little red current jelly for extra appeal. Shredded coconut is a delicious garnish for chocolate bread pudding.

Apricot Crisp

Ingredients: 1⅓ cups canned drained apricot halves, ⅓ cup all-purpose flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine.

Method: Place well drained canned apricot halves in a baking dish. Put flour, salt, brown sugar and butter or margarine in a mixing bowl and mix together thoroughly, using a pastry blender or fingertips. Sprinkle layer of this mixture over the apricots and bake in a moderate (350F.) oven for about an hour, until topping is lightly browned. Serve with thin cream, if desired. Makes four to six servings.

"These intellectual forums have certainly been an education ...I've never known so much about my neighbor's business before..."

REX MORGAN, M. D.—By Dal Curtis

YOU NEVER HAVE BOSS FOR PATIENT, HUH, DOC?
NO! I NEVER HEARD OF HUGO RENSALEER! I HAVEN'T BEEN PRACTICING IN GLENBROOK LONG!
YOU HEAR ABOUT HIM PLENTY FROM NOW ON!...HERE'S FIRST GATE!
THE FIRST GATE?
IT'S OKAY! THIS NEW DOC FOR OLD MAN!
JACQUELINE! DIDN'T KARL TELL YOU I WANTED YOU AT ONCE?!

STEVE ROPER—By Saunders and Woggon

WELL! I GOT A STAY OF EXECUTION! --FOR A WHILE, ANYHOW! MAYBE I CAN FIND OUT WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT BEFORE THEY WIRE THAT MOTOR BLOCK TO MY FEET AND PUT ME IN THAT GARBAGE CAN WITH THE RADIO MAN!
WAIT! I'LL GO UPSTAIRS WITH YOU!
A Moment Later
TELL THEM TO SEND THE SMALL BOAT UNDER THE PIER, AS USUAL, AND WHISTLE FOR A LADDER!
OKAY, CRUNCH! I'LL START BLINKING!
